Pair Cling To Brink Of Death: Rescued

STARK TRAGEDY PERILS RICHEST OF GRAIN CROPS

GALES AGAIN WHIP SLAVE LAKE ZONES

Fury of Winds is Spent On Hard-Pressed Village

LESSER SLAVE LAKE, Aug. 15—Whipping waters of the Lesser Slave Lake into furious waves after leaving them calm for slightly more than a week, a terrific gale was lashing Lesser Slave Lake village Thursday. Rain is falling, adding to the discomfort of settlers.

Rail repair work on sections of the N.A.R. near Lesser Slave Lake is encouraged and it is doubtful if a train scheduled to leave Edmonton Thursday afternoon will be able to make passage. A southbound train passed over flood-affected trackage near here with difficulty Wednesday evening.

Fishermen, encouraged by reports that Northern Alberta Railways were planning to accept fish for shipment this week and who rust their nets as a consequence, will probably find themselves unable to sell their catch, as a result of the new storm.

Five Million Acres of Land Must be Burned for Rust

Manitoba and Saskatchewan Farmers Face Sad Calamity

Five million acres of the richest crop the Manitoba and Saskatchewan drought area has ever seen will have to be burned off with oil, it was disclosed by Major H. G. L. Strange, chief of the Searle Grain research bureau when he arrived in Edmonton Thursday, following a swing across the prairies on an extensive inspection tour.

Major Strange is directing the forces of five grain firms, the Searle, British American, National, Northern and Midland and Pacific, three provincial governments, the federal government, three western universities, the dominion seed branch, the experimental farms, 840 elevator agents and 22,000 farmers who are all co-operating on an immense crop testing plan, designed to make all Canadian wheat grade No. 1 Northern.

BLEW IN FROM MEXICO

All of Manitoba and the eastern half of Saskatchewan has been infected with rust which blew up from Mexico on the wings of the prevailing southerly winds, said Major Strange.

Nine million acres have been infected, half of which must be burned off with oil to prevent future infection.

HUGE PUBLIC DEBT SHOWN BY AUDITOR

Alberta's Net Obligations Total $153,014,994.06 At June 30

Alberta's net funded and unfunded debt as at June 30, 1935, amounted to $153,014,994.06 as against $150,609,949.79 at March 31, 1935, a net increase in the three months period the first three months of the current fiscal year, of $2,405,944.77, according to a statement dealing with provincial receipts, payments and public debt released on Thursday by James C. Thompson, provincial auditor. These statements are issued quarterly by authority of a legislative resolution.

At June 30, this year, the funded debt of the province totalled $148,048,010.69, which less sinking funds of $10,162,224.31 would amount to $137,884,785.58.

The unfunded debt, at the same date, amounted to $17,244,895.95, which less investments of $2,114,687.47 amounted to $15,130,208.46.

Thus the net funded debt of

Autocracy In Canada Will End October 14 Mackenzie King Says

That Date Will See Return of Responsible Liberal Government and a New Day in History Of Canada.

WINGHAM, Ont., Aug. 15—Autocracy in Canada will end on Oct. 14, Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, declared Wednesday as he received word of the date of the general election.

The news came in a telegram handed to him just as he was ending his address at a Liberal rally here, an address in which he compared Prime Minister R. B. Bennett to Hitler and Mussolini and described the Conservative government as a dictatorship.

"Let me tell Mr. Bennett here and now," said Mr. King, "that Oct. 14 will see the end of the worst autocracy Canada has ever had. It will see the end of autocratic government. It will see also the return of a Liberal government and of responsible government and a new day in the history of our country."

RESPONSIBILITY DESTROYED

Comparing the struggle of the Liberal party for office now with the struggle for responsible government in Canada a century ago Mr. King said Mr. Bennett had shown

SNOWDEN SEES NEW DISASTER IN WORLD WAR

Former Labor Chief Says Europe on Brink of Horror

By ROGER GREENE

Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press

TILFORD, Surrey, Aug. 15—Viscount Snowden, former Labor chancellor of the exchequer, broke a lifetime rule today to give an interview in which he said Europe is on the brink of a new world war "not possible to contemplate."

(Yesterday he wrote to the Times, criticizing British policy in the Ethiopian dispute.)

"Mussolini has for all practical purposes already declared war," he said.

"He has been massing troops on the borders of Ethiopia for months and is only waiting for suitable conditions to launch an attack.

"This aim and ambition will not stop short with the conquest of Ethiopia. If successful in this enterprise his next move will be to absorb Austria. That attempt will bring Germany into war and as European nations are now bound together with innumerable pacts and treaties, a general war would be inevitable."

Viscount Snowden

The 71-year-old Laborite, once Ramsay MacDonald's great friend and ally and now his enemy, attacked what he termed the impotent policy of Britain and France, as "playing into the hands of Italy." He declared the British government has been afraid to take a strong line with Italy and predicted the present Paris tri-power conference will end in "nothing but talk."

The United States, he asserted, bears an honor-bound responsibility as the Briand-Kellogg Pact.

"Not only is the covenant of the League but the Kellogg Pact at stake and if Mussolini is allowed to plunge into war without restraint, then that pact, as well as the League covenant, becomes a scrap of paper and all safeguards for enforcing international law and international morality will have gone by the board."

Huey Is Bound To Run Anyway

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Senator Huey Long announced today he would be an independent candidate for the presidency in 1936, "if the Republicans go Hoover, the Democrats go Roosevelt and there is no other Liberal candidate." The Louisiana political boss called Hoover and Roosevelt "twin bed mates of disaster."

CORONATION, Aug. 15—A large crowd greeted Hon. Ian Mackenzie of Vancouver, at the Elks' hall Wednesday afternoon, his forceful presentation of federal issues bringing frequent applause throughout his address.

With him on the platform were H. S. Northwood, chairman of the Coronation Liberal Association, Rupert Densmore, Liberal candidate for Acadia riding and M. J. Hennessy, Liberal candidate for Stettler constituency. Short addresses were given by each of these before the chairman introduced the speaker of the day.

VOTING WRIT RETURNABLE NOVEMBER 9

Originally Proposed to Hold Dominion Election On September 30

By THOS. WAYLING

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Aug. 15—The Governor General rushed to Ottawa Wednesday, spent five hours in his office and then rushed back to the citadel at Quebec.

In the five hours he received the resignations of four cabinet ministers, swore in four new ministers, signed the commissions of a number of senators and civil servants and of men appointed to offices of emolument under the crown.

At 5 o'clock a short statement was handed out naming the five new ministers and His Excellency hurried off.

At 5:45 the prime minister announced that parliament had been dissolved and the election set for Oct. 14. He then announced the appointments that the Governor General had already made. The writ will be dated Thursday," said Mr. Bennett and will be returnable Nov. 9.

Liberal Pledges Of Action Emphasized By Alberta Leader

PONOKA, Aug. 15—In this town, the heart of Ex-Premier Brownlee's home riding some 250 persons crowded Elks Hall Wednesday night giving W. R. Howson, Alberta Liberal leader, with Eddie Shore a rousing Liberal rally. Robert McLaren, constituency candidate who prefers to be more familiarly known as "Alfalfa Bob" was also a speaker. Applause, but not a single question from any source term.inated the rally, at which the leader and his supporters expounded various planks of the Liberal platform. It was Wednesday's second incursion of the Liberals to Mr. Brownlee's riding, an afternoon rally being held at Rimbey where a good crowd attended and appreciation of the leader's visit was expressed.

Monetary reform comprised the major portion of Mr. Howson's night speech. Liberal pledges of action in this regard were strongly emphasized as the only logical and practical means of averting financial chaos. References to Aberhart Social Credit were brief, the speaker in the main urging Ponoka riding electorate to realize the serious present predicament of the province, and not to be led blindfold up a dark and untried alley with a brick wall at the end of it. Commonsense thinking was Alberta's prime necessity during the ensuing week preceding election, said Mr. Howson.

CENTRAL BANK

By the creation of a publicly owned and operated Central Bank which would have behind it all the developed and undeveloped resources of the nation, plus the ensuing power of the people, their farms, homes, stocks, credit to provinces would be available, Alberta as one of the nine units comprising this general credit should receive from the dominion credit

Wife of 'Ace' In Diplomacy

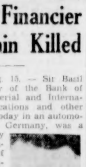

Sir Anthony Eden, Britain's most brilliant diplomat, has time for a happy domestic life as well as for playing a large part in settlement of European crisis, and here is Mrs. Eden proud of her husband's sensational rise, as a statesman. She was photographed after she bade him goodby at Croydon airdrome as he left for a League parley.

Noted Banker, Leading Financier Of Britain Killed

LONDON, Aug. 15. — Sir Basil Blackett, director of the Bank of England, of Imperial and International Communications and other concerns, killed today in an automobile accident in Germany, was a world authority on economic matters and one of the leading financiers of Great Britain.

He was among the group of economists and financiers recently consulted by David Lloyd George in connection with his new deal plan.

Sir Basil three years ago wrote the book "Planned Money" in which he suggested a new monetary system which he labelled "Bancarol."

Sir Basil

In 1933, Sir Basil narrowly escaped death when an airliner in which he was a passenger made a forced landing in an African jungle.

In 1920 he married Miss Beatrice Bonner, the daughter of the late Edward H. Bonner of New York.

Boy Hospital Shut-In Gets That Longed-For Radio

Gallant Youngster With Broken Back Now a Happy Lad

Norman Tufton, 13-year-old "shut-in" at the General hospital has radio now.

Readers of The Bulletin were touched in the past few days when they read the story of the little sufferer who has already been five years in hospital suffering from a broken back as the result of a pony accident.

Always smiling the gallant youngster had only one wish, to have a radio so that he "could get all the programs."

The Bulletin published his request and today he gets the radio. With a Winnipegger sending in a donation of $5 and a girl sympathizer another 50 cents, to add to those donations already received, Norman White of the Independent Labor Party stepped into the picture.

"How soon can you get that radio to Norman?" he asked. "As soon as we get the money," he was told, and the balance of the money needed was immediately handed over by Mr. White. It was just as easy as that. "The Independent Labor Party will take care of it," said Mr. White as he dug down for $12.50.

That's why Norman Tufton has his radio today for Dirk Jones of Jones and Cross, Ltd., saw to it that the promise made by him for the firm was carried out and Norman Tufton is now the proud owner of a five-tube Westinghouse mantel radio, put in at cost, through the generosity of Jones and Cross, the Independent Labor Party and Bulletin readers who rallied to the cause.

NORMAN TUFTON

"And believe me, it gets all the programs," said Norman today as he thanked everybody through The Bulletin.

P.E.I. NOW IN LIBERAL HANDS

CHARLOTTETOWN, Aug. 15—A new government took office in Prince Edward Island today, headed by Hon. Walter M. Lea and backed by a full house of Liberals.

Its members took the oath from Lieut.-Governor George Deblois in Province House, historic old Confederation chamber within three hours after Premier W. J. P. MacMillan had resigned with the Conservative government with net defeat at the polls July 23.

After four years as opposition leader, the new premier, one of the island's most successful farmers, again took up his old portfolio of agriculture, and, in addition, he assumed the portfolio of provincial secretary-treasurer.

KING DELAYS TRIP TO WEST

OTTAWA, Aug. 13.—With the date of the general election (Oct 14) later than anticipated, Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, will delay his Western Canada campaign tour until September, it was stated at Liberal headquarters today. Mr. King had planned leaving for Winnipeg early next week. He will probably remain in Ottawa until the end of the month.

BENNETT'S SOUND MONEY POLICY IS RUINOUS, CHARGE

Small Financial Group Controlling Canada's Credit Increased Profits 20 Per Cent. Past Five Years

Bennett Refuses To Allow Parliament Authority to Curb Usury Rates—Kills the Bill

Scathingly denouncing Premier R. B. Bennett's "sound money" advocacy and devotion to the god of gold; verbally chastising those who plied what the essayist Bacon characterized as the "lazy trade of usury" and telling in convincing, forceful language how financiers had increased their profits by 20 per cent in the last five years of depression while producers and merchants had had their earnings slashed by an average of 50 per cent in the same period, Hon. H. H. Stevens, leader of the newly formed Reconstruction party and former Dominion minister of trade and commerce in the Bennett government in addressing a capacity throng at the Empire theatre on Wednesday night, called upon the people of Canada to put an end to this condition of affairs and take away from the few the monopoly of Canada's credit.

Political history was made by Hon. Mr. Stevens when he delivered his address, in which he subjected the money barons and disciples of "sound money" to one of the most concentrated, merciless verbal lashings ever heard here.

TREMENDOUS OVATION

The dynamic, volatile speaker, whose name has become a household word by reason of his crusade in exposing the evils of merchandising through his price spreads probe at Ottawa, was given a tremendous ovation when he was introduced to the gathering by Chairman George W. Hallett. Periodic outbursts of applause rose in surging waves over the auditorium as Hon. Mr. Stevens delivered one body blow after another to the punishment-absorbing financiers. At the end of his address he was given a reception the like of which

CONSERVATIVE PARTY SUFFERS BIG DEFECTION

Prospects Of Opposition Victory Send Many Into Retirement

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—The rigors of a general election and the prospect of the cold shades of opposition have sent nearly two score Conservative members of parliament to the new haven of the senate, to government jobs, or to retirement.

Out of 130 Tory members 19 have been given senatorships or jobs and 16 to 20 have retired and will not run in the election. It is the biggest defection from any party known to old party men.

The members who have found safety in the senate include Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Hon. Arthur Sauve,

SNOW, BUT NO FROST IS SEEN

King Winter had the first fling of his 1935-36 reign north of Edmonton Wednesday.

Snow was reported at scattered points, but, although cold weather was general, no frost was suffered, according to the Government Telegraph Service report Thursday.

Peace River country was blanketed. Rivulets and streams resulting from the melting snow washed out small bridges, making motor traffic impossible.

Rain accompanied snow in many sections and roads at practically all points north of Lesser Slave Lake were in impossible condition Thursday.

PEACE RIVER IS AGAIN FLOODED

PEACE RIVER, Aug. 15—For the second time this summer, Peace River town is being flooded by turbulent waters of Pat's creek. The stream, swollen by two days continuous rain, is swirling madly down the main street of the town.

Business men have been forced to vacate their stores and to rescue stock from flood-invaded places of business. The power plant has fallen victim to flood waters and the townspeople will be without electricity until the flood subsides.

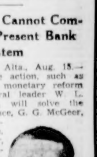

Mayor Lipsey is directing repair and salvage operations with a large crew of men and many trucks being used to combat the raging creek.

NATION-WIDE ACTION IS NEED AVERS M'GEER

Social Credit Cannot Compete With Present Bank System

HIGH RIVER, Alta., Aug. 15.—Only nation-wide action, such as proposed in the monetary reform policies of Liberal leader W. L. Mackenzie King, will solve the problems of finance, G. G. McGeer, Vancouver barrister, declared here.

Mr. McGeer, who is campaigning in the interest of the Alberta Liberals, in reference to the Alberta Social Credit League, told the electors here last night that no single province could compete with the money powers.

G. G. McGeer

"The bankers," he said, "have us in a prison with a hundred different locks. You can open 99 of them, but the door is still closed. The remaining key is the one that is going to make monetary reform which the bankers won't agree to."

The only way of meeting the bankers' monopoly, he added, was by control of currency and credit in terms of industrial and domestic public needs. No provincial legislature had the jurisdiction to inaugurate any new scheme which threatened invasion of the existing money monopoly.

SELASSIE SURE OF BRITON AID

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia still has confidence, he avowed in an interview published today by the News-Chronicle that Great Britain and France will prevent invasion or partition of his country by Italy.

"I do not believe France and Great Britain will add a new injustice to those Italy is committing towards us," the emperor said.

CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY! Now Being Compiled

A classified Directory of Edmonton's business houses, professional men and institutions is now being compiled by The Bulletin. It is a co-operative work undertaken with the object of providing a reference guide to the business and professional men and institutions of the city.

Publication will first be made in the columns of The Bulletin. The directory will then be issued in book form, classified and alphabetically arranged so that the information can be had at a glance.

The first page of the book will contain useful information concerning the city in general, followed by a handy guide and reference to the business and professional people and institutions of Edmonton.

There will be no display advertising of any kind in the directory book. All type will be uniform, alphabetically arranged, as to classification and name.

These directory books will be distributed free.

A listing charge of $4 is being made for including your card in this work. No personal solicitation will be made, however an invitation will be extended to you by telephone to co-operate in getting out this representative directory.

If your name is not listed in the phone book, call a business telephone call 26121.

has been seldom equalled in Edmonton.

2,000 IN THEATRE

It is estimated that no fewer than 2,000 persons jammed their way into the Empire theatre. The size of the commodious auditorium fairly bulged with enthusiastic humanity. Every seat was taken long before Hon. Mr. Stevens, accompanied by Mrs. Stevens and A. C. MacKay, his party organizer in Alberta, arrived on the platform.

The large corps of ushers and other theatre attendants were hardpressed to find extra chairs.

Several hundred were rushed up and put on the stage. Many encountered regulations and forced their way down aisles. The foyer of the theatre was jammed with standees and hundreds of late-comers found the doors closed and they were forced to turn away. Police appointed at not hearing the vigorous assault upon the financial citadels being done in control of Canada's wealth.

SPEECH BROADCAST

And while the theatre was jammed and packed to the walls to hear Mr. Stevens, countless thousands listened in on the radio.

Through the facilities of station CFRN the radio audience received a message of needed monetary reform and the necessity of legislation to sweep aside forever, the domination of the "sound money" advocates.

A pretty ceremony preceded Hon. Mr. Stevens' address.

Mrs. Stevens was introduced to the audience by Chairman Hazlett and was the recipient of a beautiful bouquet of assorted flowers.

In delivering his determined, unremitting assault on the forces of sound money Hon. Mr. Stevens adduced facts and figures.

"The cause of the dislocation of economic conditions is the ever increasing concentration of control of industry, commerce, credit and associated activities," he said.

"There is no other country in the world where the wealth is controlled by so few as in Canada. This statement cannot be challenged and is a terrible indictment of Canadian democracy."

Turning to chapter and verse to prove his contention of huge profits accruing to financiers while producers were starved from the low and diminishing returns, Hon. Mr. Stevens produced statements compiled by the pension income tax officials.

"Here is a statement, a copy of which any of you can get by applying to the Income Tax Bureau," he said.

TAX SUB-DIVISIONS

"It shows the various sub-divisions under which income tax is collected, such as agriculturists, retail merchants, financiers and others. In all classifications, save one, there is a sharp diminution of income in the five years.

"Agriculture has suffered diminution of profits of 52 per cent; retail merchandising 52 per cent; natural resources 40 per cent and transportation 46 per cent.

"But the figures show an increase of 20 per cent.

"In other words, every category that produces wealth shows a loss in the last five years. But one category shows a phenomenal increase in the years of depression and that is the financier category."

Dealing with the procedure by which wealth was being concentrated in the hands of the few, Hon. Mr. Stevens said: "In the four years preceding 1929 interest rates and dividends rose, while wages fell and rose in the years since the depression came, the 'lazy trade of usury' began its upward climb, producers' returns have diminished by 50 per cent.'

GOLD STANDARD OBSOLETE

Amid cheers, Hon. Mr. Stevens declared that the "gold standard is obsolete."

He quoted Hon. Reginald McKenna, chairman of the Midland Bank as stating there was no hope of stabilizing foreign exchange until a new basis was accepted for currency.

"Mr. Stevens, who is now in favor of the Social Credit theories politically owned, asked the question, 'why should not currency be issued against the best reserve in the world of 25 per cent?' This is considered by international authorities as being entirely safe for such an asset.

"Today Canada is shipping 100 million dollars worth of gold per year out of the country. Why not keep some of this gold and issue four times the currency against it?" he asked.

"This country needs cheap money and that is one way to get it without paying tribute to it," Mr. Bennett insists on shipping all gold out of the country leaving us with dear money," the speaker declared.

"Britain's 'cheap money policy' has helped in the economic recovery there and the Bennett 'dear money policy' has retarded trade and prevented recovery in Canada," he declared.

"Immediate lowering of interest rates in Canada is a prime need. The present high interest rates cannot be endured by this or any country to survive, to say nothing of progress.

"If we persist in this dear money policy of Mr. Bennett we will have to be content with less than we can by right be sustained or justified and history shows that countries which persisted in it paid a terrible penalty—that to grief. Parliament has authority and machinery for lowering interest rates."

BITINGING ATTACK

Mr. Stevens then delivered a stinging attack on Premier Bennett for failing to deal at the last session of parliament to reduce interest rates and scored him for unceremoniously killing a bill introduced by C. G. Coote, member for Macleod, which aimed at easing the interest burden.

"Mr. Coote," said Hon. Mr. Stevens, "introduced a bill to lower interest to four per cent. This bill was sent to the finance committee, with the minister of finance sitting. It is committee on which the government has a majority and in fact a government committee, with the members often doing what the minister of finance decides.

BILL CAME BACK

"After committee discussion, this bill came back to the house of commons with the figure changed from four to six per cent, obviously changed to suit the finance companies.

"Mr. Coote didn't like this change, but thought that it was an admission that this was the limit of mortgage companies interest and was prepared to let it stand.

"But when the bill came back, Premier Bennett rose in his place and moved that the committee 'rise' which in parliamentary language means that the bill be put to instant death and extinction."

Perquisveal opposition to the relief work camps policy of Premier R. B. Bennett, with the payment of 20 cents a day, was voiced by Hon. Mr. Stevens.

lacy of the Aberhart proposals for the province, Mr. Mackenzie reviewed the major causes of world unrest today, the Great War, post war conditions and the following exploitation and credit ending in the financial debacle of 1929.

Contrasting Liberal policies with the record of the Bennett government during the past five years, the speaker cited specially Canada's loss of trade through high tariffs, the Central Bank of Canada being made a private institution and the borrowing powers transferred to local bodies by the marketing board.

Hon. H. H. Stevens a high tariff man and protagonist of Mr. Bennett had issued a manifesto, largely made, by scissors and paste, from the program of the Liberals. A year ago Mr. Stevens had voted for a private Bank of Canada and now calls for its nationalization.

TRIBUTE TO HOWSON

After explaining the clauses of the Liberal platform, recovering our world trade, reform of the monetary system, public ownership of the national bank, reduction of interest rates and control of the national debt, he paid a tribute to Mr. Howson as a fearless and progressive English leader who had gone down among the people to find what they wanted, before bringing out his proposals. He had too much faith in the intelligence of the Alberta people to think they would accept the fantastic proposals of Aberhart, which meant isolation for the province. He asked his hearers to give Mr. Howson a trial, but to vote for one that would mean co-operation with the rest of Canada.

11, all of which indicated a tremendous overhanging debt.

Between 1920 and 1930 there were 120 mergers involving between 300 and 600 firms.

"In packing, dairying, canning and other industries affecting the daily life of our people there has been great concentration of wealth going on—re-financing they call it—and this is done with large commissions being paid to those who negotiate arrangements. In some cases the concentrations started with only greatly enhanced capital, for which the public are now paying."

EXPANDED BUSINESS

"Turning our attention particularly to farm implement companies and their operations he declared that they had expanded their business in Canada and "forced a great quantity of machinery on farmers.

"From 1923 to 1931 there were $73,000,000 worth of combines sold in Canada, but only 40,000 were universely bought. If the crop is ever the combine will cut smoothly, but if the ground is rough, it will not. In the peak year $45,000,000 worth of combines was sold.

"Now this capital cost proved too heavy for the farmer to bear at present depressed prices for his products, netting from 35 to 70 cents for his wheat at Edmonton. In the low year of farm implements $20,000,000 worth had been sold in Canada and yet some farmers had paid as high as 23 per cent interest."

But the farmer was forced to pay the tremendous overhead.

"When the weight of overhead bears down on the primary producer on the one hand and the worker on the other and when you have concentration of wealth and control of industry, you will find the main cause of existing economic conditions.

PRICE SET AT TORONTO

A similar illustration was drawn regarding the livestock industry. "What chance has any one of the 600,000 farmers of Canada to determine what price he can get for his product in livestock when the price is set at Toronto by one firm? I stand four-square behind establishment of a board to supervise the livestock industry. That is the main concern of which will be to look after the interests of the primary producer."

He scored those who deprecated government entry and interference in business.

In view of such matters as he had enumerated, he declared, "it would have been criminally neglectful if governments had intervened in the stock markets before 1929 and scrutinized the true values of the produced regulatory measures to prevent same."

DAIRY INDUSTRY

"Exponent of the Alberta dairy industry was another matter that drew intense fire from the Reconstruction leader.

He recalled that when he himself was a resident of Montreal at Vancouver, he bought butter from Innisfail and other Alberta dairies.

"What are farmers getting for their butterfat now?" he asked. "They are getting from 12 cents to 15 cents and yet this year in July in February or April for 30 cents. What happens in the meantime? Subsidized cold storage facilities had been borne by the Britishers in an effort to rehabilitate the country.

"There are 40,000,000 pounds of butter in cold storage and the primary producer will be told that there is no room for this, he can get no increase for his product. The same story will be told to retail milk dealers when the price to the producer. This is how dairy mergers controlled by a handful of men operate.

"Should governments interfere? I claim they are dilatory and should step in when under control falls into the hands of a few."

Hon. Mr. Stevens touched on many other matters briefly.

He refuted an allegation by Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture for Ontario, that 50,000 men in two counties in Ontario had been "swindled" of $40,000 in a cattle deal in which discrimination had been given to a private firm by the government.

DETAILED REFUTATION

A detailed refutation of the charge was given, with Hon. Mr. Stevens pointing out that in last session's estimates an item of $42,000 had been provided to reimburse the farmers for losses incurred.

Man Performs Sinus

Operation On Himself

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—A 40-year-old Trinidad oil driller, who performed a sinus operation on himself a year ago without an anaesthetic and then came here to have doctors do a "real job of it," couldn't understand today why hospital attendants were a bit bewildered at the success of his crude but effective method.

He is Charles Eggert, 250 pounder who said he is anxious to "get back to my string of tools" in Port of Spain now that he has got the sinus trouble licked."

The left side of his face puffed out with surgical dressing and a silver tube buried in his nose, Eggert said he had pushed a silver tube up his nose to break through the nostril bone into the left antrum of his face to release the pressure of an infection that had formed in that inner cavity of his skull.

He said the reason he didn't come to New York for the original operation was that he was too busy drilling an oil well and couldn't get away.

The crude operation required about 20 minutes, and he said that "you'd do the same thing, too, if a headache had been driving you crazy."

STARK TRAGEDY PERILING WEST GRAIN FIELDS

has ever befallen the west," said Major Strange. "Hundreds of farmers who kept their morale and character through five successive drought years had the pendulum three weeks ago, of the best crop that they had ever harvested.

"They took fresh heart again, purchased clothing, machinery, lumber and began to count the cost of the promised record yield breaking crop and then disaster in the form of rust struck their hopes to the ground in 10 days.

"It's stark tragedy. I didn't have the heart to tell some of those farmers what was happening."

CANNOT HAPPEN AGAIN

Such a disaster can never happen again, believes Major Strange, until realizing wheat having been perfected in the Manitoba research laboratories.

The seed will be ready for the entire area in two years time. This year everything was perfect for rust, save on the extreme edge behind time, high humidity, hot weather and strong rust bearing winds from the south, a situation not likely to occur again.

The north west winds that cause farmers so much trouble in Saskatchewan and Alberta to worry over soil erosion was the only thing that saved this year's crop from rust disease. These winds were clean of infection and saved the fields.

ALBERTA IS LUCKY

"Absolutely marvellous," was the way Major Strange described the fields from Edmonton to Calgary. "Never saw more wonderful fields in all my experience in the wheat business," he said. "Alberta is the garden province and I envy the people don't begin to realize how fortunate you are or you would not have the pessimistic foolish political fallacy which has taken hold of the province.

The big thing is the project which Major Strange directs is designed to bring all western Canadian wheat to the Fort William on the world market as No. 1 Northern.

The governments, experimental farms, universities, grain agents, and other agencies are supplying at present the farmers with information which can obtain it at cost by trading in his poor grade grain.

Purely that is the plan in the north Major Strange is holding farm field days.

4 KILLED IN PLANE ABLAZE

GILMER, Texas, Aug. 15—Four persons died early today in a trimotored ship of the Delta Airlines that crashed and burned after circling a cotton field in a vain attempt to land.

It circled over the level cotton patch as if to land, and then crashed in a 25-degree angle with a loud explosion. The two farmers attempted in vain to kill the fire with dirt.

The dead:

Andy Dotson, of Monroe, La., pilot.

Herbert Buckley, Dallas, co-pilot.

J. W. Thompson, Atlanta, passenger.

P. A. Ivy, Birmingham, Ala., passenger.

Customs, Excise Revenues Drop

OTTAWA, Aug. 15—Customs and excise revenue for the month of July amounted to $20,033,597, a drop of $711,699 from the corresponding month of 1934. Figures issued today by Hon. J. E. Lawson, minister of national revenue, disclosed the major portion of the decline to have been in excise taxes, which were down $631,340 from last year.

First Victim Of Auto Crash Dies

$137,884,783.58 plus the net unfunded debt of $15,048,048.48 makes a total net funded and unfunded debt of $153,014,994.06.

In his report, Mr. Thompson states that "in order to arrive at the net general debt the following realizable or income-producing assets may be properly deducted: loans, advances, fully secured $13,441,422.78; sinking fund assets, net assets, $634,746.59; Alberta government telephones, as shown by application to recommendations contained in the "Barker" report $16,240,441.26 or a total of $30,316,850.70, which would leave the net general debt at $122,698,143.36."

GIVES FIGURES

Mr. Thompson further writes that the "net general debt is represented by expenditures on: general assets at book values consisting of roads, bridges, buildings, public buildings and public works $83,937,193.29; loans and advances at book values, partially secured, $13,441,422.78; depletion and provision for losses $7,507,244.49; deferred charges and capital loans, consisting of discount on sale of debentures, unemployment relief and miscellaneous items, losses on railways and irrigation advances, less reserves and capital surplus $30,447,302.26; advances to income account, covering deficits of electric and net income assets $20,506,603.32.

Mr. Thompson states that the "net funded debt at March 31, 1934 and 30, 1935, included treasury bills of $2,750,000 held by the Dominion of Canada, which were paid off during the period under review and were extended for one year."

The statement shows that at June 30 of this year there was a total of $10,244,063.16 invested in various forms of sinking funds against a total of $10,974,132.51 at March 31 of this year a decrease of $630,069.35.

LARGE QUANTITIES

Total guarantees outstanding are $8,980,768.25.

In the three months period the total receipts to the treasury on income account were $1,851,493.56 while payments in the same period totalled $4,180,637.34 an excess in payments of $460,984.78.

In the same period of 1934 receipts totalled $4,180,637.34 and payments totalled $2,843,853.57 an excess in receipts of $432,-121.78.

In this period there was a decrease in receipts in the 1935 three months period under review, of $451,935.27, and an increase in payments in the period of $441,218.58.

Mr. Thompson writes that "while the foregoing shows an apparent decrease in revenue of $451,935.27, the actual decrease in realizable revenue of $231,114.73 due to the fact that subsidies from the Dominion, amounting to $683,050 were received a few days earlier in 1934 and dependent upon the June 30 quarter. As stated in previous quarterly reports, the above summary represents only receipts and paid by the provincial treasurer on income account and the results shown are not a position of collection.

In the receipts column the fuel oil has brought in an increase of $155,565.27 due to increased rate of taxation from six to seven cents. The provincial income tax shows a decrease of $104,646.67, mainly due to earlier collections.

Automobile licenses show a decrease of $49,-[illegible] at the end of the total this year being $332,182.25 as against $296,147.62 last year.

A decrease of $1,879.46 is recorded under fines.

FROST STRIKES SOUTH ALBERTA

CALGARY, Aug. 15.—Wheat and other crops in the southern part of Alberta districts suffered frost damage last night. Gardens were blackened, but it is said wheat suffered serious damage. Until threshing is started, it will be impossible to estimate the wheat damage.

In this high River district there was frost as low as 28 degrees, at first. Other points in the "cold belt" were Granum, Nanton, Munson and Olds.

It was cool and cloudy today with showers predicted.

Missing Girl Is With Mother

TICONDEROGA, N.Y., Aug. 15.—The grandparents of nine-year-old Doris Jean Johnson, for whom state police searched all night, announced today they had received a telegram apparently sent by the child's mother saying "Doris is safe with me."

The telegram was sent from Little Falls.

The election will take place on Monday, Oct. 14.

It was originally proposed to hold the election on Sept. 30, but continued the prime minister, "but in order to complete all the preliminaries a later date was desirable.

FIXED TENTATIVELY

"The date was then fixed tentatively for the 7th of October and when that appeared in the press it was represented to us that the 7th of October was the Jewish Day of Atonement and that the 14th of that date would practically disfranchise a large number of electors of the Jewish faith.

"There is no provision in the law for holding the election on any day except Monday, consequently a day (or a holiday) so it was necessary to fix the day for the next Monday, which is 14th.

"It was then found that the 14th had been proclaimed Thanksgiving Day and in order to counteract was rescinded and another passed to proclaim October 24 as Thanksgiving Day.

ENGAGED IN HARVEST

"It had also been represented to us that the harvest is somewhat earlier this year and that August 15th and 20th the agrarian population in the west would be engaged in the harvesting of their crops.

"In order to meet this objection and that we fixed the date for the 7th and then to the 14th."

The prime minister then read out the list of appointments in New Brunswick. Former Premier Tilley will be appointed to the county court judgeship of Kings and Albert and local judge in admiralty of the exchequer court.

Lt. Col. W. H. Harrison was appointed to the court of appeal and J. H. A. Anglin, of Saint John, King's bench. A. J. Lazier, former provincial treasurer, was appointed to the legislative council was F. E. Smith of Florenceville.

SPRINGS SURPRISE

The prime minister sprang a surprise by the announcement of the Manitoba senators. Col. Harry Mullins, former M.P. for Marquette, and John L. Haig, who had been first reported that Hon. L. G. Murphy, minister of the interior, would go to the senate but the uproar in the Conservative hierarchy was so great that the plan was changed.

It was also announced that Col. Dave Beaubier, M.P., would be appointed. Two weeks ago Col. Mullins in a speech declared he received a wire to come to Ottawa. He came and cooled his heels for days before he learned that he had been called, then he left for Toronto. Mr. Haig's name had not been mentioned in the senatorship.

GIVE NAMES LATER

Dr. Eugene Paquet, a former nationalist and later a Conservative member for Labelle in the commons has been appointed to one of the vacancies. Two other vacancies in Quebec have been filled, the prime minister stating he would give the names later.

Mr. Bennett then announced the personnel of the new Canadian Wheat Board with the intimation that the personnel of the advisory board would follow later. Dean McFarland was appointed chairman of the board. He is from Manitoba University, the third member. Previously it had been reported that Dr. Alberta Gray, Walter Scott, Fred Pool and E. B. Ramsey, chairman of the grain commission, would be named. Mr. Bennett declined to say and Mr. Smith was named. Mr. Ramsey was called into consultation and refused to act also.

TARIFF BOARD

J. R. MacGregor, secretary to the minister of finance, was appointed secretary of the tariff board. The office was held by Hector McKinnon, secretary of the original advisory board from 1931 to 1933. He became commissioner of tariffs, but was seconded to the tariff board when it was set up later. MacGregor now returns to his main job and Mr. MacGregor takes over.

Mr. Bennett commented criticism of the capital last night over the new remaining appointments. John Sullivan, K.C., will be deputy minister of justice and R. K. Smith to be deputy minister of fisheries. Both are sitting members of parliament who would not run in the election and their appointments are part of a storm of protest amongst civil servants. This makes 17 deputy ministers three months ago when a new government came into power. Some of them have been replaced by politicians on the merit system but a number have been used for political rewards. The insertion of the two outsiders, however, is part of promotions in both departments and civil service sees in them an attack on the merit system.

A number of Ontario judgeships are also to be named.

The day was a hectic one in the east block with press men camping in the corridors from early morning until late evening. Only a few of the new ministers were sworn in during the day and it was 4:45 before the Governor-General, impatient to catch the 5:15 o'clock train home to Rideau Hall, signed the dissolution documents. He hurried off at 5 o'clock and the Prime Minister followed a few minutes later while his new colleagues were in their first privy council meeting.

To Execute 20

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Execution of from 15 to 20 persons before a firing squad is expected to result from discoveries of a plot for insurrection in the Singapore army and navy, it was learned in private advices from Bangkok Tuesday. About 100 arrests were made.

Admiralty Lord Dies

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Viscount Bridgeman of Leigh, age 70, first Lord of the Admiralty from 1924 to 1929 and staunch advocate of imperial naval security, died today.

Locate Traces Of Early Civilizations On Lonely Island In Bering Sea

JUNEAU, Alaska, Aug. 15.—The life story of successive waves of civilization which crossed the island stepping stones between Asia and America is being traced on lonely St. Lawrence island in the Bering Sea.

The story—told in human skeletons, animal bones and broken utensils—is being preserved in paraffin. The work was described in a letter from the expedition headed by the noted Alaskan archaeologist, Dr. Otto Geist.

Aided by 39 or 40 Eskimo laborers from nearby Savoonga, the scientists are excavating skeletal remains and carefully brushing them with melted paraffin to preserve them for shipping to research laboratories.

Having removed much of the overlying frozen soil, remains of successive prehistoric cultures are being uncovered, a layer of ancient culture antedating the digs on Saint Lawrence island by Captain Commander Vitus Bering on St. Lawrence's Day, Aug. 21 (10th, old style), 1728.

The immigrants crossed over in seven successive waves, Dr. Geist believes, between Asia and America. Some earlier civilizations were of a higher culture than some of the later ones, he has determined.

THANKSGIVING DAY IS SET FOR OCT. 24

OTTAWA, Aug. 15. — Because election day has been set for Oct. 14, Thanksgiving Day has been advanced to Oct. 24, it was announced Wednesday by Premier R. B. Bennett. In most ridings, nomination day will be Oct. 7.

APPOINTMENT CAUSES ANGER

BY THOS. WAYLING

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—The sacrifice of P. T. Coolican, acting deputy postmaster general to make way for John A. Sullivan, Conservative member for St. Johns, Montreal, has aroused more resentment in the capital than any other appointment made by the Bennett government.

Conservatives as well as Liberals are loud in their denunciation and in the civil service the announcement of Sullivan's appointment and the sidetracking of Coolican is greeted with forcible and profane remarks.

No reflection is cast on Mr. Sullivan's capabilities save that his postal experience has been confined to his own mail and his parliamentary frank. L. J. Gadbury the former deputy minister was promoted to the superintendency of the Montreal postal district.

Mr. Bennett retired Mr. Gabourg the former deputy a few years ago over the publication of a souvenir booklet for the world postal conference. It was expected Mr. Coolican would get the promotion but it was held in abeyance. He did the work and has been acting for him meantime and now finds himself once more superseded by someone brought in from outside.

Hail Strikes In Wetaskiwin Area

WETASKIWIN, Alta., Aug. 15. — A midnight hail storm did considerable damage Tuesday night, oats suffering especially in one area of about five miles wide and 15 miles long, east, north and west of Wetaskiwin. The hail stones were not large, but the wind was high and the grain heads were badly threshed.

SLAYER TRIO GIVEN LIFE

DETROIT, Aug. 15.—The four convicted slayers of Howard Carter Dickinson stood before Judge John Sayer in the recorder's criminal court and were sentenced to life imprisonment.

There was no demonstration as the sentences were imposed on William Lee Ferris and the three burglars. Ferris declared he was through with him when the New York attorney was shot to death and robbed of $134 the night of June 29 in Rouge park here.

The women, Loretta Jackson, her sister, Florence, and Jean Miller, faced the court, with drawn faces, but were silent.

POISON KILLS RANGE HORSES

WENATCHEE, Wash., Aug. 15.—Cattle and horses still are dying in this district from a mysterious disease described today as forage poisoning. What it is in the forage that is causing deaths nobody, including Pasture, not even state doctors, has been able to discover.

Appeals have been made both to the state and federal governments for a man to come in and make a study, but so far they have made only hurried visits, county agents reported.

Losses have been stopped in many herds by taking stock from open range and feeding in barnyards or in stubblefields, but growers who have no feed or stubble still are suffering losses.

WALLACEBURG, Ont., Aug. 15. —What is believed to be a record crop of oats has been grown on the farm of Jos. Courtney at Sombra township. The first field threshed produced 104 bushels to the acre.

Sinclair's One-Car Caravan Uncovers Weird India Freak

Roaming Reporter Has a Unique Experience on Way to Khyber

By GORDON SINCLAIR
Bulletin's Roaming Reporter

MUREE, India, Aug. 15.—Lightning and landslides, an idiot, an invalid and a witch of the woods all helped slow us down as my Chevrolet one-car caravan pushed off from Rawalpindi to Khyber.

We had just swung on to the Jhelum Road—which resembles the Niagara Gorge route — when we picked up the idiot, as weird a creature as I ever hope to look at.

Gordon Sinclair

He was sitting on the road with his back to us, so we shot him a buzz - buzz on the horn. He got up slowly and looked at us through deep-set eyes in a face that had no nose. He wouldn't get out of our path, so I got out to lead him away when he laughed a shrill, wild laugh like the night cry of a hyena. I got him to the side of the road and climbed back in the Chevrolet, but when we started, he jumped in front of us again, then started running, zig-zag from ditch to ditch, before the car.

He must have practised that run for weeks and weeks. It was a smooth, tireless, endless motion, like the flight of a swallow. He gave us no chance to pass but just ran, light as a bird, ahead of the car. From time to time he looked back and shrilled that awful laugh. His feet touched the road so lightly that they raised no dust, and he went along like a misty ghost.

After a mile had gone, there were three other cars behind us, honking furiously, but we had no way of getting past. At last a mail truck came up and the driver, having met this amoling imbecile before, had a man get out and hold him while we all got by.

MORE SELF-TORTURE

This part of the outgoing road, after the vigor and thrill of the Bannihal route by which we'd entered these mystic mountains, was dull. It was like western Canada on a smaller scale.

By the roadside were boys and old men cracking big stones into little ones, and once when we stopped for a drink, several of the old boys crowded the car to show us fingerless hands. They'd been holding big stones in their hands, and hitting at them with poor aim for so many years that they had long since knocked their fingers off. Now they had some tricky way of holding the stone and the hammer with thumbs and stubs of bone and seemed quite content.

The road gradually grew rougher, wilder, higher. The river churned and boiled far below, and overhead clouds gathered. Soon lightning danced across the mountain, and we could see it raining down the valley although we were in the clear.

We passed the grave of a raider plunk in the middle of the roads; a twin path swung around this mound of fluttering banners. Then we ran into our first landslide and were hung up an hour. During that hour the rain caught us, lightning danced and a cold wind moaned from the north.

At last the road gang said we could go ahead, so I got out of the car and walked on, hoping to get a good picture of the machine threading that cracked ledge 800 feet above a roaring river. I was just in time to see a boulder about the size of an elevator cut loose from the overhanging cliff and come bumping toward the car.

ESCAPES LANDSLIDE

I shouted a warning, and the driver gave the Chevrolet one tremendous shot of gas and practically saved it from demolition. The two tons of stone came whooping down like a box car, scraped the edge of the luggage carrier, knocking it off like it was made of cellophane, and spreading havoc down the hillside. My clothes, bed, typewriter and food went tumbling down the hillside, but caught in the churned remains of an earlier landslide where only a cross between an Everest coolie and a mountain goat could get them back again.

Luckily a girl came along who was more mountain sheep than flapper; and she, without the aid of wings, mirrors or magic, retrieved the gear, although Tippy the tireless, who is getting to be a pretty gray-haired old typewriter now, needed immediate hospital treatment.

That landslide completely blocked the back road for the rest of that night, and we wondered if it would go out ahead of us. Rain was swirling down in rivulets now, and the whole hillside seemed to be moving. We piled our beds inside the car, roped the other gear on the roof and hood, and tried to complete the climb; but the radiator was so completely blocked off by everything from water jugs to cameras that the machine boiled.

We had so much assorted camping kit there wasn't a hope of getting both it and ourselves into the car, so Narain and I hung to the sides as we threaded those perilous mountain passes, shielding our faces from the kissing rain.

BUILD OWN ROAD

The road was up, up, up, all the way, and the height made it colder and colder. Four more landslides cut us off, but we blocked up the car with stones and went ahead to show the blood-red clay over the side with our bare hands.

During one of these battles with nature, and while the rain thundered down like all hell had broken loose, an old man came out of the gathering gloom and whispered between peals of thunder: "Sahib, I have here the secret of the jungles."

He pushed a greasy pot toward me, but I kept on working. "It is the one and only cure for the rheumatics," he said. "It makes the blind to see . . . it will grow for you new hair."

As a sensitive baldy, I always was a sucker for a hair tonic, so I quit trying to make a road out of a mile-high mountain and looked at the goo. "Tiger fat," the old man cooed while lightning danced. "It cures all. It grows hair. For one rupee (40 cents). It gives you new hair."

The old man assured me that his goo, which was probably goat lard had come from a man-eating tiger, so I let him put two bits worth on my head.

By this time it was night, cold and dismal. The rain stopped. High on a distant peak we could spot the lights of Muree, hot-weather home of the frontier army; but before we got there, eight cops had pinched us.

The first was at a place with the non-Indian name of Sunnybank, where we were jugged for using the mountain road after dark. I explained as best I could that we had come through from Kashmir, storms and landslides had held us up, our car just missed demolition, and what were we supposed to do, sit out on a ledge all night?

The police didn't know. They were Indian police, and their book of instructions said that on no account whatever were cars to go over the passes after dark. Clearly I was an offender, clearly therefore I should be jailed.

In such case there is only one thing to do in India. Go into a rage and call people names. This worked fine, and we got loose, but seven times more between Sunnybank and Mupree, I was called on to go through the motions of being an outraged and infuriated colonel or somebody. This became a bit hard on the vocal chords, so I dug up a reporter's pass General Draper was good enough to give me. This says "Special Police Press Pass" on it. I held my fingers over the "press pass," made important noises as I showed the "special police" part, and finally managed to make Muree where the car ran out of gas.

While the driver was looking after that, I put into a hotel and met Mary Grainger of Savannah, Georgia, who was as worried as I was tired and weary. Mary was all upset over the possibility of Huey Long becoming president of the United States, including Georgia.

So I changed my clothes, practically swooned with delight at the smell of a beefsteak dinner after the everlasting goat of Kashmir, and solemnly settled the political future of the Kingfish, which just about wins the oil-flavored soda biscuit for absurd occupations in India.

Miss Grainger, it turned out, was travelling with Mrs. Helmut de Terra, whose husband, a Yale professor in geology, was dangerously ill with typhoid.

De Terra, as I mentioned before, is joint leader with T. T. Paterson of an expedition to find the missing link and prove that the vale of Kashmir is the garden of Eden.

Unluckily, however, De Terra, in spite of the usual inoculations against typhoid, is on his back for another month or more, and Paterson is having trouble with the Kashmiris, who don't like Britishers snooping over their snow-swept hills even when hunting the missing link.

parliament of its power and destroyed responsibility of government to parliament and through parliament to the electors.

The long delay in holding the election showed Mr. Bennett's disregard for responsible government. Parliament was now dissolved but the Bennett government with extraordinary powers, wrested from parliament, could go on until election day, spending millions of dollars from the "blank cheque," raising tariffs by executive action and making appointments to further build up a "Tory bureaucracy."

A century ago, said Mr. King, Canada had a parliament but the executive was chosen by the governor and was not responsible to parliament. It took a long bitter struggle to establish responsible government and the Liberal party was born in that struggle. Now in the last five years the power of parliament had been again turned over to the executive, power of taxation, power to regulate marketing, power to maintain peace, order and good government.

LARGER FREEDOM

Reform, said Mr. King, meant a larger freedom. Mr. Bennett had said reform meant government intervention, regulation and control. This showed he did not know the meaning of reform. Regulation was a means to an end and not an end in itself.

Under the "blank cheque" the Bennett government had expended or made guarantees for $308,000,000 apart from the wheat guarantees, said Mr. King. This was more than the total expenditure of the Dominion in any year up to the middle of the Great War.

"What more could a dictator want?" asked Mr. King, "than power to take as much money as he wanted out of the treasury, and power to make laws for peace, order and good government.

"Has Hitler any more power?" he asked. "Has Mussolini any more power? Mussolini is about to send his troops off to Africa to fight. He will need funds for that. I have no doubt he will do it all in the name of the peace, order and good government of Italy."

FREEDOM DESTROYED

But in Italy and Germany dictatorships had gone further. No one could vote unless he belonged to the party in power. In Germany, religious freedom was being destroyed. In both countries a man could not think aloud without running the risk of being sent to jail.

After the way the people's liberties in Canada had been tampered with in the past five years it was time for them to wake up and see where they were being led, he said.

"Little by little our whole country is being changed from one of self-government to one of dictatorship such as they have in Europe," said the Liberal leader.

BENNETT'S DISREGARD

Restoration of titles was another instance of Bennett's disregard for the will of parliament, he claimed. Bennett restored them in defiance of a resolution of the house of commons passed under a previous Conservative government.

"Mr. Bennett wants titles," said Mr. King, "not for the good of the people but just in order to be able to pick out his favorites here and there and to honor his followers in order to keep them silent. But we don't want titles in Canada."

The Natural Products Marketing Act was another instance of autocracy. The act gave power to local boards to fix offences which must be punished by fines and imprisonment. The boards were responsible to no one but were selfish, interested groups. It gave the government power to restrict imports and exports, in effect control of the whole external trade of Canada.

ACT TO EXTEND COMBINES

Farmers who thought the act was for them should "beware of a wolf in sheep's clothing." It also gave manufacturers of natural products the right to regulate marketing. It was an act to extend combines and monopolies.

"I am in favor of a Marketing Act," said Mr. King. "I am in favor of compulsory regulation of marketing but I want the supremacy of parliament maintained and I want the regulations to be approved by parliament."

A Liberal government, he went on, would not destroy the compulsory features of the Act but it would see that all regulations by marketing boards came before parliament for approval, as was done in Great Britain. He did not believe farmers or any other class of producers would want any regulation which parliament would not approve.

Mr. King made a brief reference to the Reconstruction and Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation parties. He said Hon. H. H. Stevens, leader of the former, had been the strongest supporter of all the acts of the Bennett government which he now condemned. He sat until parliament closed as a Conservative and was willing to attend Conservative caucuses and "It was only when Mr. Bennett closed the door in his face that he changed his tune."

J. S. Woodsworth, C.C.F. leader, had been consistent and frank in setting out his policy, said Mr. King. He wanted to take over banks, insurance companies, manufacturing industries and eventually all the land in Canada under state control. Canada already had one problem of state control in the Canadian National Railways and Mr. King did not think the people wanted to risk greater ventures in that direction.

U.S. REFUSED CONCESSIONS FOR AIRPORTS

Proposed Airline Must Not Touch British Territory

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 15.—United States Airlines can enter Australia only by routings which do not touch other British territory on the way, F. H. Deamer, editor of the Melbourne Herald, said here Tuesday. Deamer confirmed reports that Australia had refused airport concessions for a proposed Hawaii-Fiji-Australia airline.

"Our airlines operate under the rules and regulations of the International Convention of Aerial Navigation," he explained, "and those rules are not in accord with the requirements under which American lines fly."

Deamer pointed out Sir Richard Kingsford-Smith was engaged in formation of a British-Australia-New Zealand line. With California-Hawaii air service definitely in sight, he suggested the next link logically would be between Hawaii and New Zealand.

11 Railways Fail To Earn Operating Expenses In 1934

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—Of the 34 railways in Canada reporting their 1934 operations to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, 11 failed to earn operating expenses and another, while it earned operating expenses, did not earn enough to pay taxes. This is indicated in a preliminary report on the steam railways of Canada issued by the bureau Tuesday.

This was, however, an improvement over 1933, when 13 railways did not earn operating expenses, while three more failed to earn both operating expenses and taxes.

B.C. WANTS 1 IMMORTAL

VICTORIA, Aug. 15.—Wanted—one immortal. Apply British Columbia legislative buildings.

When the governmental pile was erected in 1898 the designers ran short of past and contemporary great in the placing of statues and effigies on the roof and in niches. One niche was left vacant for posterity to fill. It is still vacant.

This was revealed Wednesday when Dr. Kaye Lamb, provincial archivist, set out to catalogue the figures, a good half of which are now unknown, no list having been kept.

GENEVA, Aug. 15.—Official records showed today that the heavy selling of merchandise by Japan to Syria and Palestine have caused protest in the League of Nations mandate commission.

Inches from Death!

AWAY up on the highest motor road in the world—Kashmir's wild Bannihal Pass—"Footloose" Reporter Gordon Sinclair paused to snap this picture of the Chevrolet car which he is using on his 8,000-mile trek through India. "Maybe this photo will give you some idea of the wilderness the car is bucking," Sinclair says in his newspaper despatches. "The road corkscrews in and out among the peaks at 10,000 feet above sea level. Lean out of the driver's window and you look down a sheer half-mile into the gulches below. You're just a matter of inches from death! The temperature is a freezing 27 degrees, with snow everywhere—quite a change from the broiling 110-in-the-shade, dust storms, floods and jungle of the plains. Yet the Chevrolet has given no trouble whatever—no repairs have been made—no service required outside of routine greasing, oiling, etc."

A CITY OF VOTERS

Edmonton, it seems, is no longer a city of young people. The children have grown up and their parents have grown older: maybe that accounts for it. Anyway the adults now outnumber the juveniles two to one. We have official figures for it. The voters' list carries fifty thousand names out of a total population of about eighty thousand. Almost two-thirds of all the residents of the city are old enough to vote. School taxes should start to come down.

WHY THE SECRECY?

With the elections seven days away, no word is yet forthcoming as to when the provincial auditor's report for the last fiscal year is to be disclosed to the public.

Recalling that in former years the reports have been published long before this date in one year as early as May, there is no evading the conclusion that the report is being withheld this year deliberately, and for political reasons. The Ministers are simply taking to themselves the right to give out information or to withhold it at pleasure.

A more impudent assumption of authority can hardly be imagined. If the taxpayers are not entitled to know within reasonable time what was done with their money and credit during the year which ended last March, it would be folly to suppose that Ministers recognize any obligation to inform them fully and promptly on any other matters.

The immediate question is: Why should the Government be afraid to release the report?

THE ITALIAN MODEL

Alberta's election campaign is quite naturally attracting a good deal of outside attention. Thus the Winnipeg Free Press notes that: "Never before in Canadian politics has a party submitted to the electors a complete slate of candidates hand-picked at headquarters by a boss. It looks as if the Social Credit party is vulnerable not only in its crazy economics but in its political methods. The Aberhart system of nominations looks very like an importation of Fascist technique into Canada."

Not only is it true that other parties do not submit to that sort of thing; it is certain they wouldn't. It takes a lively imagination to envision what would happen if Premier Reid insisted on naming all the U.F.A. candidates in the province, if Mr. Duggan demanded to be allowed to hand-pick all the Conservatives, or particularly if Mr. Howson tried to say nobody must run as a Liberal candidate unless selected by him. But it does not require much imagination to see that a party explosion of the first magnitude would occur immediately.

Yet this is what Mr. Aberhart has done. Not only did he hand-pick the Social Credit candidates; he rejected nominees suggested by party organizations, and put others on the slate whom they had not named.

If Alberta people want their political parties "centralized" with a vengeance, and their representatives in the legislature selected by the heads of the parties, Mr. Aberhart has shown them that is the way he does business.

That, by the way, is how Mussolini does business in Italy.

FAIR WARNING TO THE VOTERS

Friend Journal says no party will have a clear working majority in the next legislature; wherefore, since there are seven members have been anxious to get into a coalition Government for years, there should be a strong contingent of that party elected to take part in the prospective merger.

For five years Alberta has had a coalition Government in everything but name and the distribution of portfolios. U.F.A. members, Conservative members, Labor members and Independent members—with the honorable exception of the late C. L. Gibbs—stood shoulder to shoulder to resist every attempt to reduce bond-interest rates and put something of positive and constructive effort into public policy.

The clamorings of the Conservative members for admission to the cabinet were ignored; for the reason that their opposition to anything savoring of financial easement and progressive policy could be counted on without sharing up the ministerial posts with them.

If the electors wanted a continuance of drift for the next five years, no doubt a coalition of reactionary elements, with a stiffening of "sound" money Conservatives would fill the bill. As they seem to feel they have had all of that kind of policy they want or can afford, their one way of escape from it is to elect enough Liberal members to carry through their plans for monetary reform in co-operation with the other provinces and the Dominion.

Of course, those for whom the Journal speaks would like to "put over" a coalition Government, with a strong contingent of "sound" money men in it and behind it. The Journal says so, and it ought to know.

EASY MONEY FOR NEW YORK

New York brokers had not the slightest trouble selling the new Dominion of Canada issue of $76,000,000 of 2½ per cent bonds. Not the slightest. The bonds went like hot cakes and the books were closed the day they were opened.

Why not? It was the best buy the New York investor had seen for some time in the way of Government bonds. President Roosevelt is not paying 2½ per cent for money.

By the way, the bonds were sold in New York at 98. The same day Dominion 2½ per cents, due 1943, were quoted in Canada at 99⅜ bid and 100¼ asked.

The Canadian investor had to pay $2.75 more for a bond than the New York investor was asked for a bond carrying the same rate of interest. Perhaps the Government of Canada has a reason for using the New York investor better than the Canadian investor, but it would be well to let the latter know what it is.

For this issue marketed in New York the Dominion treasury gets $2,090,000 less than it would have got if the bonds had been sold in Canada at the price Dominion 2½ per cents were bringing the same day. Ottawa's preference for selling in New York comes a bit high.

The new bonds carry a 2½ per cent interest clause. But the taxpayer should not count too confidently on getting off that easily. A couple of years ago he had to pay 25 per cent on money he had borrowed in New York years before, at a fraction of this rate.

If the international jugglers can engineer another depression five or ten years hence, and depress the Canadian dollar again, we may have to pay ten times the rate named in the new bond. All, of course in strict accordance with the "sacredness" of money contracts and our "moral" obligation to pay whatever the jugglers say we owe.

The exhibition at Regina which closed on Wednesday last was a great success in point of attendance and exhibits, in both which points it no doubt exceeded the expectations of its promoters. No doubt a certain amount of good was accomplished. The meeting together of representatives of all sections of the Territories could not fail to produce clearer and better balanced ideas as to the different sections of this great area and the opportunity to compare products, or successes, must have some effect in arousing healthy competition that will have beneficial results. But when the net good done is balanced against the cost it will be found that the Territorians—I like Territories had anything to do with it—have paid very dear for their whistle. It was a fairly good whistle, but it was only a whistle, and cost a lot of good money that is very much needed in other ways.

Poems That Live

YOUR TEARS

I dare not ask your very all:
I only ask a part.
Bring me—when dancers leave the hall—
Your aching heart.

Give other friends your lighted face,
The laughter of the years:
I come to crave a greater grace—
Bring me your tears!

Conquest Of Poverty

By G. G. McGEER

(The following has been taken from Mr. McGeer's latest book, "The Conquest of Poverty," now on sale throughout Canada.)

During the last seventy years, any suggestion that money and credit could and should be submitted to a banking organization answerable to the nation and the people under the stewardship of public service has been ridiculed and swept aside with the same finality that an intelligent people would offer to a proposal that the government should manage the weather. Gold was established as a god. Bankers and financiers were established as the high priests in a religion that worshipped usury as a sacred rite.

Monetary reformers were jeered at as heretics and sneered at as the stupid emulators of an impractical Christ. They were treated contumaciously by the sons of Judas who still roam the earth to plague the peace of man. Press, church leaders and subservient politicians joined in the general conspiracy to lead humanity in the worship of false gods. Leaders in every walk of life were willing to sacrifice everything to men now known to be wolves in sheep's clothing who were coldly preparing and planning the sacrifice of our civilization and our faith in God on the altar of unpayable debt.

Here and there individuals saw the danger, but, like Arthur Kitson, they warned and pleaded in vain. When the late Woodrow Wilson in 1911 publicly declared:

"The great monopoly of this country is the money monopoly. So long as that exists, our old variety and freedom and individual energy of development are out of the question. The growth of the nation and all our activities are in the hands of a few men who, for reason of their own limitations chill, check and destroy genuine economic freedom."

He was merely a voice crying in the wilderness. This fact he learned to his heart-breaking sorrow when the Federal Reserve legislation which he proposed as a great reform was perverted by Congress and Senate at the instigation of German and other foreign financiers into a law of privilege that gave to American bankers the English monetary system and the power to exploit, debauch and bankrupt the richest nation on earth, a power that has been exercised to the very limit of its unspeakable and greedy possibilities.

Senator Elihu Root opposed the Federal Reserve system. In one of the most remarkable demonstrations of constructive oratory that ever fell from the lips of a statesman anxiously desirous of serving the best interests of the people of his own time and of future generations, he condemned the Federal Reserve Bill. Among the many truths he uttered was the following:

"This Bill (the Federal Reserve Act) proposes to put in pawn the credit of the United States. We are setting our steps in the pathway that brought Rome to its fall."

In 1929 Senator Carter Glass, who was one of the sponsors of the bankers' Federal Reserve Bill, twitted the great Senator Root by saying:

"None of the disasters prophesied by Root has yet broken upon the country."

Unfortunately Carter Glass cannot repeat that statement now, for in the five years that have elapsed since he wrote his public confession of having, unwittingly unconscious, service to the Money Power, entitled, "An Adventure in Constructive Finance," every boast made by Glass has proven unwarranted and every disaster that Root prophesied has come to pass.

In 1912 following the Pujo money investigation, which was so ably counselled by Samuel Untermeyer of New York City, Louis D. Brandeis, then a practising attorney and now an associate justice upon the Supreme Court Bench of the United States, wrote his book, "Other People's Money," in which he sounded the same note that had been offered by Arthur Kitson in 1894, by saying:

"We must break the money trust or the money trust will break us."

These prophet-advocates of monetary reform suffered the fate of all pioneer reformers. They were forced, like Cassandra of old, to watch disaster come despite their warnings simply because the people preferred to accept false promises of gain rather than words of wisdom uttered by unpopular Jeremiah men.

When the crash came in 1929 everyone was assured that the bankers had the situation well in hand. A temporary depression was acknowledged. The public was informed that it was necessary to permit the bankers to effect certain unknown but practical adjustments in the monetary machine so that an even greater period of prosperity could be ushered in. Blindly believing in the leadership of bankers and financiers, the public waited in patience until confidence in the bankers gave way to open suspicion.

During the last five years a complete change in the attitude of every one towards money and the monetary system has taken place. In no class, group or individual was the change of altitude so complete and outstanding as that which appears when the utterances of ex-President Hoover made in 1928 are contrasted with his public address of 1932. In 1928 Mr. Hoover publicly declared:

"We in America today are nearer to the final triumph over poverty than ever before in the history of any land. . . . We have not yet reached the goal, but given a chance to go forward with the policies of the last eight years, we shall more with the help of God, be in sight of the day when poverty shall be banished from the nation."

There is no reason to doubt Mr. Hoover's sincerity or his conscientious belief in the truth and practical possibility of his optimistic anticipation at that time.

Symptoms of Digestive Disorders Common

By DOCTOR FRANK McCOY

In yesterday's article I discussed some of the common symptoms seen in the digestive disorders, and today I want to go on with the discussion. At the start, we will consider a symptom frequently encountered, that of Belching. Belching is usually due to the use of too large a quantity of food. It may result from the habitual use of wrong combinations of food which encourage stomach gas. Occasionally it will follow the ingestion of some particular article of food; for example, many people are troubled with this symptom only after eating cucumbers, green onions, or cantaloupe. As a matter of fact, if cucumbers are eaten properly, they will be digested perfectly without producing belching.

Dr. F. McCoy

Another common symptom of digestive disorders is that symptom which the patient refers to as: Heartburn. By this he means a sour, burning fluid, with a bitter taste, which rises in the throat at meals. When this symptom is noticeable it becomes a warning that you have eaten unwisely or too well. Heartburn may be banished by adopting better habits of eating.

When the patient has developed digestive distress, he often states that his appetite is poor. Certainly, true hunger for food is one of life's greatest blessings. If you sit down to a meal when you are really hungry, your mouth will water just at the sight of food, and everything has a superlative flavor. The Germans have a way of stating this in their saying, "Hunger is the best sauce." When the patient has developed a stomach disorder, hunger ordinarily disappears, and food may actually become distasteful. Under such circumstances, the wisest plan is to follow the hint given by Nature, and to stop eating.

While poor appetite is characteristic of stomach trouble, in some instances the patient suffers from the opposite symptom and is hungry all of the time.

Soon after eating, the patient complains that he is hungry again, and this sensation of hunger may be accompanied by a feeling of weakness, both sensations being relieved by taking food. Instead of saying he is hungry, the patient may state that he has a gnawing feeling in the stomach. Being hungry soon after a meal, or a gnawing sensation, are both rather common with those patients having gastritis in a mild form. The irritation of the walls of the stomach sometimes causes that he is hungry for more food, when in reality, eating so often, only makes the symptom worse.

It may be stated that the principal cause of any kind of digestive distress lies in those eating habits which are not good. Relief is secured as soon as the patient changes his dietetic habits to those which are good. However, another cause of considerable importance, and one which is little understood, is the mental cause. Beyond any question of a doubt, when the patient is overtly nervous, fearful, fear, worry, or anxiety, such emotional states interfere with digestion and digestive discomfort is the result, regardless of whether the patient is eating correctly. Such mental causes must be corrected, and when a good diet is adopted at the same time, digestion returns to normal. In health, we are never aware of the fact that we have a stomach, and digestion proceeds so quietly that the stomach is entirely comfortable.

From time to time I will prepared articles dealing with the various forms of stomach trouble. If you wish an article, all that you have to do is to write to me, enclosing one large, self-addressed envelope and ten cents. Here are the names of some of the articles now ready for distribution: STOMACH ULCERS . . . ; STOMACH TROUBLE . . . ; HEARTBURN . . . ; HYPOCLORHYDRIA . . . ; REDUCING STOMACH ACIDITY . . . ; ANALYSIS OF STOMACH DISORDERS . . . .

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION—Mrs. Amanda G. inquires: "I am accustomed to taking two or three glasses of water with each meal. My neighbor, who reads your column, says you do not recommend this. Why can't I have water with meals?"

ANSWER—As a general rule, it is preferable to do your water drinking between meals. If you drink water with meals, there is a decided temptation to wash down mouthfuls of food with the water, without thoroughly chewing the food before swallowing. Also, large amounts of water with meals will have the effect of diluting the digestive juices of the stomach, making them proportionately weaker than they would be if the extra fluid were not used. Try using not more than half a glassful of water when eating, if you must use any amount at all, and see how much you improve.

Horoscope

By MARY BLAKE

If August 16 is your birthday, it will pay to be diplomatic in your business and social contacts. Your inherent self-possession must be exercised on this date if your undertakings are to be successful. Ignore unhealthy or pessimistic thoughts. There should be a great deal of activity in social circles. Married and engaged couples, and those who are in love, should confine their conversations to cheerful subjects, avoiding depressing topics.

If a woman and August 16 is your birthday, never allow yourself to get an exaggerated opinion of your charms' importance. Marriage should not be a handicap to a professional career, but might prove very helpful.

The child born on August 16 may be temperamental when it reaches its teens.

If a man and August 16 is your natal day, do not make the grave mistake of being too severe in exacting disciplinarian rules and regulations in your home or office.

SIDE GLANCES — By George Clark

On This Date

A Day in Canadian History —o— By FRED WILLIAMS

On this date in 1832 the brig Laurel from Greenock July 7 (a fast voyage for those days) brought to Quebec, among others, two ladies who left their mark upon the early literature of Canada. Mrs. Catharine Parr Traill and her husband, Captain Thomas Traill, a former officer of the Royal Scots Fusiliers who later settler, Mrs. Susanna Moodie, then a bride of but a few months. They left Quebec at once for Montreal, which they found filthy, with open sewers and cholera playing havoc; indeed, Mrs. Traill herself contracted the disease, but only for a few days.

They were destined for Upper Canada, for the bush near what is now Peterborough. They travelled on wagons, mere axles and wheels with loose boards placed across them, and the journey was awful, especially over the corduroy roads which Mrs. Traill described as "the bone-shaker with a vengeance." Eventually they reached their destination.

What a contrast to the ancestral home of her fathers, the Strickland's of Reydon Hall, Suffolk; but the educated English lady faced her trials and difficulties with the same courage which many another gentlewoman has displayed in similar conditions all over the Dominion in the century that has elapsed.

Those who would like to have open pictures of life in Upper Canada a century since are advised to read Mrs. Traill's "The Backwoods of Canada," or "Roughing it in the Bush" and "Life in the Clearings" by Mrs. Moodie. Some people, old and young, who complain so often of living conditions today, should read these volumes and then thank God that they now live in a civilization created for them by the immigrants of 1832, a civilization which would have been far different had it not been for the refining influences of the Strickland sisters and other ladies like them. They were the leaven that leaveneth the whole lump.

INSTRUCTIONS TO VOTERS

Editor Bulletin: Instructions to male voters, for keeping the province safe for democracy, are hereby respectfully submitted.

First, procure a strong germicide at the corner drug store. Secrete it somewhere in the immediate vicinity of your person, and proceed in a dignified way, in the general direction of the polling booth. If you affect a cane, wear it in your usual million dollar way. Above all, appear blase. It's a great help at times.

Upon reaching the booth, make as if you were really going on, then pause, as if slightly interested in the pleasant fact you see going in. Now give a bored sigh, and stroll in. Just stroll. Don't crowd. It isn't done. If a lady impedes the way, it might be well to adjust your monocle, lift your hat, then place the end of your cane against the back of her neck, and give a gentle, patronizing shove. This will be an aid to progress, and that's what the country needs. But if a heavy jowled male beast is in the way, best give the cane a rest. It might lead to vulgar complications.

You have now fully arrived, and there's no doubt in the ballot, but critical moments lie ahead. The poll clerk yelps, "Your name, sir." Languidly adjust your monocle, and look him over (Don't forget this.) then flip him your card, and repeat your name in a haughty, condescending tone. The clerk chirps, "Silas Pompous. Yep. You got a vote." While your ballot is preparing, election cards will be thrust on you, but remember, and this is important, before accepting any, hang your cane on your arm, carefully adjust your monocle, and give an astonished stare about the place. (Best practice up on this a little).

If mentally unable to vote Liberal: if not quite, and you know your own limitations, vote Tory. Never vote above your mental status. If you fancy that an Aberhart card is being pushed on you, stop, look, listen. Then drop everything, grab your germicide, and use it freely.

If you feel like vomiting, just let her go. They'll leave you alone after that. Then vote, and save your country.

NO MORE DICTATORSHIP FOR CANADA

When Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal Party of Canada, says that dictatorship will end in this country on the election of a government over which he will preside—as he said at Kingston last night—he assures the public that Liberalism is its sure shield against Fascism, Hitlerism and Communism. His party will not tolerate bureaucracy or dictatorship in any form; its battle cry during the coming election campaign will be the restoration of responsible government and the full restoration of civil liberties which, after all, form the essence of real democracy.

In his Kingston speech yesterday, Mr. King suggested that Canadians ask themselves if they wanted their country to become a second Italy, a second Germany or a second Russia. There is nothing fantastic about the inquiry Mr. King advocates, in the light of the record of the present government during the last five years. That record includes the famous "blank cheque" legislation which took away from Parliament the right to name the sum to be appropriated for relief purposes from time to time—a procedure which was not relinquished even in the war years of two decades ago—and vested complete authority in the Prime Minister and his cabinet. Here are Fascist-Nazi-Communist principles rolled into one. The sequel has been relief camps and the dole.

A similar autocratic course was the making of tariffs by executive action only. During the early days of the Bennett regime we had several glaring instances of the boomerang effect of unconsidered tariff boosting. The fambu glass duty directed against Belgium to protect a small glass factory in eastern Canada would have lost the Dominion a market for wheat worth several millions of dollars had the order not been promptly rescinded after the cabinet had been informed of the economic stupidity of its action.

Then a potato duty was imposed against certain seed potatoes—not potatoes for market—from the southern states, which had to be removed because it would have ruined a lucrative business which the Maritime Provinces had built up with our neighbor. The increase in the duty against New Zealand butter, of course, was a notorious case of sheer short-sightedness. This had the effect of cutting an annual business of approximately $36,000,000 to $5,000,000. Recognizing the seriousness of a trading situation which found Canada treated by New Zealand on the same basis as a foreign country, the government was compelled to enter into negotiations for a new treaty. Yet with that agreement in operation, and under the treaties of the Ottawa conference of 1932, the value of Canada's trade with New Zealand is less than a fraction of what it was four years ago. Markets may be lost easily; they are difficult to regain.

Thus in these three cases in which Parliament has been ignored in the consideration and determination of vitally important matters, the Dominion has suffered grave consequences. And there are other cases, such, for instance, as the guarantee of bonds and other subventions to private corporations amounting to many millions.

Mr. King asks the people whether they want this sort of thing to continue for another five years, the consequences of which can be better imagined than described, or whether they want the sort of government they had between 1921 and 1930, the sort of government which materially helped to bring about prosperity and contentment in Canada.—Victoria Times.

PEOPLE NEED WORK, WAGES, NOT RELIEF

Mrs. Marion Conroy Wins Approval From Well-Attended Meeting

Stressing the fact that the people of the province want work for wages and not relief, Mrs. Marion Conroy, Liberal candidate in the provincial election, won approval from a well-attended meeting held at the Community Hall, Calgary Trail.

She insisted that there are thousands of jobs waiting to be done in Alberta, and they will be looked after when the Liberals are in power and have their promised work program under way.

WRONG INTERPRETATION

Some people, said Mrs. Conroy, imagine that a public works program means the putting up of public buildings alone. That is not the right interpretation, public works can include road making and other similar undertakings, and everybody knew how badly the roads in Alberta need to be improved.

Mrs. Conroy said that she had been called the "lone" lady of the Liberal slate. She objected to the description for this reason, because, while she was making the home and family her particular sphere, she believed that, when other matters came up for discussion and decision, she will not be a detriment to the male members of the legislature.

20-POINT PLATFORM

Mrs. Conroy then discussed her twenty-point women's platform, which deals with practically all the different phases of the home and family.

First and foremost, however, she insists that every Canadian must have the fundamentals of food, clothing and shelter, and she emphasized the point, saying—"The effort of every good Liberal is directed to that end." Other parties that claim this to be their chief business have nothing new in the matter whatsoever.

Touching upon the importance of keeping the family healthy as an economic necessity, Mrs. Conroy deplored the increase in the number of tubercular cases, and said that more attention must be given to the subject of controlling this disease. She pointed out there are a number of hospitals in the province not now fully used, that might be adapted to the needs of tubercular patients so as to reduce to a minimum the danger of other persons from contact with them.

CARE OF YOUNG LADS

She insisted upon the necessity for further training and care of the young lads, so as to see they are started out in life under the best auspices. She said this work is vital, because if the lads start to drift through life, in so many instances they become unemployable.

Also there is a need for teaching the girls the best way to manage a home and family. "No matter what she is doing, every girl gets married when the right opportunity comes along," said Mrs. Conroy.

She pointed out the need also for more and better recreational facilities being provided. These must be planned deliberately for the young people, to make them strong and virile.

PENSIONS TOO LOW

Being a subject that directly affects the home, Mrs. Conroy touched upon the pensions paid the returned men, which she asserted are too low, and said that in her opinion, when a man is eligible for a pension, $25 per month is the lowest sum he should be paid.

Also she insisted that in cases where mother's allowances are being given under the act, that in instances where the children have grown up beyond the age to receive the allowances, some provision should be made for the mothers.

Mrs. Conroy contended that the mothers deserved this concession, for, she said, there is no nobler work that can be done for the nation than for a woman to successfully bring up a family.

Before concluding her remarks, Mrs. Conroy went into the subject of the ballot, and with the aid of the blackboard showed the audience how they should record their vote.

For this she received the compliments of the chairman, who said that if the voters followed her advice they will not do wrong.

LIBERAL PLATFORM

In opening the meeting, the chairman, R. Price, suggested that all the voters should obtain a copy of the Liberal platform. Before drawing up this platform Mr. Howson, the Liberal leader, went out over the province and took advice from every group. The result is a platform that fits the needs of the people, one easily understood.

Jack Marshall paid a flying visit before going on to another meeting, and thanked the electors of the district for the help they had always given the Liberal cause. He asked them to continue their work until the polling day and the result will be in favor of the Liberals.

G. H. Van Allen, K.C., impressed upon the audience that the Liberal party is a unit of a great national organization, which includes both federal and provincial affairs, and that it is united in supporting the Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King's proposals to reestablish Canadian trade in the markets of the world.

"We have learned the fundamental lesson," said the speaker, "that if you shut out the goods of the other countries you shut in your own."

During the evening some charming tap dances were given by Joan Hall and Margaret Sellers.

BONNIE DOON MEET

There was another excellent attendance, made up to a large extent of young people, at St. Luke's Hall, Bonnie Doon.

The majority of the Liberal candidates spoke, and Mr. Walter Harish discussed at some length questions of health and education.

Gerald O'Connor dwelt upon the need for balancing the budget, which he pointed out, the U.F.A. Government had not been able to accomplish for four years, and had piled up a deficit of twelve million dollars.

A successful Liberal meeting was also held at Riverdale.

Following In Steps Of Sister

England Tried It Once Before

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

The policy of England's land growing England's foodstuffs was tried out long ago. The present suggestion that overseas trade be cut down in order to grow more at home is merely a revival of the arguments which brought about the passing of the Corn Laws and the Navigation Laws.

Under these restrictions on imports and on the closing of English Ports to shipping of other nations, the English people found themselves shut in and the money shut out. The Corn Laws and the Navigation Laws were repealed to bring to an end national distress and unemployment. The revival of the volume of commerce worked the necessary remedy.

The English can make more money and support more people out of world-wide commerce than out of English agriculture. This is the basic truth which will regulate the English trade policy. The English will continue to buy where they can sell.

No race of people will or can send out money year after year to other people who are willing to sell but will not buy. The English are no exception, and are bound by this rule; but there is no substitute for volume of commerce when it comes to taking care of a large population and the English have paid for their experience is restricting commerce.

Apart from business motives, the English people are so close to the European volcano, which erupts at irregular intervals and without notice, that a large and modern mercantile marine is necessary for safety. Every restriction on imports cuts down the tonnage of the English mercantile marine and prevents the earning of building reserves for the construction of new vessels. Here again are sufficient reasons for preventing the English building a tariff wall.

Canada need have no fear of being shut out of English trade by English tariffs. The greed-crazed Canadian tariff policy of the last five years did more damage to Canadian trade with England than anything the English may will do.

A placing of a fair tariff for revenue only in Canada, so that the English can both sell and buy in Canada, is the one thing now necessary from a Canadian standpoint. Then we can do, and continue to do, real business with England, instead of the present skeleton of a trade.

One thing of substantial importance to volume of trade in Canada is that the tourists who come north in summer do not buy things manufactured as copies of their own manufactures; but that they will buy in great quantity English goods which have distinguishing features of difference from goods available at home. Canadian merchants have lost a large volume of trade during the last five years, and rents and clerks' wages have fallen, because it has been impossible to get suitable English goods for the tourist trade; the tariff wall could not be climbed. This is an amputation of trade, because no Canadian manufacturers are bought in place of the English goods shut out. It is just a case of no sale.

Another thing which is lost sight of is that a high tariff is a drastic governmental interference with the right to carry on business; and for every sale it makes there is an automatic no sale and contraction of commerce produced in some other line of business.

The English have already paid for proof of this fact; and no English government could ever risk the assassination of commerce along the lines of the present Canadian tariff policy.

HOWSON GETS BIG WELCOME FROM PONOKA

in equality to its proportionate contribution of taxation, without interest entirely, or such law interest that it would comprise mere administration costs spread over long terms. With this "returned credit," Alberta would be enabled to lighten tax loads, embark upon works programs and increase grants to the very social welfare causes such as education, hospitalization, old age pensions.

Such operation would serve to gradually wreck the burden termed "wages of money" otherwise usury by interest, and cheap money would become available. The Province of Alberta would urge a provincial branch of Central Bank here, and if possible this would function for debt adjustment, extended to retailers in bad financial shape owing to having "carried" farmers and others over the depression period.

REAL SOCIAL CREDIT

There was more real social credit in the Liberal monetary reform program than could be discovered in the whole Aberhart system, declared Mr. Howson as he urged electors to take the platform and submit it to tests upon its practicability.

Driving from Rimbey to Ponoka over dirt roads with a storm looming nearby, Mr. Howson noted engineers at work running grades, while a grading crew also labored. He reminded the Ponoka constituents that although they had a premier representing the province, vitally essential road needs had been neglected until immediately prior to election, and that this was quite characteristic in all parts of Alberta. Generally, the electorate was irate, discouraged and dissatisfied, determined to give a decisive expression to their displeasure next Thursday at the polls. The governmental policy of indifference, drift and inefficiency was berated by the speaker.

SHORE RECOUNTS FEAR

Eddie Shore again proved a very popular addition to the campaign entourage. At both meetings Tuesday he recounted his fear, as a dirt farmer, that only aggressive governmental action in reforestation and water conservation would stem a growing drought menace in various parts of Alberta.

In the Liberal agricultural platform he could see a determination to deal with the issue as with those of unemployment, and an investigation into oil price monopoly which work hardships upon farmers. On Social Credit Eddie expressed a fear that the suggested basic dividend was "something for nothing," and if ever given, which he doubted, would so damage reserve to kill the incentive of youth and turn normal progressive ambition to slothfulness and indifference to the prime requirement of all men, which is to work.

Mr. McLaren, candidate, pledged whole-hearted support to the pledges and policies of the reorganized provincial Liberal party, promising to serve the interests of the people sincerely and energetically when elected.

In 1933 there were 3,000,000 unemployed out of a total United States population of approximately 60,000,000.

Coast Visitors Return To City On Special Train

Tanned, refreshed and happy as a result of an eight-day holiday at the Pacific coast, approximately 800 excursionists returned to the city via C.N.R. Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. They were travelling on a special train which preceded the westbound Continental Limited by two hours.

The holiday-makers were greeted by hundreds of friends and relatives that thronged the depot and platform shortly after arrival of the train. Only a few minutes after the train puffed into the station, the same platform and depot were practically deserted as the returning Edmontonians hastened to their homes.

A group of travellers told a reporter that arrangements made for the excursionists by C.N.R. officials could not have been bettered.

The returning throngs left for Vancouver on Aug. 4.

SHRINERS PICNIC AT SYLVAN LAKE

Edmonton Shriners will join with Calgary wearers of the fez in the Calgary-Edmonton reform program than could be discovered in the whole Aberhart system, declared Mr. Howson as he urged electors to take the platform and submit it to tests upon its practicability.

FINE EXHIBITS DISPLAYED AT BEVERLY SHOW

Ernest Bradshaw, Mrs. A. Hood Win Top Honors As Horticulturists

Repeating their record of last year, which placed them in the front ranks as horticulturists, Ernest Bradshaw won top place for the highest aggregate score, 477½ points, at the ninth annual flower, fruit and vegetable show of the Beverly Horticultural Society. Mrs. A. Hood won second position, with 46 points.

Attended by a large crowd of interested visitors the show was officially opened in the Beverly town hall Wednesday night by Mayor Harold Gerry, who expressed keen interest in flower culture and gardening among residents of this district of the district for their entertainment.

The exhibition presented a pleasing and colorful scene and the quality of exhibits was described by judges as excellent.

JUDGES FETED

Following judging of the entries, which numbered 347, Wednesday afternoon, a banquet was tendered by the executive to the judges and was served by lady members of the club.

Presiding at the banquet was W. E. Curtis, president of the Beverly Horticultural society. Judges, who spoke highly of the classes shown and offered helpful suggestions for future shows, were Mrs. R. Dickson, Miss Gladys Reeves, Mrs. J. Thornton, William Stowe and Arthur Langton, all members of the Edmonton Horticultural society, whose president, W. J. Cardy, was also a guest. Herschel Island Really Too Hot For the Eskimos

Arctic Paradise Described At Fairbanks

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Aug. 15.—An Arctic "paradise" was described Monday by a place where Eskimos grow forget-me-nots and bask in the sun while the butter keeps cool in underground refrigerators.

Mayor E. B. Collins of Fairbanks told of the spot—Herschel Island in MacKenzie Bay, N.W.T., Canada. Just back from an airplane trip there, he said:

"It's really too hot for the Eskimos. The island is a veritable flower bed. There are daisies, buttercups, forget-me-nots and many others."

The skeptical were silenced by evidence—the mayor brought some of the forget-me-nots back.

"The week I was there," Collins said, "the sky was clear and the sun beat down. The temperature rose almost to 50 degrees. The air was warm and invigorating."

SOVIET THEORY SUBJECTED TO KEEN ANALYSIS

School of Religion Continues at St. Stephen's College Wednesday

Continuing his analysis of social movements of the modern age at the Alberta School of Religion, J. King Gordon, B.A., subjected communism to thorough examination Wednesday morning.

"When we turn to a discussion of the Communist plan for social reconstruction," he said, "we discover that a similar method of approach to that used for fascism is not satisfactory," said Mr. Gordon. Fascism was discussed by the lecturer in his initial address Tuesday morning.

Rev. H. E. Gordon presided at vespers Wednesday morning. First lecture of the morning's session was given by Dr. W. H. Alexander of the University of Alberta, who spoke on "Industry in the New Order." Dr. Edmund W. Wylie of Park Avenue Presbyterian church, New York City, gave the second of his lectures dealing with the preacher and the new emphasis.

Wednesday afternoon discussion at 5:00 o'clock will be led by Dr. Wylie, who will also speak at the evening session.

Sessions will continue Thursday.

Completion Of Seaplane Base Is Delayed

Completion of buildings at the city's airbase, South Cloverdale, has been delayed temporarily due to the presence of federal camp men who were working on the airbase project and who have not yet been moved to new quarters. These employees are at present using buildings which the city plans to finish as the men are moved.

The contract for constructing a new road camp at South Cooking Lake and the unemployed will be transferred from the airbase to the new camp within a week.

Casual Patrons At Cafe Turn Out As Thugs

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Two men who wouldn't check their hats because they were "afraid of catching cold," were somewhere at liberty today with the $3,000 payroll of the Clarendon Inn.

The men sauntered casually into the restaurant at Riverside Drive and 126 street late yesterday, bought two rounds of drinks at the bar. Then they went upstairs after leaving word with the bartender they would be found on the porch if a "Miss Blue—a Miss Bully" asked for them.

Their casual manner changed in the office of the restaurant, where they whipped out guns. One tore a telephone out of the hands of a clerk as they were picked up $3,000. Then they fled.

Another Party For Federal Campaign

TORONTO, Aug. 15—The League for National Government will launch another party in the Dominion election campaign within the next few days, it was reported here last night.

Report was heard at a meeting held here at which decision was reached to contest the election in from 40 to 50 ridings throughout the Dominion.

Rail Worker Has Skull Fractured

FORT McMURRAY, Aug. 13—Struck on the head by a large swinging piling and buried in the mud, Gray Wilson, employee of the Northern Alberta Railways, suffered a skull fracture here Monday night.

In serious condition he was rushed to Edmonton by plane Tuesday.

At the time of the accident, Wilson was working as a member of the construction crew repairing the washouts of the Northern Alberta Railways.

Edward A. Filene Reported Better

MOSCOW, Aug. 15.—A definite turn for the better in the condition of Edward A. Filene, Boston merchant, was reported Wednesday by Dr. James S. McLester of Birmingham, Ala., who is attending him.

New Woman Senator Has Definite Plans

The Hon. Iva Campbell Fallis, Canada's new woman Senator, looks upon her new work as a wider opportunity to serve.

"I have never had so-called 'ambitions," said Mrs. Fallis, while chatting with a reporter in the room at the Royal York hotel, Toronto, last week.

"The next day's work has been my objective. I took part in public affairs just because I liked it, and now I am looking forward to more work at Ottawa."

Mrs. Fallis expressed her reaction to the appointment. Two feelings predominate, she said.

"I realize the very high honor given me, but I also realize now that the honor brings responsibility. In this particular case the honor brings the opportunity to interpret the point of view of the average Canadian woman on questions which she is vitally interested. My second reaction is that Mr. Bennett has shown in a practical way his interest in the people of rural Canada by choosing one of themselves."

In the Canadian Senate, where Mrs. Fallis believes party lines are not so closely drawn, she looks forward, she stated, to working in close harmony with Senator Cairine Wilson, the first woman appointed to the Senate.

NATIONAL OBJECTIVES

To aid the Canadian women to work toward their ideals and to achieve their objective in national life, she regards as the service of women in the Senate. She spoke of the women's organizations of Canada and the progress they have made toward their ideals.

"Women realize that it is possible to accomplish them. Beginnings have been made," she said.

Questioned regarding the farm women of the prairies and their many needs, Mrs. Fallis said that conditions have changed greatly since 1920, when she left her Saskatchewan farm to come east.

Before that the Prairie housewife could be favorably compared with the average Ontario farmer's wife. But the depression and the train of crop disasters have changed all that. The problem of the homemakers of Western Canada, however, Mrs. Fallis stated, varied with her locations.

"We have the rust, the hail, the drouth; and these things happen in certain sections and at various times. Then there is the problem of the pioneer woman on the outskirts of settlement to be considered."

Mrs. Fallis many times expressed her love of the country. She is tall and graceful. Her kindly, friendly manner and straightforward simplicity of statement are qualities that impress one upon meeting her.

"Do you have a set form in your work you are addressing an audience?" her interviewer asked.

"Oh, no; but not after I get started. It comes, as I believe is usual to speakers, before one actually faces the audience," she answered.

Packing the grips for Peterboro, went on during the last minutes of the interview, and the final word told of "friendly good wishes and congratulations received from some of Peterboro's staunch Liberals upon the news of her appointment to the Canadian senate."

BURSARIES ARE AWARDED BY I. O. D. E.

Eric Donald Wilson, of Calgary, son of Mrs. Wilson and of Sergt. E. G. Wilson, of the 13th Battalion, who died of injuries received in France in 1918, has been awarded the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire $1,200 War Memorial bursary. Winner of a second similar award is Mr. James Mann, of Peace River.

An exceptional student during the entire high school course, ranking sixth in the province in his Junior Matriculation exams last year, Eric Wilson has been a student of Western Canada High school, Calgary. He will enter University of Alberta this fall, and will study engineering.

James Mann, the other winner, is the son of Private James Mann, of the 28th Overseas Battalion, who died in 1927 of injuries received in France. In addition to being a steady and sincere worker at high school, James has been president of the school literary society, co-editor of the school paper, president of the school athletic association and of the students' union. He will take a B.A. course at University of Alberta.

CUT BLOOMS FROM SHRUBS

The shrubs which you planted in the spring will be benefited if you cut off the wilted blooms before they form seed pods. They will throw all the energy and strength of the shrub into forming new, woody growth and buds for next year's bloom, rather than weakening itself by forming seeds, which is Nature's course.

This removing of blooms is also suggested for all shrubs which have lovely flowers and whose seed pods are not especially attractive. The lilac comes within this class, and is one shrub of which care should be taken. Only remove the wilted flower, without breaking or bruising the young shoots on each side of the flower, for this is next year's bloom.

There are a large number of shrubs of which the blooms should not be removed, for towards fall these shrubs are a beautiful sight with their colored seed pods. To cut these off would be depriving our feathered friends of much of their food.

HEADS MEN'S ORCHESTRA

Mme. Edith Lorand, Hungarian violinist-conductor, heads an orchestra of men. Mme. Lorand will bring her orchestra of 16 men to America this autumn for their first American tour. The orchestra has given more than 400 concerts in Europe.

Mme. Lorand is a pupil of Hubay and Flesch.

Alberta Girl Weds In Indies

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Tully, whose marriage in Aruba, Dutch West Indies, on Saturday was an event of much interest to many friends in Edmonton, as well as in Calgary, Mrs. Tully was formerly Miss Mary McLean of Calgary, and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard W. McLean. She was formerly Women's Editor of the Calgary Albertan, and a prominent member of the Canadian Women's Press Club. Mr. Tully is connected with the Standard Oil Co. Mr. and Mrs. Tully are pictured in a corner of the lovely garden (an unusual possession on this coral island) at the home of Mrs. Tully's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Heebner, who visited Canada last year. They are with whom she has spent several months. Mr. and Mrs. Tully took an airplane trip to the Island of Curacao, and will later make their home in San Nicolaas, Aruba.

the social round

SOMETIMES, we're just loafing under our lucky star, all unaware, and the most near-tragedies that are averted every day in this world would probably be very frightening if all were known. For example, there was that little matter of the travelling show playing an Alberta town a few weeks ago. A group of Edmontonians motored down to attend, and two or three of the girls overheard a strange little man in a pale beige linen suit, and cap, and carrying a small bewhiskered companion under one arm, use some pretty strong language. They protested, and were offered a few choicer bits than ever from the somewhat effeminate appearing gentleman.

THREE GATES OF GOLD

By Beth Day

If you are tempted to reveal
A tale some one to you has told,
About another, make it pass
Before you speak, three gates of gold.

Three narrow gates—First, "Is it true?"
Then, "Is it needful?" In your mind
Give truthful answer, And the next
Is last and narrowest, "Is it kind?"

And if, to reach your lips at last,
It passes through these gateways three,
Then you may tell the tale, nor fear
What the result of speech may be.

An 18-year-old blind poet who failed to gain an open scholarship to Campbellford high school, has a petition with the best-sighted woman of her year that both Girton and Newnham colleges offered to accept her as a member.

The girl, Miss Ruth Hitchcock, has chosen Newnham, and will go into residence next October. It is her intention to study theology—a most unusual line of study for women.

Her school career has been an outstanding success. At 14 she passed the piano examination of the Associated Board and the Royal Academy of Music and at 16 gained her school certificate with honors.

It is odd how inanimate things sometime attract. They seem almost to have character and personality. A case in point is the famous liner Mauretania. "The Old Lady of the Sea," as the vessel was called, has a marvellous record and those engaged in shipping felt a peculiar attraction to her. When the last sailed from New York, on her farewell voyage, the dean of the New York pilots gave up a holiday in order to escort her out of the harbor. Just 28 years ago the same pilot guided the vessel into New York harbor on her maiden trip, and when she steamed down the Narrows of the Hudson on her last trip, he brushed tears from his eyes. A good ship does things like that to men—Boston Post.

Returning to the male members of the party, they related the story, and one brave youth in the party was all for going over and giving the visitor a taste of Alberta-grown fist, right in the eye; but better, the gentler sex restrained him, and by evening he had almost forgotten his pugilistic intentions.

Then they went to see the show. First thing on the program, who should appear but he of the pale suit, now done up in black trunks and exhibiting a magnificent set of muscles. The large lettered sign announced that he was "the strong man" of the troupe. After watching him lift many heavy weights, and finally pick up a chair by his teeth and hurl it across the room, the Edmonton lad slipped down in his chair and pulled up his coat collar. "Where" he breathed, wiping his brow, "is this my lucky day!"

It is harder for young men to marry now than it was years ago, according to the United States Commission of Education, owing to the broader outlook of women. He holds that marriage is not very attractive to many of these bright modern girls—certainly not so attractive as to their grandmothers, they have the alternative choice of careers and consequent independence.

Galli-Curci Happy Over Operation

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—The following account of her reactions to her recent goiter operation and her ambitions for the future was written for the Associated Press by Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, world famous coloratura soprano.

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—I cannot tell you how happy I am. My voice is free again, unbridled after years of struggle with the "potato."

The result of my operation is just short of marvelous. Even now, when I am not fully recovered, I need hardly open my mouth to obtain the notes difficult when the "potato" (her name for the goiter) was in my throat.

I feel a new career is before me. If the doctor would permit it, I would sing now for sheer happiness, but for a time I must be careful. . . . Several times each day I exercise the voice a little to make sure that in the healing process the vocal cords and tissues of my throat remain flexible.

Canadian Designer Scoops Paris

PARIS, Aug. 15—A Canadian designer, Marjorie Bunton, introduced such novelties as "stained glass window" wools, "milky way" chiffons and wools appliqued with wood faggots to the winter fashion whirl today.

She displayed wools woven with multi-colored and barred effects resembling church windows which were fashioned into to sport suits. Colored kidskin blouses were worn with them.

Wools appliqued with wood faggots are tufted with gay castles were made into daytime frocks designed in silhouette to follow the natural lines of the figure, with slightly shorter skirts. Black, green, brown and grape were the predominant colors for day wear.

Hats were small felts jutting over the forehead or rolling back off the face.

LONDON WOMAN LEADER PASSES

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Dame Elizabeth Mary Cadbury, outstanding leader in educational, peace, housing and social efforts for many years, died here Wednesday.

Her activities caused her many honors from foreign countries. She was created a Dame of the Order of the British Empire last year.

Mrs. Stevens Is Great Aid To Leader

"Women must take an active interest in politics if they want to get anywhere. They should talk politics, learn to think for themselves, and weigh the policies of the various parties. Know your own convictions and then get in and help." This was the firm conviction of Mrs. H. H. Stevens, who, with the Hon. H. H. Stevens, is in Edmonton Wednesday.

Her home and family come first, but her husband's Reconstruction movement holds a place of engrossing interest in her life. Her complete faith in her husband, her burning enthusiasm and sincerity, and her encouragement and sympathetic understanding, must be a sustaining influence of immeasurable value in the life of a public man.

Of medium height, with softly curling hair greyed with the troublous times which have mingled with the bright days, kindly-eyed and gracious, Mrs. Stevens chatted informally and told of the pleasure she felt in the enthusiasm which has greeted her husband's and her husband on their trip through the west. Mrs. Stevens does no active campaigning, just talks informally with small groups of women in the various places where they stop on their trips. She helped Mr. Stevens formulate his Reconstruction platform, giving him the woman's point of view on public questions, and she attends all his meetings, trying to listen to his addresses as an outsider that she may give him free reactions.

"The best of men get a little discouraged, now and then, and need someone to whom they can turn. They need someone at their side, and that's where I always want to be," she said with a motherly smile.

Mrs. Stevens is a real westerner, having lived in Vancouver for 28 years previous to the last five, which they have spent in Ottawa. She came to Canada from her birthplace, Grimsby, England, when a very little child, and pioneered with her parents at Qu' Appelle, Sask. "The railroad was to be built in three years, but it was 30 years before it came," she said. There were terrible difficult times following the Riel rebellion, which she still remembers vaguely. It was at Vernon, B.C., where her parents later went, that she met Mr. Stevens, though they were both in their early teens at the time.

Lady Astor Espouses Birth Control Cause

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Lady Astor, mother of six, today expressed herself as unworried over the prospects of her returning to parliament in the approaching elections even though she has espoused the unpopular issue of birth-control.

But she wants her exact position understood.

"I support carefully supervised birth-control on the grounds of health," she said.

"For years I did not believe in birth-control clinics," declared Lady Astor, "I do not know whether it was due to religious views or why it was. But when I saw the appalling things that were going on my attitude changed.

"The lives of some of these women are truly pathetic. The tragedy is the poorest women, through lack of knowledge, have to bring children into the world year after year."

ST. LOUIS BARS NOW ONLY FOR MEN DRINKERS

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15.—"Tables for ladies"—yesterday an unobstrusive sign loitered on the door of most St. Louis taverns—today became the law for feminine drinkers, barred from the bars by the city excise commissioner.

Henceforth women who drink must drink at tables, or at home. From this day, St. Louis bars are "For Men Only."

Beauty Is Given Gold Standard Now

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Beauty has been offered a gold standard.

Its general adoption would not only assure every woman a face being her fortune, the annual convention of the American Cosmeticians Association was told today, but that fortune would be 14 karat fine.

The yellow metal is an ingredient of a new face lotion. It was used, beauty experts explained, "because gold brings out the highlights of the skin."

Face powder is on its way out, the convention was also informed. Madame Aurelea of New York reported the old favorite is losing its place to a combination of finishing powder and lotion.

The Rev. Edward T. Scragg, who left Mount Pleasant recently after nine years' pastorage at Fifth Ave. United church, preached his first sermon at Wesley United church.

Home, Family Life Are Most Important

DEAR MISS DIX.—What is your opinion of home and family life?
MARTHA.

Answer: These are the two most important things in the world. They are the foundation upon which all civilization rests. They form the character and set the life pattern of every one of us.

Dorothy Dix

Every man and woman of us are stamped indelibly with the print of the homes out of which we have come. We are what our family life has made us. No matter how far we go, no matter what culture we take on, no matter how much we believe we have changed and how much we think we have gotten away from the teachings of our childhood, they still subconsciously color our every thought and act.

Our mothers and fathers shaped the clay and fired it in the oven of home, and we are what they made us. In the great crisis of our lives we do not calmly reason things out. We are actuated by the principles that we drew in with our mothers' milk. We stand or fall. We are weak or strong according to the habits that our parents bred in us.

That is why the making of a home and the rearing of a family are the biggest jobs that any man and woman ever undertake, because the children that they send out into the world are going to be a blessing or a curse to it according to the way they have done their work.

If the parents have made a home that was filled with love, peace, kindliness, helpfulness and fair dealing, it is a practical certainty that the children who grow up in it will be healthy, sane and free from all neurotic tendencies. Psychoanalysts tell us that they almost never have a case of nervous breakdown in people who have been reared in a happy and cheerful home, but that, on the contrary, they can trace innumerable nervous disorders, even middle-aged people, to their having been reared in stormy households where the husband and wife were at odds with each other and indulged in perpetual quarrels.

And if children are brought up with high ideals of honor and honesty; if they are taught to control their tempers and their passions; if they have habits of industry and thrift bred into them, the chances are a hundred to one that they will develop into the men and women who are the backbone of every community.

It is out of the slovenly and sloppy homes, with never a decent meal or a comfort in them, that children flee to the street. It is the fretful and nagging mothers and the grouchy fathers who drive their children into gangs for companionship. It is the fighting parents whose children run wild to get away from the scene of never-ending strife. It is the fathers and mothers who lie and cheat before each other and who have no fixed principles whose children take the easiest way of getting what they want, and become criminals.

The people who are doing the most important work in the world are not those who are fulfilling some spectacular career. They are not politicians, nor generals, nor admirals, nor writers, nor artists. They are the men and women who are making good homes and bringing their children up to be fine men and women. The world born is to belong to such a family. Lucky the baby that achieves it.

When you have to wait for a person you give undue weight to the delay.

There's Something About The Seashore

The old popular song was right. And when you wander along the sands you'll be sure to find many gay and lazy suits like these. Navy blue gabardine slacks and a navy and white halter with anchor motif are perfect for lounging or yachting, if you are so gay. You might add a double breasted sailor jacket when breezes get cool. Shorts and striped halter are useful on any week-end vacation.

New Menus Will Add Zest To Your Meal

What's What

I've made some very pleasant acquaintances at this lake store hotel. I have to go home next week to get the children ready for school. I want to know how to say good-by to these people, some of whom I shall not be likely to see again, either because they live far away, or in a wholly different circle nearer home.

MRS. W. V.

Answer—It is natural to associate with congenial groups during the Summer vacation. If some of these are new acquaintances with whom one has become quite friendly in a short time, as so often happens in a resort, it is at once ill-natured and ill-mannered to freeze up suddenly before leaving for home. It may not be desirable to continue on the intimate footing pleasing to the whole group when accidentally thrown together. Every member of the group may have the same feeling of impermanency in the association, although now and then life-long friendships are created during annual outings. In any event, no sudden break should be made. There is always a possibility of meeting again, and a well-bred woman, when leaving her Summer acquaintances, always is courteous enough to indicate that possibility when she is saying farewell to them.

1. What is the place of the boy friend of the maid of honor at a wedding if he is acquainted with the bride and groom? 2. What is his place at the banquet? MAX.

Answer—The "boy friend" has no special privilege. He is assigned to a seat in church by an usher and a place at table by the head waiter.

Good Taste

What would you suggest as correct dress for my maid? I like to live nicely and do the right thing. M. G. T.

Answer—A gay gingham dress with a nice spotless apron is correct for the morning. Then in the afternoon she might change to a black sateen dress with small organdie collar, with cuffs and cuffs to match. Nowadays, not many households require maids to wear caps.

Remember when you thought all vegetables except onions, maybe tomatoes and a few greens had to be cooked to be good? And now look at all the raw carrots, cauliflower, beets and what not in salads and in all d'oeuvres! That ought to give lazy housekeepers a tip. When you think there's nothing else new under the sun, just do something different with all the old things.

Sister Mary

For instance, did you ever hear of an egg nest? Well, technically speaking, it's toast and eggs, but your family will never think of that, it looks so fancy. Yet it's no trouble. Simply pile stiffly beaten egg white on buttered toast with a bit of butter and the unbroken eggs dropped in the centre. Sprinkle salt and pepper over the top and put in a moderate hot oven (375 degrees F.) until the egg is set. This will take about ten minutes, and then what a breakfast!

ARRANGE MEAT BY COLORS

Arrange your cold meat platter according to color and see what a difference it makes. Emphasizing the rosy-tan of cold sliced roast beef, the brighter pink of baked ham, the creamy rosal pork, the pure white breast of chicken and speckled pink of tongue. And then for real scenic effect, garnish with pickle fans and pond lilies made of thin slices of cucumber and radishes with the skin left on, and just a ripe olive for the centre. Stems and leaves are made of slivers and thin slices of dill pickle. Surround the edge of the platter with half-moons of sliced beet and wedges of cucumber. A lot of fun, besides entirely of foods used every day!

An excellent salad to serve with cold cuts of meat is a mixed vegetable salad.

SALADE ADOLPH

Arrange in a large salad bowl finely shredded mixed greens. There should be endive cut in matchlike strips, chopped chicory, lettuce, watercress, escarole and romaine. In the centre place a rosette of fingers of tomato meat garnished in the centre with a raw carrot. Then at the table with Adolph dressing which has a base of cocktail sauce to which is added a generous dash more of French dressing, a dash of red wine vinegar and freshly ground pepper. Toss lightly and serve without extra dressing.

The old family friend, rice pudding, with an alluring disguise when it appears as cream rice meringue. The same sugar and eggs and milk but they're in a different combination.

CREAM RICE MERINGUE

One-half cup rice, 3 cups milk, ¼ cup sugar, ½ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, grated rind 1 orange, 2 tablespoons dates, 2 eggs, few drops vanilla, 4 tablespoons powdered sugar.

Cook rice and milk in a double boiler until rice is soft. Add ¼ cup sugar, salt, grated orange rind and juice, dates and slightly beaten egg yolks. Cook until mixture thickens. Turn into a serving dish and chill. Beat whites of eggs until stiff. Beat in powdered sugar and vanilla and drop small spoonfuls onto a baking sheet covered with waxed paper. Bake twenty minutes in a slow oven (300 degrees F.). Slide to top of rice pudding and serve.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST—Chilled mixed fruits, cereal, cream, egg nests, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Baked tomatoes stuffed with macaroni and cheese, whole wheat rolls (baked while tomatoes are baking), apple sauce, ginger bread, milk, tea.

DINNER. Cream of mushroom

Beautiful Hands Are The Result Of Care

By GLADYS GLAD

"Dear Miss Glad: I am only 16, and am very sensitive about the appearance of my hands. My fingers, you see, are terribly short and stubby looking. Since I am still in the formative years, I was wondering whether I couldn't massage my fingers in some manner, in order to shape them more pleasingly. Can you give me any information on this matter?" KATHIE.

Although you can't change the actual bony structure of your hands to any great extent, you really can exert some influence upon their muscular structure. Before you retire each night, apply a generous coating of cold cream or nourishing cream to your hands. Then, beginning at the base of each finger on the left hand, take first the forefinger, then each of the other fingers and the thumb successively between the thumb and forefinger of your right hand, and pull the fingers with a firm movement upward from the base on the tip of each finger. When using your hand lotion each day, too, give your hands a brief massaging in the same manner. This procedure, if done faithfully, will help a great deal to taper and shape your short, stubby fingers.

"Dear Miss Glad: Your 'New Figure' booklet has been wonderfully helpful to me, and I'm so glad grateful to you. I've not only succeeded in losing 31 pounds of excess weight, but have also gained more symmetry. And my body is firm and supple now, too. However, whenever I give my hair a shampoo, I can never seem to get all the soap out of it. As a result, my tresses always seem a bit dingy after a shampoo. Is there anything at all that I can do about this?"

IGNORE.

It is most important that you remove every bit of soap from your hair after shampooing, for even the slightest trace of soap will detract from the luster and silkyness of your hair, and lay a foundation that will attract floating dust and germs. If you are using a cake of soap for lathering your hair, change the practice at once. It is very hard to thoroughly remove from the hair soap that has been used in cake form. Use a liquid soap, and after the lathering, continue to rinse your tresses until you are positive that every bit of soap has been removed. An ordinary hair spray is grand for rinsing the hair. Then, in the next-to-the-last rinse, place a teaspoon or more of the strained juice of one lemon. This will cut all the traces of soap curd, and will prevent your hair from being dimmed and gummed by remains of soap after it is dry.

There is no connection between roses and the common "rose fever" of June, it is claimed, which appear in the Spring, says Dr. Samuel M. Feinberg in the treatise, "Asthma, Hay Fever and Related Disorders." Dr. Feinberg says that the real cause of rose colds is the pollen from various grasses which blooms about the same time of the year that roses appear. Some persons are sensitive to one pollen, while others are not, but are sensitive to other pollens. There are even foods which affect susceptible people in a similar way.

South Sea Islanders sometimes use one-half of the shell of a giant clam for a bath tub.

Your Children -

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

O. R. Barton

When Mark went to the farm on the first of July, he was pale and thin. That final on Latin had him down. Latin had always been hard for him, but the rest of his studies were easy. He did his math with his left hand almost high-school chemistry was mere "puddin'" and physics and history a walk-away.

He was to be a doctor, and it was thought best for him to have Latin. He despised that and let it slide when he never he could. He'd ponied for exams and just pulled through, but it had taken the compulsion of the police force to get him at it those hot nights in June.

This was why he was sent to Uncle Ed's farm for the summer. Both parents were worried. He hadn't eaten well, had lost pounds and his eyes looked sunken. Yes, the farm was just the thing, so here he was.

When he helped with the hay it made him very tired at first. His back and his arms ached, but he wouldn't. So thrilled was he that he worked until he dropped exhausted into bed each night.

JOHNNY-ON-THE-SPOT

Each morning he was up early and out. He couldn't get enough of the wide fields and free, clear sky. The smell of growing things was in his very soul. His eyes brightened and his skin tanned by the day. The tired feeling went, and he ate enough for three people. Finally, the hay was in. And the sun shone and the wind blew and the rain fell and before you knew it the wheat was ripe.

Mark was strong now, but he didn't get up quite so early. When he went out he didn't notice the dew on the clover any more. The sky was just sky and the field of wheat looked almost too big. But he worked with a will, stacked up the sheaves into shocks the way he was shown and no one could call him lazy. He stayed on because it was written that he remain for the summer. Then the oats grew golden and ruffled as they sent up the breeze. Time now to garner the crop.

SLACKENING OF INTEREST

Mark had to be called twice each morning. He drove the cutter himself now, but a look at the windrows would have told a child that it was careless work. Instead of straight lines there were waves and here and there thin fringes of grain still stood untouched.

"Mark," said Uncle Ed one evening, "I am glad you are better. Never saw anyone pick up as quick. But you don't eat as you should and you have a sort of worried look, like it was when you came. It's the same work, the same food, the same people and place. What's wrong?"

"Why, nothing, Uncle Ed. I'm having a swell time."

"Look here, young fellow. I think I'm going to talk to you. I think I know your trouble. You are what I call 'an interested worker.' When you have to work at something that doesn't interest you, or that you're tired of, you go to pieces. It even makes you sick."

TAKE GOOD WITH BAD

"You'll work like a horse at something until the novelty wears off, and then you're done. Nothing at things you like, but if you don't just love a thing, it gets you. If you don't like it at all, you vomit. You aren't a born worker. You're a pick-and-choose worker. That won't do in this world. Even if you want to be a doctor. You've got to learn to take the good with the bad and pitch right in."

No one had held up Mark to himself as a man before, and Uncle Ed was right. He went back to school determined to dig under that Latin and get on to the next year's work. Next year he would show them. Face it, that was the word, and stop being a baby.

DEDUCTION OF UNION FEES IS DISPUTE BASIS

Question of Stopping Dues From Civic Salaries Unsettled

Another flare-up over the deduction of union dues from civic employes' salaries occurred at an adjourned meeting of city council Wednesday, when Mayor J. A. Clarke charged that a portion, at least, of such monies was being used for political campaigning. Council instructed commissioners to investigate.

ALLEGATION DEN'ED

During the course of a short wordy battle with Ald. Jas East, the mayor alleged that "the expenses of your campaign are being paid by the taxpayers." This allegation was heatedly denied by both Ald. East and Ald. Jas. Findlay, both Labor candidates in the provincial elections.

This question was discussed following the request by R. LeMaitre, official of the All-Canadian unions, that the practice of deducting dues from city servants' salaries be stopped.

Some time ago the mayor announced he would order such deductions stopped, as he had heard they were being used for political purposes.

Ald. East said this was a matter for employees to settle among themselves. Miners had deductions made to allow for medical treatment in case of accident, he said.

EMPLOYEES NOT FORCED

Employees were not forced to make such payments unless they wanted to, stated Ald. A. Bisset.

Council supported the suggestion by Ald. J. W. Fry that commissioners investigate and report back to council in this connection.

TWEEDSMUIR HERE BEFORE FEDERAL VOTE

New Governor - General Will Witness Closing Stage of Battle

OTTAWA, Aug. 15—The postponement of the general election date to October 14 will enable Lord Tweedsmuir, the new governor-general of Canada, to arrive in the Dominion before the country is tied up in the last throes of a vigorous election campaign.

When the Duke of Connaught came to Canada in 1911 he arrived early in October, right at the conclusion of the fierce election campaign then waging. It was considered inadvisable that he should land at such a time and for three days he sailed aboard his ship in the St. Lawrence.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier went out of office October 6 and Sir Robert Borden assumed office October 10. The Duke of Connaught took office October 12, but he could have landed in Canada three days before that. His Royal Highness didn't like it a bit but they kept him in the river till the tumult and the shouting died.

The Earl of Bessborough is due to leave for England on September 28. Traditionally the incoming and outgoing governor generals pass at sea so that two shall not be in Canada at once. If Lord Tweedsmuir crossed the Earl of Bessborough at sea he would have arrived here as the Duke of Connaught did almost on election day (had the election been set as originally planned for September 30).

In parts of Ireland, a game similar to mumblety-peg is played with a table fork.

Hollywood Gossip

INTIMATE GLIMPSES AND INSIDE STUFF ON THE MOVIE COLONY

By DAN THOMAS

BIG doings in Hollywood—and not nearly as commonplace as they may sound. So read on.

Louise Dantzler (1) and John Offield (2) are going places together again. A friend, curious to know Louise, manages to annex so many new boy friends, recently asked her, "What do you do, meet all the trains?"

Lucille Langhanke (3) is back in circulation and hitting the late spots since her husband divorced her recently. Dorothea Heermance (4) is expecting her second baby almost any day—and is hoping for a girl. She already has a son, two years old.

Richard Van Mattimore (5) wires that he and his wife will return from their cross country tour in about two weeks. Then it will be grease paint for Dick again.

Ruth Davis (6) is spending most of her free evenings sitting quietly and alone at a corner table in the Clover Club. No, she isn't upstaging anyone. Her husband is the orchestra leader there.

Having just finished three pictures, Nancy Lafitt (7) is on a shopping spree—gutting her summer wardrobe together.

STRANGERS ALL!

When Harriette Lake (8) returned from New York recently she found her favorite boy friend with a contract to play in her next picture. And the title of the film is "The Girl Friend." That will inspire plenty of quips.

Evelyn Lederer (9) and her 3-year-old daughter are practically hibernating in their new Toluca Lake home. She scarcely ever is seen in her old haunts anymore.

It's a wonder Marion Douras (10) ever finished her last picture what with all the lunches she toased for politicians.

RAMON FINANIEGAS (11) is spending four hours a day getting his voice in shape for his South American concert tour.

Gladys Smith (12) is planning on remaking some of her most successful pictures, with a younger actress playing her former roles. Lillian Bohney's (13) hair has turned solid gray—and so becoming.

Although entangled in one of Hollywood's most talked about romances, Lucille LeSaur (14) wows she never will remarry.

P.S. You probably can supply more familiar names for most of those mentioned above. If not, you know them in the order in which they are numbered: 1, Mary Brian; 2, Jack Oakie; 3, Mary Aston; 4, June Collyer; 5, Richard Arlen; 6, Bette Davis; 7, Nancy Carroll; 8, Ann Southern; 9, Sue Carrol; 10, Ramon Novarro; 12, Mary Pickford; 13, Billie Dove, and 14, Joan Crawford.

FORMER DANCER SLAYS MATE

HAMBURG, N.Y., Aug. 15.—Lucille Horan, a pretty former Broadway dancer, confessed Wednesday authorities said, she had slain her husband in a struggle for his pistol after he struck her.

She said they quarreled at their home after returning from a round of Buffalo night clubs.

A neighbor found her sitting on the Horan lawn, her dead husband's head in her lap, their clothing showing signs of a struggle.

Steamer Docks

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—The S.S. Westernland reached Churchill, Canada's Hudson Bay port, at 1:30 p.m. Central Standard Time, Wednesday, according to the radio branch of the marine department. This freighter is the first to arrive at Churchill this season.

MAE WEST IS INVITED FOR LONDON SHOW

LONDON, Aug. 15. — Mae West, it was announced Wednesday, has been offered about $7,000 (approximately $35,000) for a two weeks appearance late in September at the opening of the Picadilly theatre as a variety house.

KING VISITS FLOOD AREA

ALESSANDRIA, Italy, Aug. 15.—King Victor Emmanuel went into the flood-stricken area Wednesday from his summer home near Turin to give consolation to his suffering subjects.

Premier Mussolini, through Secretary Starace of the Fascist party, ordered every resource of the Fascist militia, the regular army and the civil government to be strained to the utmost to deliver aid.

Tory Candidate

SHOAL LAKE, Man., Aug. 15.—Robert Peden, pioneer farmer, was the choice of a Conservative nominating convention here last night to represent Marquette in the forthcoming federal general elections. Col. H. A. Mullins, present member, withdrew, due to illness of his wife, confined to her home in the east.

ASK PROVINCE BEAR BURDEN RELIEF COSTS

Emergency Relief for Indigents Subject of Council Debate

Emergency relief paid by Edmonton taxpayers for the care of indigents coming here from outside municipalities and who are not a city responsibility was the basis of an objection raised by several aldermen at an adjourned meeting of city council, Wednesday. It was urged that the provincial government be asked to assume this burden, but no definite action was taken by council in this connection.

Discussion on this point arose out of a particular case where a family formerly residing in the Lockerbie M.D. and since moved to Edmonton asked for direct relief here.

DECLARED UNFAIR

Ald. A. Bisset declared it unfair that the city should have to give emergency relief to such cases, particularly when they were a direct responsibility of another municipality. He believed the provincial government should again be approached with a view to giving the city help.

While the city was not legally responsible in such cases, women and children could not be allowed to go hungry, Mayor J. A. Clarke pointed out. Commissioners had been authorizing temporary assistance to the families in question in the hope that the provincial government or outside municipalities would finally assume the burden.

APPEAL TO COURT

City Solicitor Thos. Garside explained that the city had the right to take these cases to court in an effort to determine whose responsibility the indigents were. Until a ruling was handed down, it was likely the city would get a court order relieving the city relief expenditures in this connection, he said.

Ald. J. T. McCreath favored the city informing outside municipalities that Edmonton would no longer give relief to cases coming in from country points. Such a step would help to stop the influx of unemployed into the city, he believed.

TWO CHINESE ARRESTED IN POLICE RAID

Alleged Lottery and Opium Den Knocked Over in Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Aug. 15. — Royal Canadian Mounted Police, assisted by city officers, last night raided an alleged lottery and opium selling den, arrested two Chinese and seized $3,027 in cash, a quantity of opium, scales and opium pipes and several sacks full of lottery tickets.

Young Jong was arrested and charged with being in possession of opium and Soo Get was charged with conducting a lottery. Both were held over in jail and will appear in police court today for preliminary hearing.

Officers made a labyrinth of rooms and hallways on the top floor of the building in the Unit block east Pender on search of evidence after gaining admittance from an adjoining building and a balcony.

The opium was hidden in niches in the walls and the scales used for weighing it were found in a box in a stovepipe. The money was uncovered in a trunk full of old clothes.

Lawyer Fails To Appear To Give Inquiry Evidence

LONDON, Ont., Aug. 15.—Scheduled to testify Wednesday before a royal commission investigating alleged evasion of succession duties by seven Spencer estates, W. Edward Spencer, London lawyer, failed to appear. His counsel, I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., told Royal Commissioner John Greer W. Spencer was called out of the city by urgent business. He did not know when he would return.

At the request of R. A. MacDougall, Ontario government counsel, Mr. Spencer was to have furnished documentary proof he paid proceeds of three debentures left him by late Mrs. W. M. Spencer, to Frederick Niblett, Hamilton.

The government contends the debentures were not declared for succession duty purposes.

PERJURY IN MOONEY CASE CONFESSED

BALTIMORE, Md., Aug. 15.—An aged, paralyzed man whose testimony in 1917 aided in sending Thomas J. Mooney to prison for life for the Preparedness Day bombing in San Francisco, Tuesday testified under oath that he perjured himself in identifying Mooney as the timer of the bomb which killed 10 persons and injured two score.

The testimony, that of John Macdonald, now a patient in Baltimore City hospital, is the first link of a legal chain which attorneys for Mooney hope will successfully end Mooney's long fight for freedom.

It was taken before a referee named by the California supreme court and will be submitted to the court for review before that body passes upon Mooney's petition for a writ of habeas corpus.

CHILLIWACK, B.C., Aug. 15.—H. J. Barber of Chilliwack last night was chosen Conservative candidate for the Fraser Valley constituency in the coming federal election. Mr. Barber represented the constituency in the last parliament.

FLEET SPEED PLANE READY

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 15.—A new $100,000 airplane, described as the fastest and most expensive land racing plane ever built, was given finishing touches Wednesday. The craft, expected to do 365 miles an hour, probably will be taken up today for its first test.

The owner, Howard Hughes—sportsman, film producer and millionaire manufacturer—personally supervised today's check-up. Friends said the young aviation enthusiast will pilot the plane himself in the national air races Aug. 30.

TWO-FOLD MENACE IN ALBERTA POLITICAL SITUATION

Liberal Party Only Means Combatting Dangers—Van Allen

Liberal Candidate Warns Against Menace of U.F.A. and Aberhart "Dole" Scheme in Radio Address.

Characterizing the present political situation as embodying a two-fold menace to the province, G. H. Van Allen, K.C., Liberal candidate for Edmonton in the provincial election, when speaking over the radio on Wednesday night, assured his hearers that the Liberal party offers the only sure means of combatting these dangers.

"We have in this province a two-fold menace," said Mr. Van Allen. "On the one hand, a continuance of U.F.A. government, characterized by drift and incompetence, and on the other hand a Aberhart 'dole' scheme, characterized by an intention to practice fundamental fallacies that can only lead Alberta into chaos and despair.

SUFFICIENT GROUNDS

"The incompetent administration of our provincial finances, the official mismanagement of the telephone system, and the abject failure of the U.F.A. to protect our markets, are sufficient grounds alone upon which to reject the candidates of the U.F.A. party at the polls on August 22."

Commending his hearers to ally themselves with the Liberal party in defending the province from the threatening dangers, Mr. Van Allen said:

"The Liberal party is the one sure means to avoid either of these dangers, but in addition the Liberal party offers the people for the first time in Canadian history, the opportunity of nationwide unity from coast to coast, with leaders devoted and pledged to a great program, both federally and provincially, in which the direct attack will be made to secure wider markets and better prices for Canadian producers, reform of our monetary structure whereby the national credit may be controlled by a publicly owned bank in terms of public need, and finally, the reconstruction of the B.N.A. Act on a basis more in keeping with the conditions and circumstances of 1935.

"With these two-fold objectives in mind, we earnestly invite all electors to unite with us to avoid imminent dangers on the one hand and to carry forward to completion great forward looking programs of reform on the other hand.

Mainly in his address Mr. Van Allen dealt with the record of the U.F.A. government, saying that he wished to draw attention to three aspects of the 14 years of U.F.A. administration, firstly, the enormous increase in the cost of government between 1921 and 1935, secondly, the responsibility of the U.F.A. for the telephone collapse, and thirdly, the failure of the U.F.A. to save markets.

U.F.A. SHOWED DEFICIT

"In 1920, the last full year that the Liberals were in office in the province, government expenditures totalled 8½ million dollars, leaving

SECOND SECTION — EDMONTON, ALBERTA—THURSDAY, AUG. 15, 1935 — PAGE NINE

PAVING FIRM STARTS WORK NEW CONTRACT

Paving of 101 street from the lane north of 102 avenue to Jasper avenue was commenced Thursday morning by the Crown Paving and Construction Co. Ltd., which received the contract at a price of $22,865.50. The contract provides that the work be completed by October 15.

Workmen Thursday were engaged in the removal of the existing curb and wooden blocks with which the street is paved. About 20 men and four trucks were being worked, a company official stated that preference was being given to married men who were taxpayers. The contract calls for the construction of a paved stretch, asphaltic concrete curb and gutter, necessary repairs to the sidewalk and street railway trackage and the removal of old wooden stumps of power line posts.

It was reported Thursday that J. W. Mould, contractor for the construction of the 97 avenue storm sewer from 109 street to the river, had completed excavations and pipe-laying from the river to a point between 104 and 105 streets. This contract was let for about $9,000, exclusive of piping which is supplied by the city and which brings the cost of the project to approximately $13,000. The work must be completed next month.

BAD WEATHER VISITS CITY

Rain, strong winds and falling temperature all contributed to making Wednesday a most unfavorable summer day. A strong wind swept over the district and .02 inches of rain fell. During the night Spruce Grove experienced temperature of 36—just four degrees away from freezing.

And this is only the middle of August.

The highest point reached by the mercury on Wednesday was 60 and the lowest in the city was 42. Throughout Wednesday the mean temperature was 53.5 as against 56 for the same day a year ago.

At 3 p.m. the temperature was 59 and hourly readings until midnight were 56, 54, 54, 50, 46, 42, 42, 42.

From 7 a.m. until 9 a.m. readings were 42, 42, 42, 42, 42, 42, 43, 44, 49.

POLICE HOLD BASHAW MAN

Gurmund Pedersen is being brought back from Bashaw today under police escort to answer two charges of false pretences and a charge of theft of a car which he is alleged to have stolen from Price-Dayton, Ltd., during Tuesday night.

Pedersen was reported to have made an offer to buy a car from Price-Dayton, Ltd., Tuesday and tendered a cheque for $200. He was asked to wait until Wednesday so that the dealers might see if the cheque was good. In the mornins the car, which was parked outside the garage was gone.

Harry Brake, sales manager at Motordrome, Ltd., reported that the same day Pedersen had made a deal to buy a car from him and tendered a cheque for $400. This cheque was held until information was received from the bank that the maker was "not known."

Pedersen was arrested in Bashaw Wednesday by R.C.M.P. police for driving while intoxicated. Upon investigation with city police in Edmonton, he was held until an escort was sent for his return here.

Pedestrian Hurt On Jasper Ave.; Driver In Court

Mairo Masterelli, 10719 125 St., was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital, suffering a fractured left arm, three ribs broken on the left side and cuts to his face and head, received when he was struck down by a car driven by Steve Zdril, 111 Belmont block at 10:45 p.m. Wednesday.

The accident occurred 12 paces east of the Bulletin office on Jasper avenue. Zdril was driving east on Jasper avenue and the injured man was crossing south to the north side.

The driver of the car appeared in police court Thursday morning, charged with reckless driving.

Passenger Train Completes Trip

Undaunted by stormy northern weather, a Northern Alberta Railways southbound passenger train from Grande Prairie and Peace River arrived in Edmonton at 2:00 a.m. Thursday, the first dispatch to make a round trip over the north country branches since July 29 when gale-whipped rains damaged trackage in the Lesser Slave Lake area. On the train was mail from the northland and a large number of passengers.

It was due at 8:35 p.m. Wednesday.

Officials stated at noon Thursday that a scheduled train for the Peace River and Grande Prairie branches would definitely leave Thursday at 4:00 p.m. It was stated that, although storm conditions were prevailing in the Lesser Slave Lake district Thursday, not enough damage had been done to rail trackage to warrant cancelling of the train.

How Much Longer?

Gleaned From Today's News

The city land department has sold nine lots on the west side of Gariepy street, between 118 and 119 avenues, for $250. The purchaser has bought this property to increase his holdings in that district.

Fire in a small frame building at 10632 101 street, said to contain a wax works, at 6:30 p.m. Wednesday, gutted the interior of the building. Fire stations Nos. 2 and 5 responded but a single line of hose was all that was required to extinguish the blaze. The building is owned by Mrs. A. A. Nicholls.

Making a half-hour stop in Edmonton Thursday morning, a party of 21 tourists from Minneapolis passed through the city on the C.N.R. westbound Continental Limited, bound for Jasper and the Pacific coast. The party is known as the "Markham Tour."

Registrations at the Edmonton office of the Alberta Motor Association Wednesday included J. W. Grimmon, Toronto; A. W. Caleb, Winnipeg; S. Bryan, Winnipeg; A. Webbey, Winnipeg; B. MacMath, Regina; A. A. Causgrow, Saskatoon, and R. J. Tyson, Parker, Kansas.

Mayor J. A. Clarke's work-at-wages plan for city relief cases will be considered at a meeting of city council's special relief committee at 2:30 p.m. Friday. The mayor is proposing that unemployed here be given work on park, boulevard and similar improvements at a rate of 40 cents an hour, their wages being credited against their relief allowances. The committee will make a recommendation to council as to whether the plan should be adopted or not.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

Edmonton has been treated to some rare thunder and lightning storms recently.

The B.I.R. frankly admits his weakness in the knees when the heavens flash and the earth resounds with mighty bursts of thunder. Desiring to determine if other strong men pale and women and children fall prey to terror during electrical storms, he bluntly asked "Are you afraid of thunder and lightning?"

Replies follow:

EDNA BROWN, student: "While not admitting that lightning and thunder totally incapacitates me, I must say I prefer the heavens to be calm and peaceful."

GORDON SPEERS, six-year-old newspaper salesman: "I certainly am sometimes." (The B.I.R. had a hard time making Gordon understand what it was all about but finally managed to elicit the above reply.)

EDITH SUTHERLAND, clerk: "If you really must know, roaring of thunder and flashing of lightning especially of the chain variety, puts me in trouble."

BERT O'BRIEN, office worker: "No, I am not afraid of lightning. You can't ace it from under the covers. Who do you think is going to win the election?"

ROAD REPORT

Result of unsettled weather conditions for the past 48 hours, roads in the northern section of the province are generally reported in a muddy Thursday, according to the official A.M.A. survey.

A detailed report follows: Jasper highway, cloudy and light rains and rough; Peace River highway, heavy rains, impassible near Lesser Slave Lake; St. Paul road, light rains Thursday, road muddy; Edmonton - Lloydminster - North Battleford, rough; Edmonton-Wainwright, rough; Edmonton-Chauvin, rough; Edmonton-Hughenden, rough; Edmonton-Pre est, rough; Edmonton-Mirror, rough, Edmonton-Cherhill, muddy.

Col. W. A. Rodgers, Gibbons district farmer, is in the city. The Colonel is keeping a keen eye on the political situation in the province. He predicts a heavy defeat for Social Credit candidates in the province.

Sale of $17,000 Province of Alberta six per cent. bonds due in April, 1936, was announced by the city sinking fund board on the basis of $100.97, Thursday morning. The sale netted about $600 to the city. Province 3½ per cent. bonds due in 1942-3 on the basis of 7 per cent.

SAYS POLITICS IN ROAD WORK

Indignation over favoritism in the road building policy of the U.F.A. government is rife in the Bloomsbury district, 14 miles north-west of Barrhead, according to J. Walsh, prominent farmer of that section.

Mr. Walsh charges a road was built around Shoal lake to service two members of the U.F.A. party while 15 families, one mile west of the road, were ignored when plans for road building in the district were being made.

Shoal Lake annually floods the road that was built and as a result the thoroughfare is impassable for a considerable period each summer. Frequent representations to provincial road building authorities by un-serviced settlers have been futile, according to Mr. Walsh.

DISADVANTAGE FORECAST FOR GAS DEALERS

An unexpected kick-back for local service station operators who joined forces to encourage the passing of an order closing by-law by city council for gasoline sellers is seen with plans for increased operations by dealers near the city limits.

Stations bordering on the outskirts of the city expect to benefit greatly by inability of city garages to sell gasoline after 10 p.m. in the summer time and 8 p.m. during the winter.

A prominent Edmonton motor official stated Thursday that it is highly probable that large oil companies may erect filling stations on main highways leading out of the city to prevent small scale independent dealers from deriving all advantage of the expected new suburban business.

Sweden Is Not Social Credit Berg States

Aberhart Social Credit candidates and supporters recently have referred to Sweden as a country where a form of Social Credit lifted the nation out of the slough of depression. Carl E. Berg, president of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council charged Thursday:

As a person born in Sweden and able to read and write the language Mr. Berg declares there is not a vestige of truth in such statements. He claims that quite the opposite has occurred and that Sweden owes her enviable position to the efforts of the Swedish Labor party.

After the Nazis took control in Germany, Herman Goering, Prussian air minister attempted to sow seeds of Nazism in Sweden, Mr. Berg said.

The Swedes put Goering in an insane asylum and kept him there, six months before permitting him to return to Germany and practice Nazism on his own people," Mr. Berg said.

Neither Aberhart or his followers possess the slightest idea of the problems of Labor beyond the vague imaginings of a "just price," Mr. Berg charged.

Acting superintendent of the Edmonton C.P.R. division, J. L. Polethorpe is spending his holidays at Brandon.

Seven alarms were answered by the city fire department during the week August 3 to 9, Fire Chief Albert Dutton has reported to commissioners. Losses occurred in three cases, damage being slight in two and medium in the other.

No new cases of infantile paralysis have been reported to the city health department during the week, a new case from Fort Saskatchewan the first of this week. The out-of-town patient is a young boy who is now receiving treatment at the isolation hospital.

Fugitives Elusive

R.C.M.P. officers were still without trace Thursday of the five inmates of Ponoka mental hospital who escaped from grounds of the asylum Sunday evening. Although the search has been pressed steadily since the men were first missed, not a single clue has been discovered as to the whereabouts of the blue-shirted and khaki-trousered fugitives. No alarm is felt at the men being at large, as all patients are of the harmless type.

Police Court

Declaiming against the injustice of having to pay a license to sell wood on the market when other produce was sold under the market fee alone, Joe Bialuch was told the court was only concerned with enforcing existing by-laws, and was given until September 3 to secure his $1 license.

Pleading guilty to using insulting language on a charge laid by a lady neighbor, Charles Sands was bound over to keep the peace, with two neighbors going surety for him. Charged with assault on a lady next door a fighting name, it was explained by his counsel, Max Wershof, that he was looking at a dog which was running in his garden when he uttered the unseemly phrase. He had no quarrel with as he did not wish to undergo the strain of cross-examination.

On condition that he go straight home to Sarcee Reserve, Anthony Dodginghorse was given a one-day adjournment on a charge of being intoxicated in violation of the Indian Act. "I see that you have been fined and cautioned turn about and this time a fine for a caution," Magistrate A. H. Gibson decided.

Alois Brutyn was fined $20 and costs or 30 days on a charge of illegal possession of liquor laid by R. C. M. Police after they had been called out to the Country Club road on the report that there was a dead man lying in the ditch." When they arrived they found only some men's clothes and a bottle of liquor half "killed." They later looked up the victim, who apparently had been just "half dead."

For allowing their cattle to graze untethered on public thoroughfares in violations of a Sturgeon M.D. by-law, three men were fined $3 and costs. Fines are given until September 3 to pay.

Two months' adjournment was given Joe Kosch, charged with wanton driving causing bodily harm, following an accident just north of the 97 street subway a week ago.

Steve Zdril, charged with negligent driving as a result of an accident Wednesday night, when he ran down Mario Masterelli, waiter in a Jasper east cafe, who was taken to hospital with a fractured arm and four broken ribs, received an adjournment to August 22.

WASHINGTON WRITER SAYS LIBERALS WIN

Chester A. Bloom Sees Defeat for Aberhart Proposals

Chester A. Bloom, Washington, D.C. staff correspondent of the Winnipeg Free Press swung up from southern Alberta to Edmonton Thursday morning on completion of his home office to cover the provincial political situation.

From first hand knowledge gained in his tour of the south this prominent Canadian newspaperman believes the Aberhart Social Credit fever is losing its burning intensity in the foothills cattle ranch country which up to a few weeks ago was the stronghold of the leader-led economic experimentation scheme.

Correspondent Bloom knows all the demagogues and professional bunkers — Huey Long, Father Coughlin, Townsend and Upton Sinclair — having met them on his many assignments over the border—and now he knows Aberhart.

Living in the eastern provinces, claims Mr. Bloom from first hand experience, considers Alberta to be the "far west" in the Dominion family of provinces.

Albertans are gamblers going strong he said and eat up as well as wild cat political schemes . . . and both are hard on the public purse. While on matters interested in the way elections here go, as he is just an observer sent out by his paper to size up the political pot, and no prejudiced mirror for the readers of the Winnipeg Free Press to see the situation as it is, Mr. Bloom thinks it will be a Liberal election.

COURT RESTRAINS MUSICAL COMPANY

An interim injunction restraining Fred Shipman from using the name of the Shipman Celebrity Concert Series in connection with any musical concerts to be held here soon, was granted by Mr. Justice Ford Thursday to Fred M. Gee Winnipeg, who has organized Gee Celebrity Concert series that is also said to perform here.

The injunction, granted at an ex-parte hearing, was given after Mr. Davis had been presented to the court to show that Gee had first used the words Celebrity Concert Series. A. B. Harvey appeared for Gee.

EXTEND COURT HOUSE SPACE

Peace River town is to be provided with suitable court house facilities for the holding of its fall sittings, Hon. J. J. MacLellan, minister of public works, announced on Thursday.

Arrangements which have been under way for some time to utilize space in C.M.R. building have been completed, and the province will use this for court work.

It will not be necessary for court to be held in any available building. The police building, which is sufficiently commodious, will be moved from its present site half a mile from the town, to a location where the business section and will be equipped for court room and court office purposes. It will be used as court offices of other provincial departments, including agriculture, public works and municipal affairs, which are now using rented quarters.

Aberhart Gives Voters Instruction

Manner in which his followers may vote to secure the greatest advantage for his candidates, was stressed by William Aberhart, B.A., provincial Alberta Social Credit leader, in an address at Strathcona High school Wednesday evening.

Outside each poll cards will be distributed with the numbers already printed opposite names of Social Credit candidates. Voters were urged by Mr. Aberhart to follow closely the outline provided by the cards in balloting.

The provincial leader attacked opposition parties for "Permitting their leaders to stoop to anything to fight fairly" or fondly against our movement." He stated that all pay checks would be confiscated by a Social Credit government.

Ex-Ald Rice Sheppard was chairman.

To End Of This Ballot

Edmontonians who go to the advance poll to cast their ballots in the provincial general election, as well as those who go on election day, August 22, will see a ballot they have never seen before.

These ballots are just 29 inches long and will accommodate 196 names of 27 candidates.

H. H. Crawford, returning officer, has received the slips from the printers on Thursday morning, and Saturday.

got out a long ruler and measured them. They are the largest ballots ever seen here.

The advance poll opens at 2 p.m. on Thursday at the returning officer's office, 10177 106A street, in the Alexandra block.

Advance voting will continue from 2 p.m. until 5 p.m. and from 7 p.m. until 10 p.m.

The office will be opened at the same hours also on Friday and Saturday.

EX-SERVICEMEN INDIFFERENT TO ABERHART IDEAS

Ex-service men baldly and decisively stated their indifference to the Aberhart proposals at a meeting held at the Emery Hall on Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting was called expressly for ex-service men and at the outset the ex-soldiers assumed charge and insisted that none others but ex-service men should be present.

Speakers were questioned repeatedly and the audience made it clear that they are antagonistic to the Aberhart movement.

On behalf of the returned men it was stated that they resented the fact that the representatives of Mr. Aberhart, who have never before taken any interest in the returned man and his problems, should at this late date come before them soliciting support.

Further, they made clear they resented Mr. Aberhart's dictatorial attitude, and the speakers were told that their leader will have to act in a more democratic manner if he expects any sympathy.

It was urged by members of the audience that all Mr. Aberhart's activities are savoured with the tactics of Mussolini and Hitler, and it was suggested that he remain within the confines of the British Empire for his inspiration rather than pattern himself upon foreign dictators.

MUCH WORK AND LITTLE PLAY POLICY

With the date for reception of applications by the provincial department of education expiring Wednesday, candidates for high school grade II and III supplemental examinations are getting down to serious business in preparation for the tests. The supplementals will be written from Aug. 22-30 at various points throughout the province.

Edmonton candidates will write at the University of Alberta.

Education officials announce that the percentage of students passing all June examinations was comparatively small this year and the number of supplemental candidates will be relatively large.

Till Aug. 30, policy of candidates will be much study and little play.

IRVIN S. COBB GIVES PRAISE TO MOUNTAINS

Noted Writer Enthuses Over Glories of Jasper Park

Brilliant writer and internationally celebrated as an humorist, Irvin S. Cobb is an ardent admirer of nature and of the Alberta Rockies in particular.

He passed through the city recently going to and coming from Jasper Park. In an article published in the Red Book Magazine following his trip, he writes in part:

"In the west, I have taken off my hat to the Canadian Rockies, which somehow are more majestic, more overpowering and more undisturbed by prying, puny mankind than here in the States, and in Jasper Park I have flung my hat-roll down on the deep everlasting moss upon the shores of Maligne Lake and have gazed unrelieved now and below the glaciered rim-rock of the mighty mountains which wall it in; it is the last great scenic marvel of the New World to be discovered and on all counts one of the most inspiring and spirit-lifting of them all.

"Yet I only ventured along the verges of this incredible domain of nature. On beyond where I went are thousands of perfect lakes which no white man's eyes have yet seen, countless miles of leaping rapids that only the fishes know, great snow-topped peaks unnamed and unmapped, millions on millions of acres tenanted only by the wild things, orchards and wheat fields and fastnesses declaring the bountifulness of God, glades and eyeholders and canyons testifying to the perfection of the Celestial Scheme."

FIRST PONOKA ESCAPE TAKEN

First of five patients of the Ponoka mental hospital who escaped from the confines of the hospital farm on Sunday night had been reported picked up near Trochu by a farmer of that district today. Dr. George Davidson, superintendent of the institution, received the report from Trochu shortly after 1:30 p.m.

The escaped inmates were all known as "parole patients" and were given the freedom of the grounds without number of attendants. Discovering that they were free, they all escaped and R.C.M. Police were notified when they failed to report at 9:30 p.m. Sunday. Four others are still at large.

THEATRE HOST TO LEGION BAND

Members of the Legion of Frontiersmen, headed by their band, paraded to the Rialto theatre on Wednesday night to witness the picture, "Lest We Forget."

The Legionaires in their striking uniforms, made a most impressive appearance and added a martial flavor to the proceedings.

"Lest We Forget" is a series of pictures, arranged in chronological order, showing the progress of Canadian participation in the World war, from the time it broke out, until the final occupation of the Rhine bridgeheads.

"Lest We Forget" is remaining at the Rialto for the entire week and thousands have flocked to the theatre to see the commendable film, which is being sponsored by the Canadian Legion.

Communists Fight Aberhart Scheme

Definitely indicating the attitude Communists will adopt toward Aberhart Social Credit, Tim Buck, general secretary of the Communist Party of Canada will address a Communist rally at Renfrew Park on Saturday, August 17.

Buck and Matthew Popovich, both recently released from Kingston penitentiary where they served terms under Section 98 of the Criminal Code will be guests of a rally organized by the Communist election committee. The rally will take the form of a sports day and picnic, during which baseball, soft-ball and lawn bowling will be part of the program. Popovich will speak in the grandstand in the afternoon and Buck in the evening at 7 p.m. Loud speakers will be installed for the occasion.

Fire At Fort Is Disastrous

FORT SASKATCHEWAN, Aug. 15—Fanned by a strong wind, fire of mysterious origin razed building occupied by the Chisholm Plow Company and the Hunter Lumber Company, and destroyed the Chisholm warehouse and a large amount of machinery. The fire broke out at 11:00 p.m. Wednesday.

Low water pressure added to the difficulty of fire-fighters.

All losses were covered by insurance.

NO HOPE NEW PARTY BACKING FOR ABERHART

Reconstruction Party Leader Not Playing Provincial Politics

The Hon. H. H. Stevens, leader of the New Reconstruction party is not playing with provincial politics.

Accompanied by Mrs. Stevens and a party of four, the new leader arrived by motor from Wetaskiwin in the city late Wednesday afternoon.

The covering of Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Calgary, Red Deer, Wetaskiwin and Edmonton, in the past two days, sapped his tireless energy and when he received newspapermen in his Macdonald hotel suite, he was resting in bed.

HANDS-OFF POLICY

Quizzed about his conversations in Vancouver with William Aberhart, leader of the Alberta Social Credit representation, Mr. Stevens dispelled any hopes that the new provincial party may have had of getting Reconstruction support.

Mr. Stevens is adopting a strictly hands-off policy.

"If the people of Alberta endorse any particular party or policy, which, roughly I would not oppose, it is my duty to interfere in any way," he said. "On the other hand I would feel it my duty to afford every facility to see that the will of the people be carried out."

Mr. Stevens may be boss of the New Reconstruction ranks, but Mrs. Stevens reveals "the big stick" in "family politics."

"I sent him to bed as soon as we arrived," explained Mrs. Stevens. "His activities in the past two days have been tiring and I want him in the best of form when he goes on your Edmonton platform."

"That's right," grinned Mr. Stevens. "She's the giver of orders around here."

BENNETT MORE AMUSING

While making no statements for publication, Mr. Stevens indulged in a few good chuckles when he read the personnel of Premier Bennett's new cabinet in a copy of the Bulletin.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stevens seemed amused at some of the appointments.

"Our meetings have been marvelous," said Mrs. Stevens. "Wonderful," echoed her husband. "The enthusiasm, support, interest and attendance has been beyond our most optimistic expectations when we first started out."

FAIR REPORTS

Commenting on the fairness of the Bulletin in the way political matters are handled by the paper, The Stevens said: "The Bulletin has been most kind. We are grateful for the fairness shown by your newspaper believing as it does in the Liberal cause."

During the past two days Mr. Stevens has addressed capacity crowds at Medicine Hat, Lethbridge, Wetaskiwin, Red Deer and Calgary, at which point a public address system was pressed into use to service an overflow crowd of 2,000 who could not be accommodated in the Calgary Victoria pavilion.

Following his one day visit to Edmonton, Mr. Stevens left over Canadian Pacific Airways at midnoon. He will return again to Edmonton before election day, October 14.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JO DARBY, nothing but a year in college, learns her father is out of work. To gain a job as bookkeeper in a small marine supply house, she is engaged in BRET PAUL, athletic type.

DOUGLAS MARSH, handsome and wealthy, comes to the store to buy equipment for the summer colony he is establishing at Crest Lake. Jo works diligently assisting with the order, and Marsh asks her to have dinner with him. She agrees. When Bret telephones Jo tells him she has extra work to do that night.

Marsh takes her to a fashionable restaurant. He tells her about his summer colony at Crest Lake and offers Jo the job of hostess there. Scarcely able to believe such good luck, she accepts.

Marsh tells Jo to shop next day for the clothes she will need, charging them to an account to be opened for her. She is to leave for Crest Lake the following day.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

JO'S sleep had been woven with scraps of dream pictures in which she had witnessed herself buying clothes at Lytsen's — although the dreams had been spoiled

Jo crossed the room and swung back the door. "Why, Bret," she said, "you're early. I just this minute got in—" a little by that queer realization that Douglas Marsh comes in the sleeper, the recognition that it's only a dream. But when she walked briskly across from and into the wide, blue-marbled entrance of Lytsen's there was nothing to spoil the daytime glitter.

She was a little bewildered at the start. All the way to the huge store she had been trying to plan what she would buy, and in what order. Too late she realized that in the quiet of her apartment she should have made some sort of shopping list. But in the end she convinced herself that, after all, it would be twice as much fun to shop without the list.

"I'll start off with a bathing suit," she told herself. "That's easy to buy—and then perhaps I'll get in the mood of taking full advantage of Mr. Marsh's generosity."

How much should she spend? That question worried her a little although she knew perfectly well that it would have to be a goodly amount to suggest the prodigal Douglas Marsh. With her natural training in economy she could not bring herself all she would like for what Marsh would consider a very moderate amount of money. Still—there were awfully pretty things at Lytsen's.

"Nevertheless," Jo assured herself as she walked into the busy store, "this is the place he chose!"

She went down to the beach wear department to look at the bathing suits, and almost immediately her eye was attracted by a stunningly beautiful suit in white.

"It's very darling," the salesgirl said. "They won't allow them at all beaches. But with your figure and your blond hair you'd be a knockout in white."

Jo took it. She couldn't resist it —and then she remembered Douglas Marsh's mother.

"Maybe—maybe I ought to have another suit. One a little more conservative," she confessed to the clerk.

For the swim suit that was to be "a little more conservative," she picked a dark blue. "And now," said the delighted girl, "you will want a beach robe. What about something in blue that will go with either of the suits? And of course some smart sandals."

When Jo had quite finished in the beach wear department—after adding also a beach pajama outfit she had looked, "Did you wish to charge this?"

The question startled Jo for a moment. But finally she managed to say, "Yes, please. To Crest Lake, Incorporated."

The girl's eyes seemed uncertain. "Is that a new account?"

"Yes, I believe it was opened just this morning. Jo Darby," she added, requesting that the purchases be sent direct to Crest Lake Inn.

And when Jo left Miss Darien left the beach wear department and sought the elevator, a curious thing happened. The salesgirl, just a bit dubious, had telephoned the credit department, and the credit department assured her that there was certainly an account opened under the name of Crest Lake, Incorporated. Thereafter, the word spread like wild-fire through the store. The young woman for whom Douglas Marsh had opened an account was in Lystens's! Floor walkers straightened and peered about with more interest than usual. Salesgirls eyed every likely young woman who walked into their particular departments.

Jo was unfamiliar with the store, and she did not ask her way about —so it was some few minutes before she stood in front of the bathing suit she'd certainly decided on just as she was about to step into an "up" car one of the floor walkers approached her tentatively and a little breathlessly.

"Miss Darien?"

"Why . . . yes," said Jo in astonishment.

"I hope you found everything as you wanted it in the beach wear department. The girl wasn't aware that the account had been opened for you, and—"

"Why, everything was all right," Jo assured him, embarrassed at his own embarrassment. "The girl was very nice, indeed. And I found just what I wanted."

"Thank you. And now may I direct you?"

This offer took Jo completely by surprise. For a moment, she tried to think of a reason to object to the anxious gentleman. Failing in this, she burst out laughing.

"You see, you can't very well direct me—because I don't know exactly where I want to go!" she told him.

It was his turn to show astonishment. But after a moment he recovered quickly. "I see. You wish just to look about. By all means, Miss Darien."

In the elevator at last, she stepped back into one corner and allowed herself to be hidden by the floor walker's ample figure. It was going to be difficult indeed if everyone in the store was to be on the lookout for her! For the first time she realized what Douglas Marsh's name meant to the edge to this great store. Until now she had thought of him simply as a young man whose father had left him a lot of money; a young man who very sensibly took care of the various problems attending such a fortune. But she had never realized really, how powerful and how deeply felt that name made Marsh. She wondered if, when she saw him again, she would be able to find a basis for conversation with the target at the Olympic Bowl.

"I wish he hadn't given them my name," she thought. "But I suppose he had to let them know who to send the account to. Well, I'll just have to forget it."

She decided on just one. She had two of her own which she had worn that winter at school. They were simple and inexpensive. Marsh had admired one of them last night, and if he didn't like another it was easy enough to return it. Jo told herself stoutly.

The Lytsen gown she chose was a long beige lace which made her seem much taller than she really was; and to peep from under the stitched godets at the hemline she bought a pair of beige pumps. To make the dress informal if need be, Jo voted on a crisp little tailored dress to carry her shoulders.

On another floor she bought a three-piece outfit of sturdy, serviceable linen, consisting of skirt, topcoat, with a jaunty hat to match, for the trail she concentrated on sport clothes as moderately priced as she could find in Lytsen's, and outfit for tennis.

To her surprise Jo found that it was almost Lytsen's closing time when she had finished. She wondered vaguely how much her purchases had totalled, and she was on the point of asking for the total when she decided that this was, after all, the business of Douglas Marsh.

When she reached the Ferndale Arms there were two telegrams awaiting her. Jo opened them, remembering that Bret Paul was coming to take her to the University Inn. Both were from Douglas Marsh. Hurriedly she removed her beret and was re-arranging her hair when there was a tentative knock on the door. Sighing impatiently, Jo crossed the room and swung back the door. "Why, Bret!" she said, "you're early. I just this minute got in—"

But the man smiled strained and queer. "Like your job?" he asked, tossing his hat on a chair and leaning against the door he had just closed.

"Oh, Bret, I haven't told you. I've a new job. That's what the shopping was all about. I've been all day long, and I'm afraid I've stopped seeing Bret's clouded eyes. "Why, Bret, what's wrong?"

"I know all about your new job," he said quietly. "That is, I know almost all about it. I didn't know it included clothes."

She had never seen Bret like this, and she staggered back as if he had struck her a blow.

FUTURES TRADE TO BE RESUMED IN FEW DAYS

Winnipeg Grain 'Change To Make Certain Selling Restrictions

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.—Trading in October and December futures will be resumed within "a few days" on the Winnipeg grain exchange it was made known in a decision reached by the exchange council late last night.

Certain restrictions on selling and price movements will accompany the resumption, it was stated. No date set for extended trading will be announced within a few days.

Trading has been confined to the month of August since July was removed from the board two weeks ago.

RESTRICT PRICE MOVE

Price movements on wheat, oats, barley and rye, it was learned, will be restricted to 3c above the higher or lower than the previous close. In the case of flaxseed the limit is set at 5c above or below.

Sales of grain in the pit will be confined to hedges against purchase of grain or cash crops; the sale of wheat or other grains previously purchased in the futures market; part of a spread between the different futures in the exchange, or a sale closed out the same day by the purchaser of the original grain.

The last named regulation is aimed at preventing speculators from getting a new trading line in the market for longer than a single session.

SEPARATE GRADING

Garnet wheat will be deliverable on the futures market, it was decided. Separate grading will be tendered only October and December contracts. The deliverable price of No. 1, C.W. Garnet is five cents under No. 1 Northern and on No. 2 C.W., eight cents under the futures contract price.

The decision at which No. 4 Northern may be tendered on the futures contract has been set at 18 cents under. A new grade, to be known as No. 4 Northern especially adapted to take off wheat damaged by rain in October and December contracts. The deliverable price of No. 1, C.W. Garnet is five cents under No. 1 Northern and on No. 2 C.W., eight cents under the futures contract price.

The decision at which No. 4 Northern may be tendered on the futures contract has been set at 18 cents under. A new grade, to be known as No. 4 Northern especially adapted to take off wheat damaged by rain in October and December contracts. The deliverable on the futures contract at the same discount as No. 4 Northern.

FEAR HORSE DISEASE MAY HIT ALBERTA

Saskatchewan Reports Further Animals Stricken With Malady

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15—Fears an epidemic of encephalomyelitis sweeping Manitoba and Saskatchewan will have spread to Western Alberta within a week were expressed by veterinarians here on Wednesday as further reports of horses being stricken with the disease in Saskatchewan were received.

The strange disease paralyzes the brain and spinal columns of horses and quickly causes death.

SERUM SHORTAGE

An order from the Saskatchewan government for serum could not be filled here as supplies received from the New York shipping agency were being shipped over as fast as possible to rural Manitoba, where more than 100 fatalities already have been reported.

It was estimated a similar number of horses have died in Saskatchewan, where the disease is prevalent in the eastern and north-central sections of the province and spreading rapidly westward. The outbreak first occurred in southwestern Manitoba some weeks ago.

CAUSE UNKNOWN

That the cause of the disease still mystified authorities here as laboratory diagnosis were being carried on in Ottawa, Regina and Winnipeg was the report of mosquito prevalent in Manitoba this year was transmitting the disease. Samples from dead animals were sent to Ottawa last week for study.

Similar outbreaks have been reported in sections of the United States in other years. Approximately 25,000 horses died in Kansas in 1912 during a three-month epidemic. Several thousand perished in California in 1930-31.

Rudyard Kipling Breaks Speaks To Canadian Boys And Girls

Vow About His Speeches

EASTBOURNE, Aug. 15—Rudyard Kipling, shyest of Britain's celebrities, broke a vow about speechmaking to tell a group of Canadian boys and girls Tuesday that "England is as much a possession of Canada as Canada is a possession of England."

Kipling had cowented to face the audience of 84 graduates of Canadian secondary schools at St. Winifred's school, Eastbourne, on condition that he need not make a speech. The Canadian boys and girls, visiting England for six weeks under the auspices of the Overseas Educational League, quite won his heart, however, and he did make a brief address.

Kipling met them in the school yard talking first to the boys who were in one group and then to the girls. He was at once on the friendliest terms with them, told them stories, joked with them and asked them questions about the places they had visited.

He wanted in particular to know about the recreational conditions on the Canadian prairies and the effect of the drought there.

PROVINCE NOW FACES 2-FOLD MENACE, CLAIM

a surplus of nearly half a million dollars, but in 1934 the U.F.A. government spent over 17 million dollars and showed a deficit of nearly 2 million dollars. The total expenditure for 1934 was almost exactly double the expenditure for 1930.

"During the first ten years of Liberal rule, 1912 to 1921, the government spent 84 million dollars. But during the last ten years of U.F.A. rule, 1924 to 1934, the government spent 150 million dollars. Here are two ten-year periods, not far separated from each other, in which the U.F.A. expenditures exceeded that of the former Liberal government by approximately 120 per cent. This is a startling indictment of their local U.F.A. candidates. Mr. Lymburn and others who continue in their attempt to fool the public to believe that the U.F.A. administration has been none seconded in their Liberal predecessors.

INCREASED TAXATION

"In order to make these extravagant additional expenditures, the U.F.A. government had to resort to increased taxation and other means of raising money. As an example of this is the gasoline tax which has been increased steadily from 1930 to 1934 and 1935 is proposed. There is also the provincial income tax and the increased charges in the succession duties. The present government also has the profits from the liquor business.

But in spite of all these increased sources of income, and in spite of the era of prosperity enjoyed by the rest of Canada generally between 1922 and 1930, the U.F.A. government has continually run into a deficit. A striking illustration of this statement is that in 1930 the provincial income account was greater than the total revenues of the Liberal government, from all sources, in the year 1917.

"During this period of 14 years of U.F.A. rule, the U.F.A. government has received 84 million dollars. This over-expenditure is one of the principal reasons why the province has to be made up. There are only two ways in which this can be done, namely by increased taxation, and increased borrowing. Both of these means have been resorted to.

DAMAGE TO CREDIT

"Administration of this sort can only lead to one result, that is, damage to the provincial credit. The proof of this is that last year the government had to pay 6 per cent. on a loan of 11,000,000 sterling, when within a year later the new Liberal government in Ottawa was able to borrow money at 2.97 per cent.

"The speaker drew attention to the fact that the Hon. Mr. Lymburn the U.F.A. member for Edmonton, had been responsible for the U.F.A. policy since 1920. By far the greater part of the increases in the public debt took place during the latter term of office. In 1926 the public debt was 93 million dollars. At the end of March this year it was 146 million dollars, an increase of 41 million dollars in nine years.

LITTLE RELIANCE

"In 1921 the U.F.A. party came into power on a platform of retrenchment in public expenditure. Very little reliance was placed for years in increasing the direct interest bearing debt from 61 million dollars to 146 million dollars, and increasing the annual expenditure by approximately 100%, one can see how little reliance was placed in the present manifestos and promises of the party supported by the U.F.A. organization. The time has come for a change in government and a new deal all round.

"The U.F.A. government, asserted Mr. Van Allen, is also failure to fight for better markets for the farm products of Alberta. Under the original confederation arrangement all matters pertaining to international trade, such as tariffs, trade agreements, etc., were delegated by the provinces to the federal power, to be dealt with in trust for the equal benefit of all the provinces.

"It is plainly obvious to every student of public affairs, that confederation has functioned only in very unequal arrangement, and one that is particularly unfair to the prairie provinces. Alberta, for instance, and only two provinces Ontario and Quebec, benefit from Canadian tariffs. All the rest suffer. The tariff costs Alberta consumers approximately 30 million dollars per year, an amount which considerably exceeds our total annual provincial revenues," said Mr. Van Allen.

TRADE STRANGLED

"This condition has arisen mainly in the last five years. In 1930 and 1931 when the Ottawa government took measures to increase the Canadian tariff on foreign goods, and set up other restrictions such as clothes embargoes, dumping duties, thereby strangling the export trade of Canada in general and the west in particular, there was no whisper of protest heard from this province. It must not be forgotten that the dominion is exercising its powers of taxation in trust, in the trustee of the province. The provinces are not in existence to be exploited by the dominion in the interests of the people of Canada as a whole.

"When the Ottawa government took these steps, which reacted so heavily against the interest of the people in Alberta, it was the responsibility and duty of our provincial ministers to protest with the utmost vigor and determination against a trade policy that was certain to impoverish the producers of this country. Instead of taking this course, the U.F.A. government and without protest or objection, watched the trade of western Canada strangled, and the purchasing power of the people destroyed.

RECORD OF U.F.A.

"The record of the U.F.A. government in recent years is of great importance to the people of Edmonton, especially in regard to the record of the Hon. Mr. Lymburn, Edmonton U.F.A. member," emphasized Mr. Van Allen.

He concluded his speech by asking for support for the six Edmonton candidates, Mr. Howson, the Alberta leader, whose election he assured would be assured, Dr. Walter Morrish, Gerald O'Connor, Mrs. Marion Conroy, Jack Marshall and himself.

Who's Who As P.-M. General Still Puzzle

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

OTTAWA, Aug. 15—Is the Hon. Sam Gobeil sworn into Mr. Bennett's cabinet as postmaster-general, minister of the interior, or just a minister without portfolio?

Mr. Gobeil was sworn in by the governor-general, with the other three ministers, but the memorandum handed out by the government secretary described him only as a member of the privy council.

As each new privy council is by custom sworn in on a new Bible, which the governor-general autographs and presents to the new minister. The three English-speaking ministers received real leather bound Bibles, Mr. Gobeil's was black.

In Mr. Gobeil's Bible was an inscription stated to be associate general, counsellor of His Excellency on his accession to the Privy Council, minister of marine de poste, post master general.

ETHIOPIA TO ASK LIFTING ARMS EMBARGO

Asserts Otherwise She Faced "Massacre" From Italy

GENEVA, Aug. 15—Ethiopia disclosed a favorable appeal to the League of Nations Wednesday to have many nations remove an arms embargo against her, asserting otherwise she faced "massacre from Italy."

The joint appeal and protest was placed before the League secretary general by Ethiopia's Ambassador Plenipotentiary Ezzeldine, French minister to France, acting upon instructions of his government in Addis Ababa. The appeal declared Ethiopia "weak and pacific."

ROME, Aug. 15—Premier Mussolini last night called six admirals out of retirement, for active service, in the event Italy was compelled to action in forming a blockship group of 8,000 Italian volunteers residing in foreign countries. The legion will embrace East Mexico.

HUNDREDS OF FLOOD VICTIMS STILL MISSING

Latest Estimates of Death Toll in Alessandria Put At 250

Copyright, 1935, by Havas News Agency

TURIN, Aug. 15—Hundreds of persons were still unaccounted for last night as troops and army engineers continued rescue work in the province of Alessandria, where a swirling wall of water 40 feet high resulted from the bursting of a huge dam Tuesday swept over the town of Ovada, spreading death and destruction over an area of 50 square miles.

Latest estimates of the death toll, mostly women and children, were put at 250 by provincial officials. Lack of communication facilities with several hamlets that lay in the path of the torrent made accurate estimates impossible, however.

MANY ARE MISSING

In some districts the waters fell and several feet deep and it was feared that many more bodies would be found once it was cleared.

The total damage was estimated at 250,000,000 lire in the district around Ovada, in the heart of one of Italy's richest agricultural sections, farmhouses were swept away and not a single head of cattle was saved.

RIVERS OVERFLOW

Adding to the destruction caused by the waters of the dam, the Lemo and Stura rivers overflowed their banks due to the continued downpour and many boats and barges were destroyed.

Out of the chaos caused by disrupted communications, many survivors of the torrent were reported. An Italian sailor, on leave in his home town in the affected district, had a rope around his waist and diving from the upper branches of a tree managed to rescue a mother and her child from the muddy rushing waters. He was unsuccessful in his attempt to save the father.

RESCUES MANY

In another town a young mechanic plunged scores of times into the flood waters, rescuing a large number of persons. A tenet dwelling occupied by women and children was smashed against the river bank and walled.

As the flood waters swept down the valley, the engineer of a train from Genoa raced his locomotive over a doomed bridge only a few seconds before it crashed, saving scores of passengers from almost certain death.

WILL PART WITH HUBBY FOR $1,500

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—Mrs. Mary Cordes is very fond of her husband but she said Wednesday that she would be willing to part with him for $1,500.

The reason is Mrs. Cordes wants to remain in her native Ireland where her money will go further. They have been unable to raise the money.

"I made the best tutti fruiti ice cream in the city," Cordes said, "but I can't get a job."

If they can get the money, preferably with a farm, who will advance the $1,500 he said Wednesday obtain a Mexican divorce and marry her.

TORY REGIME QUITS TODAY

CHARLOTTETOWN, Aug. 15—The resignation of Prince Edward Island's Conservative government, defeated in general elections July 23, will be tendered to Lieutenant-Governor Bernard Pidgeon by Premier W. J. P. MacMillan announced Wednesday.

Premier-elect Walter M. Lea and the new Liberal government will be sworn into office a short time after the resignation of the Conservative cabinet. The Liberal government emerged from the general election entirely without opposition when every one of its 30 candidates took a majority over opposing Conservative candidates.

Free Gold Found Lake Athabasca In New Deposits

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask., Aug. 15.—Discovery of free gold in Athabasca lake, previously reported, has prospected has created fresh interest and activity in mining circles.

The discovery was announced by Phil W. J. "Bill" Windrum, who is in the city after his regular biannual trip to Lake Athabasca. He said each trip sees a remarkable change in Canada's newest mining area.

Influx of new mining companies and prospectors is resulting in rapid growth of the Beaverlodge and neighboring settlements.

Predict Normalcy In Australia In Next Two Years

MONTREAL, Aug. 15—In Montreal on a business trip, W. A. Hamilton, member of parliament for a South Australian constituency, predicted in an interview last night normal economic conditions will be restored in Australia within the next two years. Mr. Hamilton based his prophecy on the belief orthodox economics are now being followed in Australia after years of Socialist extravagance both in the commonwealth and the states.

A Finnish scientist is said to have fashioned garden vegetables, fruit, and grain crops 31 per cent. less cholesterol-like soil in which they were grown.

FIRE FIGHTERS LOSE GROUND IN NORTHWEST

Blazes Racing Through Three States Over Thousands of Acres

SPOKANE, Aug. 15.—Forest fire fighters last ground broadly in the northwest, the nation's firebox Wednesday.

In Montana, Idaho and Oregon blazes racing through valuable timber caused fears of ruined homes, and extremely dry conditions, to cover thousands of acres.

The Alaska fire, 20 miles southwest of Livingston on the west side of Yellowstone river, threatened to spread its estimated 3,000 acres were covered. Fighting forces attempted to curb the conflagration with dynamite.

DESTROY WILD GAME

Elk deer and other wild game abound in the region and it was feared many would be destroyed. Many cattle were also believed in danger. Parent reports of the fire were vague, however, evidences that the fire was tremendous.

Deer Lodge fire, also in Montana, was uncontrolled at last reports, despite the efforts of 200 men. The blaze was a community of between four and five miles, and covered an area of about 400 acres.

BEYOND CONTROL

The Bonner, Idaho, fire, near the Dalles, Ore., was whipped beyond control yesterday. Communiques said that seven cabins were destroyed by the flames, but observers outlined on nearby peaks with field glasses said that conflagration seemed to be running wild and had covered between 3,000 and 6000 acres. Plans for handling for valuable timber stands in the Hood River national forest.

BIG BLAZE

The great 45,000 acre national forest fire in west-central Idaho was swept out of control by winds, and had grown to more than 30,000 acres. More than 800 fighters were "dissipating" the flames.

Communications were disrupted, and the fire was reported to be running wild in the Salmon river mountains. Forest officials declared the fire was the most serious of passengers from almost certain death.

NOTED DODGER SEEKS U.S. AID

WEINSBERG, Germany, Aug. 15.—Governor Christian Berghoff, millionaire United States draft dodger, today made a new offer of surrender to the German government. His stipulations are that first the case be taken out of the hands of Adolf Hitler and, secondly, my family be permitted to reside permanently in the United States."

Anxiety over the neglected American education of his children, born in Germany, prompted the offer, Berghoff said.

Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, member of a Philadelphia brewing family, failed to report when his draft number was raised in August, 1917. He dodged arrest for more than two years but was finally captured by federal authorities Jan. 7, 1920. On March 15, 1920, he was sentenced to five years in prison at Fort Jay, Governor's Island, New York City.

He received permission to visit his mother in Philadelphia on May 21 and escaped while being taken there.

Robbers Run When Explosion Shatters Bank

LA RIVIERE, Man., Aug. 15—So great was the noise of shattering windows when bank robbers attempted to blow open the safe in a branch of the Royal Bank here early today, the would-be thieves fled. The robbers departed, loot-less, as breaking glass fell over the sidewalk.

H. H. Stevens' Son In Political Debut

PEMBROKE, Ont., Aug. 15.—Making his debut as a political speaker, Hugh Stevens, 21-year-old son of Hon. H. H. Stevens, here last night supported the platform of the party presided over by Walter V. Kidd, young Alice township farmer, was selected as Conservative candidate for Renfrew in the coming general election.

Conservatives Have Senate Majority

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—With the banning of five new senators Wednesday, two for New Brunswick, two for Quebec and one for Manitoba, Conservatives will have a majority of 20 in the Upper House. The senate appointments are Quebec to be announced today and completing the long delayed filling of senatorial vacancies, will bring the government majority in the senate up to 20.

Party standing, with last night's announcement, is as follows: Conservatives 67, Liberals 32, vacancies two.

Farmer Killed

DUNDURN, Sask., Aug. 15—Otto G. Schwanicke, 60-year-old farmer of this district, was killed Wednesday while out cutting wheat when he fell onto the grain guard of his binder and was pierced through the heart. He is survived by his widow and seven children.

Member of Prominent 'Peg Family Shot to Death In Chicago

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Police last night sought from relatives and friends some hint to a motive for the killing of Kenneth A. Morrison, 46, assistant comptroller of the Chicago Park district and member of a prominent Winnipeg family.

Morrison's body, pierced by three bullets, was found at daybreak in the rear seat of his automobile which had been standing for hours near a northwest side elevated station.

DISCARD ROBBERY THEORY

Contents of his pockets were strewn about and a cigarette had burned down to his lips. Police discarded a robbery theory when they found about $25 in his pockets.

The weapon, with which bullets were fired into his right cheek, his chest above the heart and into his abdomen, was gone. Police theorized the small amount of blood in the car indicated the park official had been slain elsewhere and his body moved to the place his car was abandoned.

REPORTED MISSING

Morrison's widow Ethelwyn reported him missing Wednesday morning. She said her husband had always been regular in his habits and that when he failed to return from work last night she became worried. Three children by a former marriage also survive him.

Morrison had come to Chicago several years ago and obtained a position with the park district. He worked his way to his $5,400 yearly salary as a civil service employee.

Record at his office indicated he had been there until about 10 o'clock last night.

SAW TWO MEN

Police said a small bottle of skin renewing preparation found on the running board of the car probably was used by the slayers in an effort to avoid fingerprints. Residents near where the death car was found said they saw two men running from it about 11:30 last night.

Park district officials said Morrison had a record without a blemish and had been working late at night on special tasks.

His father, Donald Morrison, who died recently, was a member of the Winnipeg grain exchange many years.

M. A. Macpherson Resigns Position

OTTAWA, Aug. 15.—H. A. Macpherson, K.C., former attorney-general for Saskatchewan, who has been acting as executive director of the Farmer Creditor Arrangement Act since the defeat of the Saskatchewan government last fall, has placed his resignation in the hands of Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes, it was learned Wednesday.

Snow And Gales Ground Planes

With snow and heavy gales from Slave Lake north and in the Peace River area, Mackenzie Air Services, Ltd., planes were all grounded Thursday. Regular scheduled flights throughout the north are postponed until the weather clears.

Countess Dies

KELOWNA, B.C., Aug. 15.—Word has been received here of the death in Switzerland of Countess I. M. Bubna, until a few years ago a wealthy ranch owner in British Columbia and Alberta. The Countess, about 70 years old, died at Montreuse, Switzerland, last Thursday.

BANK ROBBERS BEING HUNTED

ROSALIA, Wash., Aug. 15.—Three bank robbers, heavily armed, were hunted throughout the southeastern Washington district today after escaping here late yesterday in a burst of rifle fire from the son of the town marshal they had slain a few minutes before.

Bert Lemley, about 50, marshal, was wounded fatally from behind one of the trio, who had remained outside in their automobile, disguised as a woman.

The three robbers took Matt Elliott, cashier, as a hostage, releasing him more than a mile north of the city. He was pushed from the car, he said, at a speed of about 30 miles an hour after being hit over the head with the butt of a revolver. He was not injured.

The robbers' loot was estimated at from $5,000 to $7,000.

The stockholders in a special meeting authorized an increase in capital stock to 4,600,000 shares from 2,816,000. Of these 1,500,000 shares are to be preferred and 3,100,000 shares common.

Sidney R. Kent, Fox Film president, then announced the vote authorizing the merger with Twentieth Century.

Broomhall

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Our agent at Buenos Aires cabled that, while last week's rains were beneficial, the relief from the drought was only temporary, and the entire country is in need of heavy general rains. Broomhall's preliminary estimate of import requirements during this season issued yesterday placed prospective European takings at 396,000,000, and ex-Europe at 144,000,000. He figures Canada may ship 284,000,000 which compares with 166,00,000 exported the past season. However, actual exports migh tfall far below this estimate if prices for Canadian wheat are held too far above the world's level again this year. It is difficult to compute requirements at any time, with the various conditions to be considered, but it is practically impossible to estimate how much importing countries might take from a country whose price levels are held too far above the world parity. Only time can tell. Last year Canadian exports were distressingly small, and so far this season are running well below last year. The estimated Argentine shipments of 88,000,000 compare with 182,000,000 exported during the season just ended. Australia is expected to ship 96,000,000 vs. actual exports of 111,000,000 last season, Russia with an estimated total of 24,000,000 is well above last year. The foreign demand for wheat was again quiet yesterday. There are no indications of any improvement yet in the European demand for wheat, and export business in most countries is slow.

Today's Markets

At Toronto—Industrials

TORONTO, Aug. 15.—Under cover of a strong play in the oils and Distillers-Seagrams, the Toronto industrial share market sold off today, and recessions outnumbered gains at the close. Volume was close to the best for the week. Distillers-Seagrams set a new high for the year at 23½ and closed around 23 for a fractional gain.

Some steel issues traded in good volume and closing prices were up for United Steel and Dominion Bridge. Canada Dredge advanced more than two points and Building Products added about a half-point. Massey-Harris held a minor gain.

At Toronto—Mines

TORONTO, Aug. 15.—On the Toronto mining board today, gold issues claimed more than usual attention and the predominant note was buoyant. Teck Hughes was the outstanding dissenter, selling down to around 3.95. Base Metal and silver shares were strong.

Little Long Lac, McKenzie, Sylvanite, Siscoe and McWatters all ruled higher on good volume. In the senior gold group Lake Shore was well up and Wright-Hargreaves, Hollinger and Bralorne were firm.

Silver shares advanced. Eldorado held a gain of about 10 cents. Premier and Bear Exploration closed practically unchanged.

At New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The stock market exhibited strength in spots today although profit taking held back many of the leaders.

Scattered motors, oils and industrial specialties were in demand while most of the rails and power company issues did little more than mark time. The close was irregular. Transfers approximated 1,500,000 shares.

At Montreal

MONTREAL, Aug. 15—A few selected issues moved sharply upward on the Montreal Stock Exchange today to carry stock prices irregularly higher.

Canadian Hydro Electric preferred gained 3 points at 56, while International Power preferred advanced 2 points to 47.

Shawinigan Power slipped ½ to 18¾, while Dominion Bridge advanced ¾ to a point to 30½. B. C. Power "A" at 25¼ was down ¼ and Brazilian Traction yielded ⅛ at 8. C.P.R. eased ½ to 11⅛ and Nickel was off ¼ at 28⅝.

FROST FEAR HAS MARKET EFFECT

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.—Fear of frost damage in Alberta and strength in outside markets led to higher prices for wheat on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Values closed ⅝ cent higher, August at 82⅝ cents.

Low temperatures were reported from most Alberta points, bringing fear grain might be damaged by frost. Six degrees of frost were reported unofficially from High River, while temperatures of 34 degrees were recorded widely.

Trading generally, however, was quiet as traders awaited the posting of new crop futures, expected within a few days. Values were firm from the opening. Export sales of Canadian wheat were estimated at not more than 200,000 bushels.

Net gains of ½-1d at Liverpool and early three-cent advances at Minneapolis aided local sentiment. Chicago also was strong.

Cash grains were little changed. Coarse grains futures were firm.

PATS and PANS by —BILL LEWIS—

THE National League staged a full card of doubleheaders yesterday but the whole thing had no effect upon the standing of the two leaders, New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals. . . These rivals met and split the twin bill, so that the former team retained its margin of three games over the world champions. . . The clubs certainly packed in the customers for their pair of engagements, though, no less than 50,968 filing through the turnstiles at the Polo Ground. . . That's a real crowd for a weekday contest. . . The "doubleheader day" brought a blow to Chicago Cubs, who were walloped twice by Brooklyn Dodgers.

In the American circuit, Detroit Tigers moved up another notch ahead of the Yankees, winning 15-2 over Washington, while the New Yorkers were absorbing a lacking from the Indians . . . Tigers are now six full games up on the Yanks.

IT HAS now been definitely decided that Shasta Royals will get started in the provincial senior baseball championship playdowns this coming Sunday . . . They are due to meet the winner of the current Vegreville-Vermilion first round series. . . Shastas advanced to the second round as a result of Caddy's default, while both Wetaskiwin and Ponoka also moved up, the former by beating out Mirror and Ponoka by taking two straight games from Calgary Elks. . . . Shastas will get ready for the playdowns by taking on Wetaskiwin in a pair of exhibition games, first of which will be played here tonight and the second on the home lot of Ike Davis' squad tomorrow.

Canadian tennis followers will be pulling strongly for the British women's tennis team when they start the Wightman Cup series against the United States tomorrow. . . . A win for them would give Britain supremacy in both men's and women's tennis, as the Davis Cup has already been defended successfully.

WEATHER such as we had yesterday turns thoughts to Canadian football, and autumn sports. . . . It will be just a matter of watching the parade to go by at Edmonton as far as concerned in senior football, as the city itself will not be represented by a team. . . The Union of Alberta is certain to have an entry, of course, which will enable local fans to get a glimpse of the Calgary team that is being directed this year by Carl Cronin, the former Notre Dame quarterback. . . . Other gridiron activities locally will be confined to the junior league, which has produced a lot of good games in the past few seasons.

Inter-Mingling Is Being Sought By Ontario Body

TORONTO, Aug. 15—A resolution to be before the registration committee of the Central Ontario branch of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada Wednesday which would permit professional golfers and amateur athletes to compete together or against each other.

The resolution recommends the word amateur be deleted from the A. A. U. of C. and the union be known as the Athletic Union of Canada.

Girls' Baseball Contest Tonight

Orange Crush girls will be seeking their 13th victory of the season tonight when they tackle the Army and Navy nine in a fixture of the City Girls' Baseball league at Boyle St., which is billed to start at 6:45.

Although they have yet to defeat the Crushites the store girls gave their opponents a pair of close games in previous meetings compelling them to come from behind to eke out the winning verdict and they have hopes of registering a triumph tonight.

Rain Postpones Cincinnati Bout

CINCINNATI, Aug. 15—Rain, which began two hours before the bout was to start, caused postponement last night of the scheduled 10-round non-title go between Freddie Miller, world's featherweight champion, and Roger Bernard of Flint, Mich.

The fight will be staged Thursday night.

Trapshooting

EDMONTON GUN CLUB

Trapshooters are getting real practice these days as the unfavorable weather makes them hard to hit.

The club will soon be shooting Skeet, the popular American pastime. Workmen have completed the necessary trap houses and shooting will start as soon as traps are installed.

Following are the scores:

Class A—Brown 22, Madge 22, Tull 22, Macdougal 20, Decker 20. Class A—Gravelle 23, Gregor 20. Class B—Craddock 25, Hyland 19. Class C—Blodgett 21, Counsland 16, Warthe 16, C. Roberts 14, G. Roberts 10, Erickson 12, Garton 11, G Sullivan 11.

PRESENT CROP FIGHTERS EASY FOR JOE LOUIS

Writer Claims That They Are All Setups For Brown Bomber

By HARRY GRAYSON

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—The question that has been rampant in boxing circles for the last few months is: "Can Joe Louis take it?"

I'll answer the question right now. Joe Louis certainly can take it!

If he could not, if he felt, deep within his heart, that he would be unable to stand up against the punch of any man in the world, would he walk in as he does, stalking opponents, and giving them the opportunity at least to put a wild one over? He would not!

The fact that he shuffles in, flat-footed and eager, is sufficient proof to me that he can take all that any man in the ring today is able to give him.

FINE LEFT HOOK

I saw the great Sam Langford, with whom Louis has been compared so frequently since he crashed select company, and I believe that Louis has a left hook as effective as that of the Boston Tar Baby.

I saw the late Jim Corbett, although late in his career, and spent many happy hours with him. I believe the young Detroit Negro is just as cool as Gentleman Jim was under fire.

I believe that Louis, should he ever encounter distress will disguise his trouble as ably as Corbett was wont to do.

Remember, Corbett was a big light-heavyweight, and he is rated among the ring's immortals. Louis, with everything that Corbett had, plus a devastating punch, is a big and tremendously strong heavyweight, and he is only 21. His possibilities are unlimited.

Right now Louis, to me, is the finest marvel of the age. He has taken boxing off the flying trapeze and has restored it to fighting worth.

His fight against King Levinsky brought home forcibly the old story—the superiority of the straight hitter against the swinger. That was the whole sum and substance of that fight.

Levinsky pulled back his right arm to send a roundhouse at Joe's chin, and instead received a short left to the jaw from which he never recovered.

Louis is on top of the boxing heap now, even though he is champion. There is no man in the ring today who can beat him.

Somewhere in this broad land lives a boy who will come along and punch Louis out, but he hasn't been heard from yet. Tex Rickard probably tilling the soil in upstate New York, working in a mine in Colorado, or picking hops in Oregon. But there's no doubt about the fact that he is alive.

BEST OF NEGROES

He'll some along as Dempsey did, unheralded and unsung, and skyrocket his way to the top, just as did Louis, whom I consider the most phenomenal Negro fighter of all time.

I wonder what Tex Rickard would have thought of Louis. Tex, the man who took boxing out of the pigsty and put it in the parlor so to speak, is dead these many years. I doubt if Tex ever dreamed that a Negro fighter would come along and attain the eminence that Louis enjoys today.

Also, I wonder how old Harry Wills feit when he was leading Louis from the ring to the accompaniment of cheers from 40,000 frantic fans.

The Black Panther stalked Jack Dempsey for many years, hoping for a chance at the championship—a chance to which, in my opinion he fully was entitled. But he never got the opportunity, because he was a Negro.

That was Jack Johnson's fault. Rickard was the man to promote the fight, but he consistently refused, offering the vague explanation that the "undertow" was against it.

FIRST SINCE DEMPSEY

In my mind, Louis is the first good-looking heavyweight since Dempsey. The only man who could fight since Dempsey was the man who beat him, Gene Tunney. Yet Tunney wasn't a hitter.

Maybe Tunney at his peak, could beat Louis. That's something we'll never know. But the Brown Bomber would have it soft with the rest of the heavyweight crop of the last few years.

What have we had since Tunney and Dempsey? Heeney the bulgar, Paulino and Risko the short-horn sorbers, Campolo the leaning tower, Carnera the overstuffed, Schmeling with the heart of a pea, Loughran the fumbler, and Lasky the poorest excuse of them all.

WE HAVE THESE

Oh, yes. We also have had Max Baer and Jim Braddock. Baer, the guy who wasn't proud enough to keep in shape after winning the championship, and Brodock, who hocked into the title.

Baer can't get in top shape again, and Braddock, fearing that he has a heart as big as New York City, is past his peak.

What would Louis do to the bunch of them? I'll tell you. He'd stop each one, and wouldn't have to try too hard to do it.

Britishers Ready For Yanks

The ladies of the British Wightman Cup tennis team, who arrived at Forest Hills where the matches will be played, got into their tennis togs within a few hours after they landed, and took light workouts on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club. Here are the players with their manager. LEFT TO RIGHT: Kay Stammers, Frieda James, Phyllis Mudford King, Malcolm Dennis Horn, manager: Dorothy Round, Nancy Lyle and Evelyn Dearman. They were optimistic about their chances of taking home the Wightman Cup for which the two countries nominate their ranking women players, and thus giving England a clean sweep in international tennis play this year. The matches start on Friday.

WETASKIWIN TEAM PLAYS SHASTA NINE

Game Scheduled Tonight After Postponement On Wednesday

Postponed Wednesday due to wet grounds, first game of the exhibition baseball series between Wetaskiwin and Webb King's Shasta Royals will be played tonight at Renfrew Park, starting at 6:30 o'clock sharp.

Second game of the series is scheduled in Wetaskiwin Friday.

The series was arranged to keep the clubs in top form for the playdowns which are now underway.

Lester Webber is expected to pitch for the visitors tonight, with Buck Eaton the likely starter for the locals.

On Sunday afternoon, Shastas will swing into the provincial championship playdowns against the winner of the Vegreville-Vermilion series which is now in progress. Vegreville won the first game from their rivals by a 7-0 score.

Shields Scores Win Over Mangin

NEWPORT, R.I., Aug. 15.—The thrills the critical Newport Casino tennis gallery demands were supplied by film player Frank Shields Wednesday, when that top-seeded star put on a two-hour battle to qualify for the semi-finals with a 13-11, 6-3, 8-6 triumph over Gregory Mangin of Newark, N.J.

May Again Vote Foxx Most Valuable Star

Has Already Won Coveted Honor of Baseball Two Seasons

By BILL BRAUCHER

When the most valuable player in the American League is chosen for 1935, the honor may go to a man who is a 10-year major league veteran at the age of 27, James Emory Foxx of the Athletics.

Leader of American League batsmen two days ago, and an average of .356, Foxx is just beginning to hit his stride this season and there is every reason to believe he will do it again.

THREE TIMES?

Twice winner of the most valuable player award in 1932 and 1933 though the A's won no pennants in those years, the strong-boy first baseman of the A's promises to achieve the honor again this year, though he was handicapped at the start of the season by being used as a catcher. Now that he is back at first base, he is tearing the cover off the ball again and fielding as well as any other first sacker in the league.

Foxx is a bargain for which Connie Mack owes Frank "Home Run" Baker at least undying gratitude. Jimmie, a native of Sudlersville, Md., where he was born Oct. 22, 1907, was only 16 years old when he began his professional career at Easton in the Eastern Shore league.

Baker, old world series hero of the A's, $100,000 infield days, spotted the husky youngster's talent. Mack bought him at drug store list figures and farmed him to Providence in the following season. In 1925 Foxx came to the White Elephants to stay.

Soccer Playoff Here Saturday

Callies will clash with Hearts Saturday night in the opening game of the Alberta provincial soccer championship playdowns. The contest will be played at Diamond Park, with action tied to get underway at 6:30 o'clock.

Three two clubs are the only Edmonton entries in the competition for the Alberta Challenge Cup, and a good exhibition is expected.

He was a catcher then, and with Mickey Cochrane around, Mack didn't need catchers. Foxx could play third, too, but Mack had Jimmy Dykes on the job there. Jimmie had pitched a little at Easton, but certainly the A's need no more pitchers. So he was placed at first where he succeeded George Burns. As soon as Foxx was placed on first, the A's began to win pennants and had raised three flags in a row before Mack broke up the team because it was "too good."

HAD NO EFFECT

Mack kept Foxx, and playing with a wrecked team did not affect the muscular first sacker in the slightest. In 1932 Jimmie hit .334, leading the league in runs scored with 151, and in 1933 he led the batting parade with 204 hits for an average of .356. Last year he dropped to .334 but now is well on his way to .350 again, a figure that may lead the league.

Foxx is one of the longest right-hand hitters baseball has known. He holds the records for drives in most parks.

Foxx, by the way, has hit homers in all but one of the world series in which he has appeared, two in 1929, one in 1930 and two in 1931. That's hitting under pressure—the true test of greatness.

Rangers Win

GLASGOW, Aug. 15—Rangers won their second victory of the 1935-36 Scottish Soccer league campaign by defeating Albion Rovers 2-1 at Coatbridge Wednesday.

Wins Hole-In-One Meet For Second Year In Row

Fails, However, to Drop In Tee Shot at "Ace" Tournament

SALISBURY, N.Y., Aug. 15.—A record field in the fourth annual hole-in-one tournament lured and tried Wednesday, but none could surpass the Monday shot of Edward D. Searle, who drove the ball to within 6½ inches of the cup, giving him his second consecutive triumph in the ace tournament.

Last year Searle, who lives in Yonkers, won with a shot that stopped 17 inches from the hole.

The field of shooters produced a new second-place winner when Arthur Horrigan, former Forest Hills caddy, came out with a borrowed club and put his best shot two feet, 1½ inches from the pin on the 148-yard hole.

As no ace was produced this year, the odds leaped to 7,418 to 1 in this particular competition. That number of shots have been taken over four years of play and only one ace found its way into the cup—the 1935 hole-in-one scored by Jack Hagen of Salisbury.

BUSSES HELD TO DEADLOCK BY GRIT CLUB

Darkness Brings Halt To Junior Ball Clash at Boyle Street

Darkness was credited with the victory in last night's tussle of the Edmonton Junior Baseball league at Boyle St. when Army and Navy Grits held Arrow Busses to a 2-2 tie after six innings of close play. Umpire George Green called the game at the end of the sixth inning due to darkness.

Only a small crowd were on hand to witness the affair but those who braved the chilly weather were presented with a fine brand of ball during the abbreviated contest.

Trailing by a 2-0 count going into the first half of the sixth, Grits opened fire upon the offerings of Bill Lupul and combing him for three hits, managed to drive two runners over the plate to place them on even footing with their opponents.

GREAT CLIMAX

It was a fitting climax to a thrilling game and the Grits uncovered some smart playing to earn the draw. All three of their hits came at opportune moments and were well placed.

Arrow Busses swept into the lead in the first inning when they nicked Lucy Tougas for a brace of timely bingles. Harold Wismer started things with a sizzling two-base blow to left field and Don Carlson followed suit with a duplicated hit to the same field, driving in Wismer.

The Busmen counted their second tally in the third when Carlson, after working Tougas for a walk, went to second on Steven's single to left field and romped home when Fenton muffed Kelly's grounder to second.

STARTS RALLY

Lucy Tougas started the Grits two-run drive in the sixth when he worked Lupul for a walk. Don Smith then rapped out a single to centre to send him to second and Rusty Wynn came through with a timely hit down the right field alleyways. Tougas scored when Johnny Lupul let one slip past him. Wener walked to again fill the bases and Bill Braun slapped a single just over second base to score Smith.

Tougas was the first Grits hurler on the Grits' mound after being recruited to their club when the North Edmonton entry disbanded, turned in a fine performance. He restricted the opposition to three hits, struck out five and issued two free bases. Lupul who opposed him was nicked for six hits, whiffed eight and walked two.

Don Smith carried off hitting honors for the day with two in three trips to the dish. Three of his wits went for two bases. Wismer and Carlson were next best with one in two.

British, American Teams Start Play For Famed Trophy

Helen Jacobs, Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold Will Play One-Two Singles For Yankee Squad.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—Helen Jacobs, United States champion for the last three years, and Mrs. Ethel Burkhardt Arnold of Los Angeles, Wednesday were named as the No. one and No. two singles players for America in Wightman Cup tennis series with Great Britain, starting Friday at Forest Hills.

Mrs. Sarah Palfrey Fabyan of Brookline, Mass., No. two player last year, was dropped to No. three.

Miss Jacobs will oppose Katherine Stammers of England in the opening match of the two-day series with Mrs. Arnold, a sensation in Eastern grass court championships this season, meeting Dorothy Round in the second duel.

Friday's schedule will conclude with a doubles match in which Miss Jacobs and Mrs. Fabyan will team up against Miss Stammers and Freda James.

On Saturday, Mrs. Fabyan will play Mrs. Phyllis Mudford King in the first singles match, after which Miss Jacobs will meet Miss Round and Mrs. Arnold will face Miss Stammers.

The final match of the series, in doubles, will pit Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles and Dorothy Andrus of Stamford, Conn., against Nancy Lyle and Evelyn Dearman.

The United States will be seeking its fifth successive victory over the British in the series.

ORANGE CRUSH TO PLAY PATS

Orange Crush softball team, having defeated Canmore 6-5 in the first round of the provincial ladies softball championship have only one more obstacle to overcome to repeat their last year's performance and cop the Northern Alberta championship.

Crushites have now been ordered to meet Muttart Lumber Pats for the honor of meeting the winner of the south-central region in the final for the provincial championship. It is generally conceded that the winner of the final game will stand a splendid chance of going the whole distance. The Pats are also eagerly bunch of ball tossers, and Orange Crush will have to be at their best to take the decision.

Hearts Practice

Hearts Soccer Football club will hold a practice at Victoria High school on Thursday night at seven o'clock. All members are urged to be on hand as the team to play Callies Saturday will be selected. Players are asked to meet at the Leland at 6:30 o'clock.

Swim Star Tosses Defi At Both Nelson, Young

Offers $1,000 Side Bet For Race Anywhere, at Any Time

TORONTO, Aug. 15—Gianni Gambi, powerful little Italian swimmer, has offered to race Marvin Nelson, world champion swimmer, and George Young, former Toronto crawler, for a $1,000 side bet.

"I'll deposit $1,000 in any bank they want to name, and meet them whenever they're ready, preferably in the Canadian National Exhibition swim," he said here Tuesday night.

"The reason I make the challenge is because of every other swimmer entered in the C.N.E. swim. If Nelson is so good that he wants to swim against Young, and if Young is so good that he wants to swim against Nelson, let them settle it.

"Nelson says the Exhibition swim doesn't offer enough. Let him cover by $1,000 or any piece of it he wants, to boost the winner's stake." he challenged. "In other words, put up or shut up. That goes for Young, too. They know where to get me; let them accept or quit talking from now on."

Yankees Lose To Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—New York Yankees failed to overcome the combined jinx of Mel Harder's flinging and Lefty Gomez's inability to work as a relief hurler Wednesday and Cleveland Indians pulled out a 7-6 victory in the ninth inning.

The Yanks, after getting only two hits in five frames, put the blast on Harder to tie the count in the eighth inning and go ahead in the ninth.

New Yorkers Take Opener But Drop Second Game By Shutout Score of 3-0; Paul Dean Mauled.

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—St. Louis Cardinals and New York Giants packed the Polo Grounds with thrills and people Wednesday, but after 4½ hours of baseball they wound up exactly where they started.

The Giants won the first game of the doubleheader 6-4, the Cards the second 3-0.

The Giants mauled Paul Dean for five runs on five hits in the first two innings of the opener, sewing away the duel when Joe Moore slapped a home run into the stands with two on in the second. Ed Heusser, a rookie right hander, pitched the last six innings for the Cards.

Wild Bill Hallahan allowed 10 hits in the second game while the Cards were nicking unluckily Clyde Castleman for five, but he hit the first home run of his long major league career in the second with none on.

Hallahan had to be rescued in the ninth after he walked three to fill the bases with one out, bringing Paul Dean back into action as relief.

Dodgers Whip Chicago Twice

BROOKLYN, N.Y., Aug. 15—Brooklyn Dodgers bowled over Chicago Cubs in both ends of a doubleheader, 9-5 and 3-2 Wednesday.

Watson Clark's fine relief hurling and a couple of late assaults on Larry French and Charley Root set the first game pace.

The Cubs had tied the nightcap twice, Brooklyn went ahead in the seventh. Fred Fitzsimmons protected that lead after Dazzy Vance lost it in a relief role.

First game:

Brooklyn	310	000	23x—9	16	3

Lee, French, Root, Shoun and Hartnett; Babich, Munns, Clark and Lopez.

Gordon Wallace Agrees to Meet Ottawa Fighter

VANCOUVER, Aug. 15—Jack Allen, manager for Gordon Wallace, Canadian welterweight boxing champion, announced last night he had accepted an offer from Tommy Gorman for a title bout in Montreal with Eddie Carroll of Ottawa.

Allen said, however, the match would have to be billed within the next three weeks as Wallace is tentatively slated to meet World Welterweight Champion Barney Ross, of Chicago, here the last week of September.

Wallace has already opened training in anticipation of the match, his manager said.

Wins Richest Harness Prize

Greyhound, brilliant speedster from the E. J. Baker stables of St. Charles, Ill., yesterday raced to victory in the richest of light harness races—the $33,000 Hambletonian stakes. The grey colt won the event in two straight heats.

RICH HARNESS HORSE STAKES TO GREYHOUND

Aptly - Named Colt Takes $33,000 Purse in Two Straight Heats

GOSHEN, N.Y., Aug. 15.—Breaking the hearts of his rivals with a great stretch drive, Greyhound, aptly-named colt from E. J. Baker's St. Charles, Ill., barns Wednesday lived up to pre-race predictions as he won the $33,000 Hambletonian, richest of the light harness horse racing stakes.

Odds-on-choice of a cosmopolitan crowd of nearly 10,000, the speedy Grey carried off the first place prize of $18,670 in two heats. It was the first time the race had been won in straight heats since Walter Cox drove Walter Dear to victory in 1932.

For three-quarters of a mile of each heat, Greyhound, driven by Indianapolis master reinsman, Sep Palin, appeared a beaten trotter. Then, with the closing dash, the son of Guy Abbey jumped to the front and won much as he pleased.

Greyhound stepped over the first mile in 2:02¼ to beat Peter Tipton. He came from 10 lengths back at the half to finish five lengths clear of Lyndell Worthy, an outsider, trotting the mile in 2:03¾.

Steve O'Neill On Trial Basis Only In Cleveland Post

Evans Is Scheduled to Be Next to Go in Big Club Shakeup

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—Dismissal of Walter Johnson as field manager of the Cleveland Indians in favor of Steve O'Neill, pilot pro tem, is only the start.

A house cleaning at League park here is to extend from the front office to the peanut purveyors.

Present plans of the directors do not call for the retention of Billy Evans as general manager following the expiration of his contract on November 1. After 22 years of American League umpiring and sports writing, Evans became business head of the club when a group of millionaires purchased it from Mrs. James C. Dunn in 1927. Evans was paid $30,000 a year then, but was cut two years ago, and is drawing $17,500 this year.

Walter H. McNichols, a holdover from the dynasty of the late James C. Dunn, has triggered as business manager under the current ownership.

WILL MOVE UP

If is probable than an executive position will be given Cyril C. Slapnicka, now chief of scouts, who discovered Hal Trosky, the young first baseman, and others.

Johnson is to spend the rest of the season inspecting young Indians now with farm clubs. President Alva Bradley and other directors are urging Johnson to remain with the Indians in some capacity. It may be that the Big Train will, and that he will not be in charge of recruiting and signing the personnel or will work with Slapnicka along that line.

O'NEILL ON TRIAL

The remaining eight weeks of the season will determine the fate as a major league pilot of O'Neill, who caught the Cleveland club to its only pennant in 1920, and handled International league and American association outfits for five years.

Unless something startling happens within the next eight weeks, several Indians will be on the market. Johnson still has the directors' ears, and made several recommendations in stepping down as field manager.

It is known that Johnson believes that the Cleveland catching alone is enough to beat the outfit.

Johnson was frightfully disappointed in Pitcher Monte Pearson, from whom part in spots he raised frail Mel Harder finds it difficult to finish games in hot weather. Johnson does not rate either Willis Hudlin or Oral Hildebrand with top flight American league flingers. Pitcher Joe has been a long time developing into a star. The other pitchers are problem children.

It is no secret that Johnson considers Odell Hale an unnatural ball player defensively. The reserve outfielders, Milt Galatzer and Ab. Wright generally are rated as minor league players.

RETRENCHING CAMPAIGN

President Bradley has reached the conclusion that there is too much help at League park everywhere outside of the playing line, the only place where it is needed, and that the surplus hands have been too busy helping those required to man the yard to fresh hands of pinochle, or something like that.

There is to be a wholesale slashing of salaries, including those of several well-paid athletes.

Owing to his lack of hustle, Earl Averill wouldn't have drawn half of this year's salary of $13,500 if Johnson had had his say-so.

O'Neill faces a discouraging task with the pitching staff riddled. Bruce Campbell in a Detroit hospital with cerebral spinal fever, and Averill in a batting slump.

O'Neill has a way with ball players, however, and may instill more scrap and hustle into the Indians, a half dozen of whom he guided at Toledo — Bill Knickerbocker, Trosky, Pearson, Hale, Galatzer, and Ralph Winegarner.

Before doing anything else, Johnson is going to repair to his Germantown, Md., farm and think things over.

Johnson never managed a club that finished out of the first division, and was removed here with his aggregation only two games below .500. Barney finished second with Washington in 1926, and third in 1931, and 1932. After taking command of a disrupted Cleveland army in mid-season, 1933, he finished fourth, and did well to wind up third last season.

CLEANED HOUSE

Johnson cleared the Cleveland club of disgruntled players and those whose presence he did not consider did the Indians any good — Eddie Morgan, Bill Cissell, Roy Spencer, Dick Porter, Bob Weiland, Glenn Myatt, and Willie Kamm. Kamm no lower is playing, and the others, except Myatt, are in the minors. Johnson enforced discipline on a club that had not known the meaning of the word for years.

Johnson strung with the youngsters and made an earnest endeavor to build.

President Bradley failed to back him as fully as he might have, particularly in the case of Kamm, in which Johnson for the reason at all was dragged before Judge Landis for the first time in his life.

Dame Fortune gave Johnson few breaks over a long period of years.

The Big Train spent his best years pitching for Washington clubs that habitually were in the cellar. He drew just $1800 for his first season with the Senators in 1907. He was paid just $12,000 for winning 36 games for them in 1913, his best year. He was far past his peak before he saw a $20,000 contract, which is the most he ever drew either as a player or a manager.

SACRIFICE RECEIPTS

Johnson waited 17 years to get in a world series and then a couple of days after he behind him cost him his first start in one series in 7 innings. He got one of his few breaks when the ball that struck that pebble in front of Freddie Lindstrom in the 12th round of the deciding game with the Giants in 1924.

Barney's legs were so bad that they had to be taped when he twice beat Pittsburgh in the series of 1925, and he lost in his last great effort in the final of that year's fall fashion show.

I doubt that any manager could have done better with this year's Cleveland club. It was over-rated and on top of that badly crippled.

Johnson, one of the great idols of the game, bows out as just another sacrifice to gate receipts. It was the fact that the Indians and the league leading and hot Detroit Tigers drew only 7000 persons on Sunday, July 28, that hastened his departure.

Cleveland owners turned out to be like most of the rest. They backed their manager no matter how painful until swaddled in the vicinity of the bucks office.

B. C. Minister Wins In Seniors Tourney

VICTORIA, Aug. 15.—Hon. John Hart, British Columbia minister of finance, can hit a golf ball as well as prepare a budget.

He is a semi-finalist in the Pacific northwest seniors' golf tournament, having scored a 19th hole victory over A. T. Coward, Victoria, Wednesday.

Old Golfer Dead

DEAL, Eng., Aug. 15. — Harry Hunter, one of the grand old men of British professional golf, died recently. He was 75. A native of Edinburgh he came to Deal 43 years ago to help set out the Royal Cinque Ports Golf Club. He has been professional and greenkeeper at the club ever since.

Point of Honor

LONDON, Aug. 15.— Dorothy Round is playing tennis for Britain in the Wightman Cup matches against the United States only because she thinks the team needs her. Actually she's tired of tennis. "I've been playing almost steadily winter and summer for two years —and I'm tired."

SOCIETY ACE TO COMPETE BANFF MEET

New York Woman Golfer Enters Tourney For Brewster Cup

BANFF, Aug. 15—Strong enough competition to remove the Brewster Cup from Canada to the United States for the second successive year is expected to be provided this year by Miss Dorothy Clemens, New York social registerite, who has been playing the Banff Springs course in the low nineties and Wednesday signified her intention of extending her visit at the Banff Springs Hotel long enough to compete in the Sixth Annual Golf Week from Aug. 25 to 31.

HAS FINE RECORD.

This huge and ornate cup, main trophy up for competition for women during the week which will see the distribution of more than 50 golfing prizes, would make a nice addition to Miss Clemens' steadily growing collection of silverware. She has won and re-won the championship of Sleepy Hollow Country Club, outside of New York, has filled her place capably on the Westchester County Golf team, has two or three cups for driving three on four marking foursome victories, and for three years has won the invitation tournament at Mountain Lake Club in Florida, gaining permanent possession of the cup which Mrs. Glenna Collett's name is inscribed as a previous winner.

Asked if she had won any other cups, she mentioned about a dozen for horsemanship and one about two inches high for swimming, then laughingly, "I am very proud, as I got it for playing the piano at school, my only aesthetic accomplishment."

QUALIFY AUG. 26

The qualifying round for the Brewster Cup, 18 holes, 16 to qualify and two flights of 16 each, will start on Monday, Aug. 26, at 2.00 p.m. The remaining competitors will play off 18 holes medal play, day and time to be announced later by pro, with prizes for winners and runner-up.

The final for the Brewster Cup will be on Saturday morning, Aug. 31, with miniature of cup and prize to winner and prize to runner-up. The finals of the Brewster Cup flights will be the same morning with golf for winner and runner-up in each flight.

It is not known if last year's winner, Mrs. L. Kaye of Louisville, Ky., will compete again.

SHIP BLUEBIRD ON WEDNESDAY

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Aug. 15. Sir Malcolm Campbell's mighty Bluebird, racing car with which he will make new attempts on the land speed record in Utah next month, was shipped to the United States aboard the Aquitania Wednesday. One of Sir Malcolm's mechanics went along with the huge machine.

Sir Malcolm himself and the other mechanics will leave for New York next Wednesday.

Touring Canuck Athletes Leave

MONTREAL, Aug. 15.—On their way to Moscow, a party of Canadian athletes left Wednesday for Liverpool aboard the liner Duchess of York. They were invited by the international sports council on physical culture through the Workers' Sports Association of Canada.

Members of the party include B. Philipovitch, Meyronne, Sask.

"All Pay" Affair

GLASGOW, Aug. 15.—There will be no free admissions to the Jubilee Fund Soccer International match between Scotland and England at Hampden Park, Aug. 21. Everyone, including the Scottish Football Association Council, league management committee club directors, and even the sports writers, must pay.

BASEBALL'S BIG SIX

After yielding his place to Buddy Myer for one day, Joe Vosmik hopped back into the American league batting lead and third place in the Big Six. Vosmik, so far rapped Yankee pitching for a pair of timely hits to three at bats, raised his batting mark and his average two points to .346. Myer hit one out of four and pulled back to .347 mark. Doc Cramer picked up one point to .341 on the week's play, but there was little activity down the batting list. The leaders despite the day's array of double headers.

Soccer Official Dies In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, Aug. 15.—Tommy Tolton, prominent in soccer circles here, and well known in Fort William, where he was proprietor of the Fort William Football Association, died Wednesday morning after a lingering illness. Survivor Tolton, local soccer referee, is a brother.

Marse Joe Opines

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—These are the opinions of Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, Travis Jackson and Pepper Martin have the best throwing arms among baseball players in the National League, Jackson is a far better infielder. Jimmy Dykes gets the ball away faster than any player in the American League. Frank Frisch is also a master at getting the ball away fast.

Joyce Showed 'Em

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Joyce Wethered's golfing tour of United States and Canada was not only a financial success but an artistic one. In a match at Pittsfield, Mass., the British star cut eight strokes off women's par with a par round of 79. She missed a seven-foot putt on the home green for a 40.

Young Cadet Takes Brier Rifle Match At Dominion Shoot

Cadet McLeod Is Just One Short of Possible In Competition

BY FOSTER BARCLAY

CONNAUGHT RIFLE RANGES, SOUTH MARCH, Ont., Aug. 15—Curly-headed Royal Military College Cadet R. D. McLeod, 20-year-old Saint John rifleman, Wednesday shot his way to the top of the Macdonald's Brier match at the annual meeting of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association.

The maritime cadet, sniped a possible 99 over 300 yards and added 49 at 600 for 99 of a possible century and led more than 400 of Canada's sharpshooters.

FIVE SCORED 98

Five riflemen turned in scores of 98, 16 had 97 and nearly a score 96. Those with 98 were: Trooper, D. M. Davis, Calgary; Sergt. Jim Kier, Vancouver; Officer-Cadet E. A. Widdington, Oxford Undergrad; Sergt. J. W. Sharpe, Montreal, and Capt. W. L. Dymond, Toronto.

Sergt. Jimmy Kier, sandy-haired marksman of Vancouver, one of the most consistent shots at the meeting, was baffled by the mirage and lost a longer stage. In nearly every event the coast representative has been in the top dozen but he dropped two points at 600.

Sergt. T. A. Jensen, of Innisfail, Alta., was among those who made 97.

The semi-finals will be played on Friday night at the Connaught green. Woodin and Daizell to one game and Kier and Sharpe, who won their matches, Pte. E. H. Gladwin of Halifax running with 49, one short of possible.

EDMONTON SECOND

Two Ontario marksmen, Sergt. N. L. Beckett of Hamilton, and Lieut. Dick Sterne of Toronto, and three westerners, Lieut. Stephen of Wayne, Alta., Major W. H. Mayhew of Edmonton, and Corp. J. Demoney of Penhold, Alta., tied for second, one point behind the winner.

Five sharpshooters, Pte. J. Thurburn, Esquimalt, B.C., Sergt. Jim Austman, Regina, L.A.C., S. J. Dalton, Ottawa, Lieut. J. A. Bowen of Edmonton, and Lieut. A. Cooper, Pembroke, Ont., were tied with 97.

WIN BRIER EVENT

Victoria Rifles of Montreal triumphed in the Brier team match, winning the shield with 383 points, two more than the 48th Highlanders of Toronto.

Riflemen retired early last night, preparing for the qualifying stage of the Governor-General's match Saturday.

EVERY SHIRT IS ENGLISH RIGMEL SHRUNK

Friday and Saturday

Our buyers went directly to Manchester, England, to buy odd lengths and surplus quantities of superior shirtings. The shirts were made in our own factories $1.98

FABRICS. English Broadcloths, of high count—a richly sheened surface.

Every shirt has the English RIGMEL FINISH—a patented, pre-shrunk process. Instead of harming the fabric, Rigmel finish actually gives it a softer, richer appearance and makes it wear longer.

TAILORING. "Longcliffe" label, carefully tailored by expert shirtmakers to full standard size.

STYLES. Separate collar and collar-attached shirts with soft or starched collars. Separate collar shirts feature both the point and the dashing long point collars.

PATTERNS. Every pattern is WOVEN—not a print in the lot! The fashion-favored stripes, the exclusive checks and fancy patterns, for the new season.

PLAIN WHITE SHIRTS, with two soft collars; also collar attached.

SIZES. A better proportion of shirts in wanted sizes. Because we controlled their making! Sizes 14 to 17, and sleeve lengths from 31 to 35.

Extra Salespeople — Extra Space — Extra Cashiers — Extra Parcellers! Sizes Clearly Indicated by Cards on the Counters
